BZZZ BZZZ BZZZ

The six o'clock alarm rang and I was just in the middle of a dream — on the beach in St. Thomas soaking the sun while sipping a pina colada. I reached over to hit snooze — by reflex — and decided to lavish myself with ten more minutes of sleep. But my time was up soon enough.

Out of bed and into the shower I spring. I turned on the faucet and began to play the familiar "too game" to see if the water was warm yet. After completing the first ritual of the day, I leaped out of the shower and into my jeans and tennis shoes, then charged bravely forward to conquer the day. Time was running low, just like my gas tank, but I sped off to school to give myself a fighting chance in the "battle of the parking places."

BZZZ Tardy Bell — just in time! I count the minutes till lunch.

BZZZ Second period done. I make my dash to the cafeteria. Handling books and people like O.J. Simpson I get my sugar fix of donuts and Coca-Cola.

BZZZ Calculus, third period. "I wonder where I'll be munching for lunch." Snap — integrals. I better get this down.

BZZZ Lunch. I run for the car, collect the guys and onto the "McD. steakhouse."

BZZZ Fifth period.

BZZZ Sixth period.

Fashion statements were in abundance on Hart's campus. Those wanting to achieve class wore the Miami influenced colors of white and light pastels. Guys were clad in chinos and crisp designer shirts. Capote shoes and a flat top complete the look. She wears a matching white mini-skirt and studded jacket, glittering earrings and cut-out suede boots creates this classy look.

TOMAH

TOMAHAWK

Busy with both sports and school, Hart's athletes don comfortable athletic wear — jerseys, sweats, letterman's jackets and, of course, Converse high top tennis shoes.

Spirit is not just a fashion statement, but a way of life for some. She, invariably as mascot, wears the traditional Indian costume. Taking spirit seriously, a student garbs himself in red, black and white, always — from his shirt to his jeans to his jacket to his tennis shoes even to his face which proudly displays "Hart" written across his cheeks.

The waves and the sand made a big impact on campus this year, causing students to choose T-shirts, shorts, or bathing suits, and thongs to dress in. And, least we forget, the ever present "cool" shades to protect eyes from the glare off the water and the glare off the school's hallowed halls.

Sophistication was reached by many individuals' fashion statement. She wore a short, black, straight skirt topped with a loose fitting blouse. "Grandma" lace-up, high heeled ankle boots, black leather jacket, headband, personalized hair and unique make-up clinches the look of sophistication. He wears haggie pleated pants, matching shirt, thin tie, short fitted black leather jacket, and hiker boots. Although his clothes shout his individuality, his unconventional hair cut and use of make-up lends him that air of sophistication.

Penguins: This newest teenage hotspot was the social center for many students during lunch, after school, and on weekends. The large assortment of creamy yogurts and tantalizing toppings made it a hit among students and teachers alike.

McDonald's: Anybody who wanted to be "in" went to McDonald's for lunch. Five days a week for 36 weeks of school, upperclassmen converged on the local restaurant, wasting most of their precious lunchtime waiting in line to order their McDLT.

Fun: This winding road led down notorious Pico Canyon where weekend "get-togethers" and joy rides became commonplace among students.

Fine Art

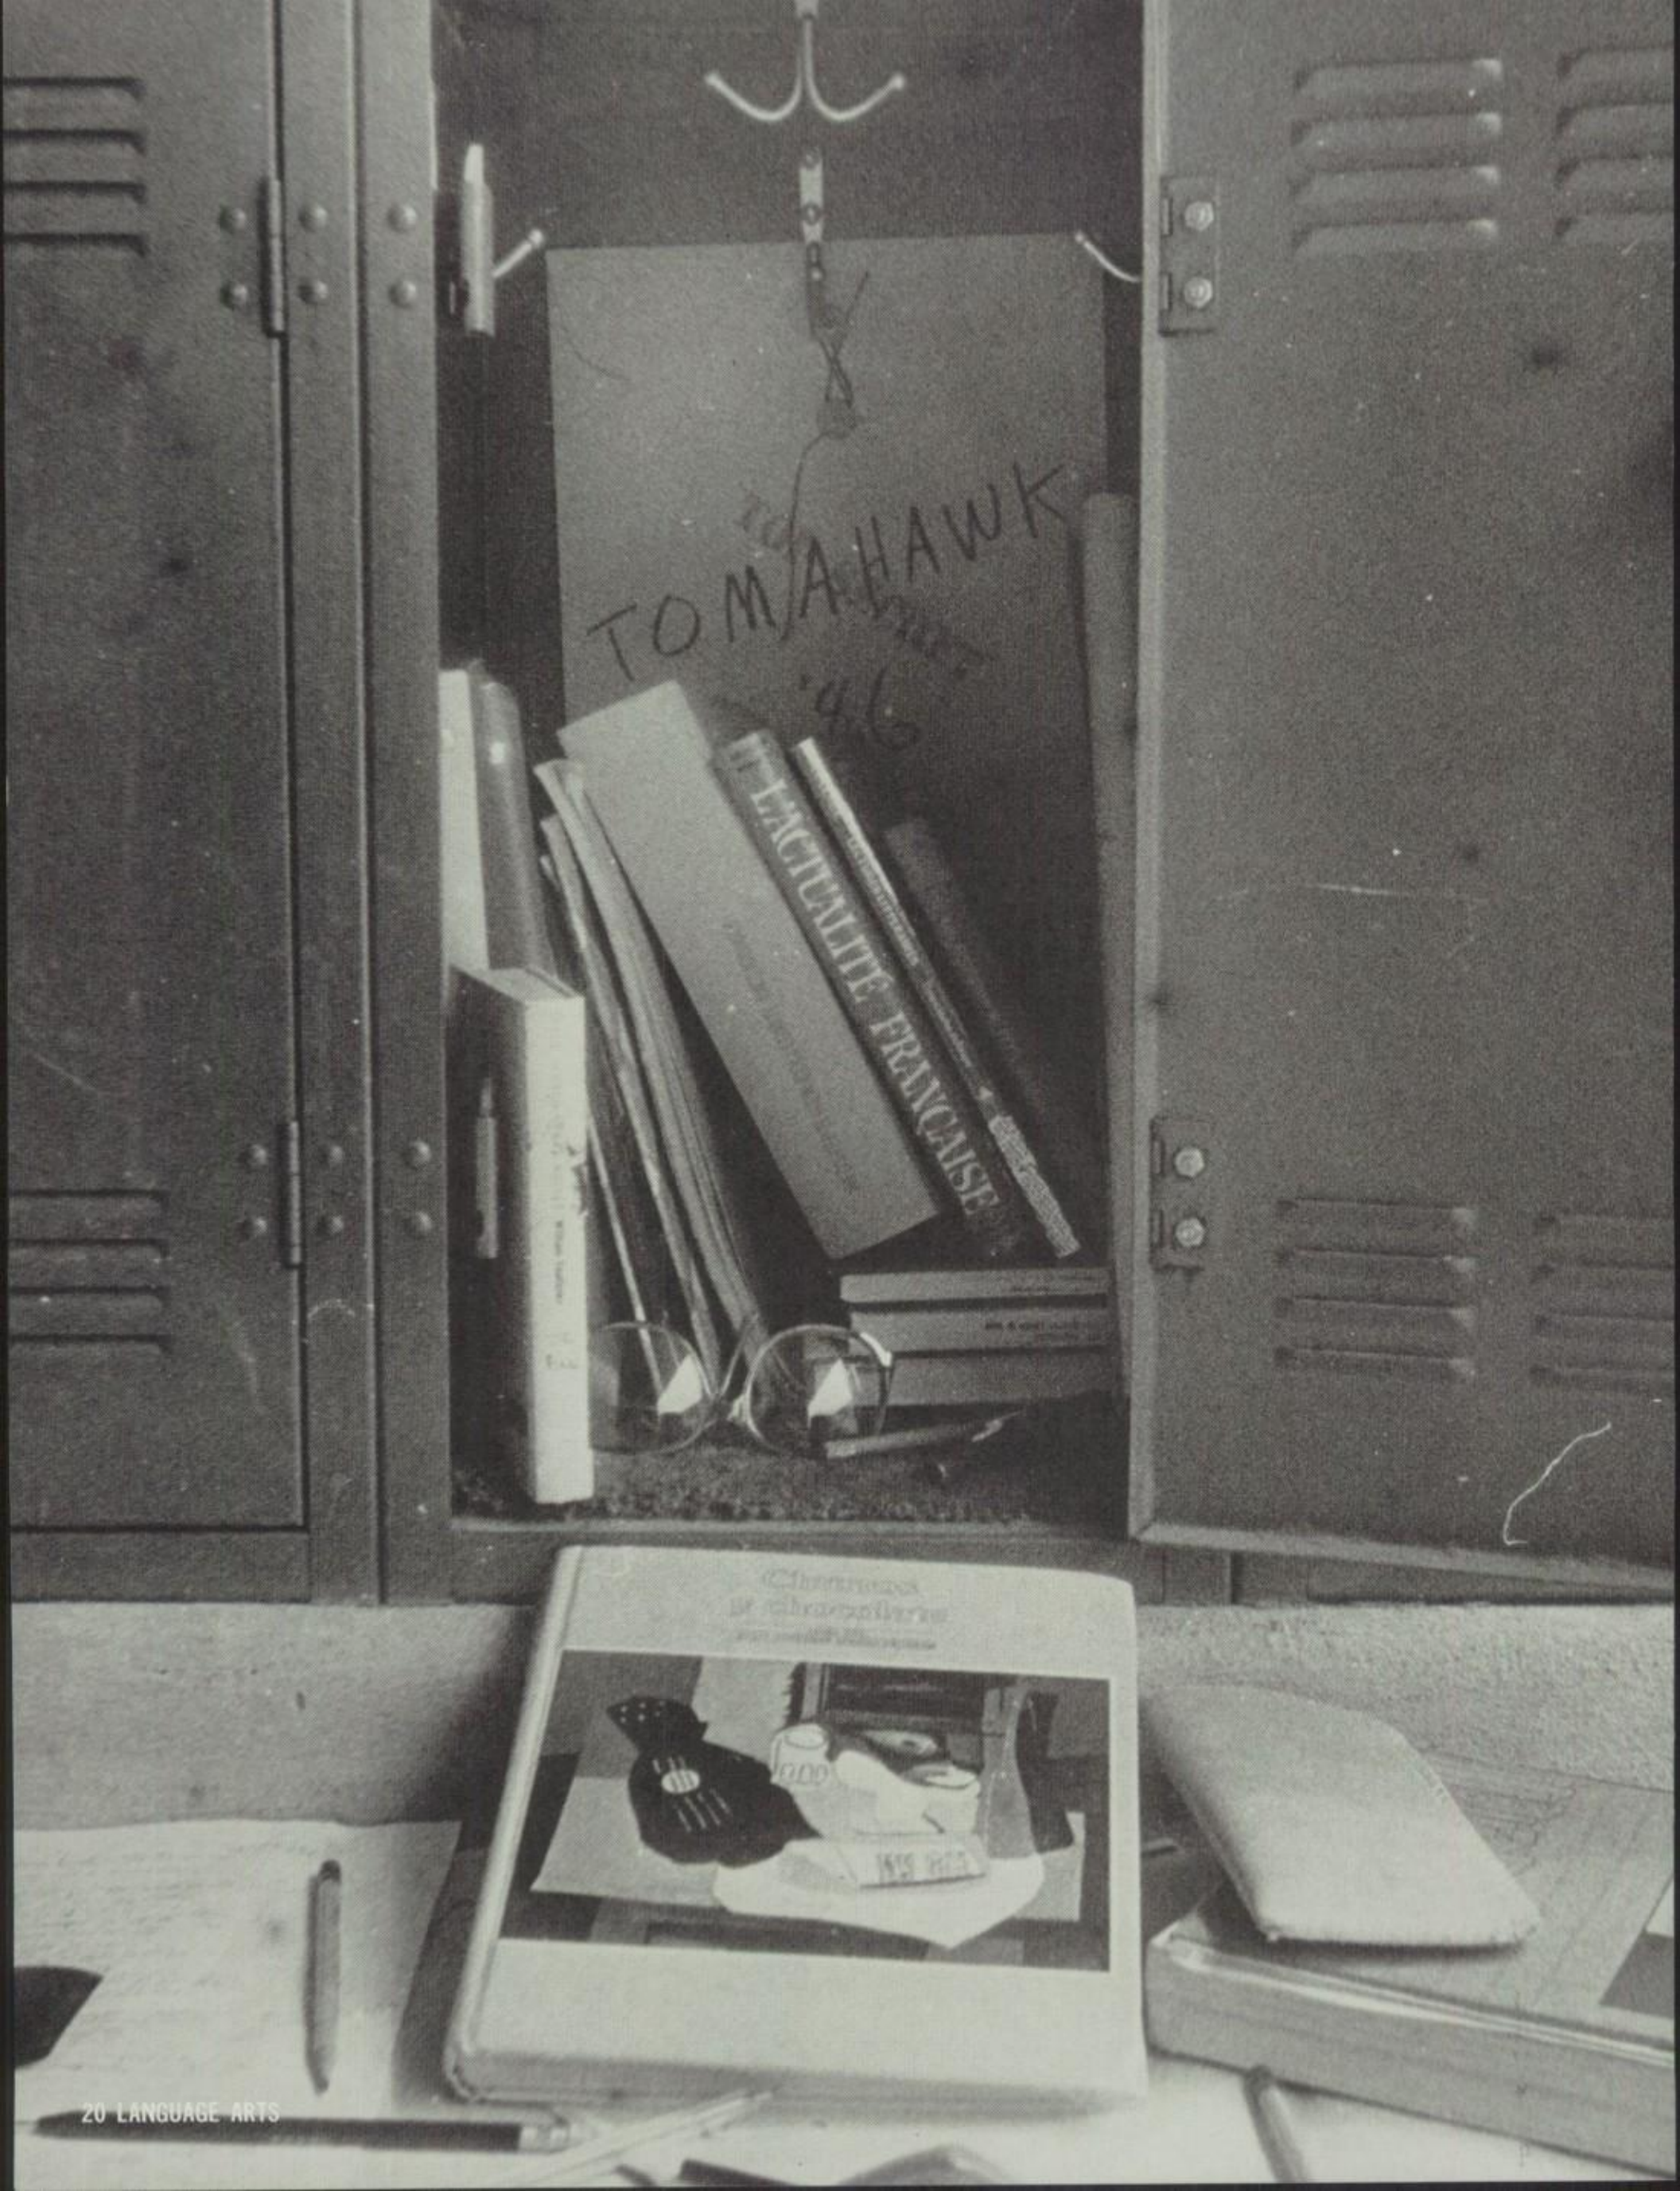

TOP SECRET

TOP SECRET

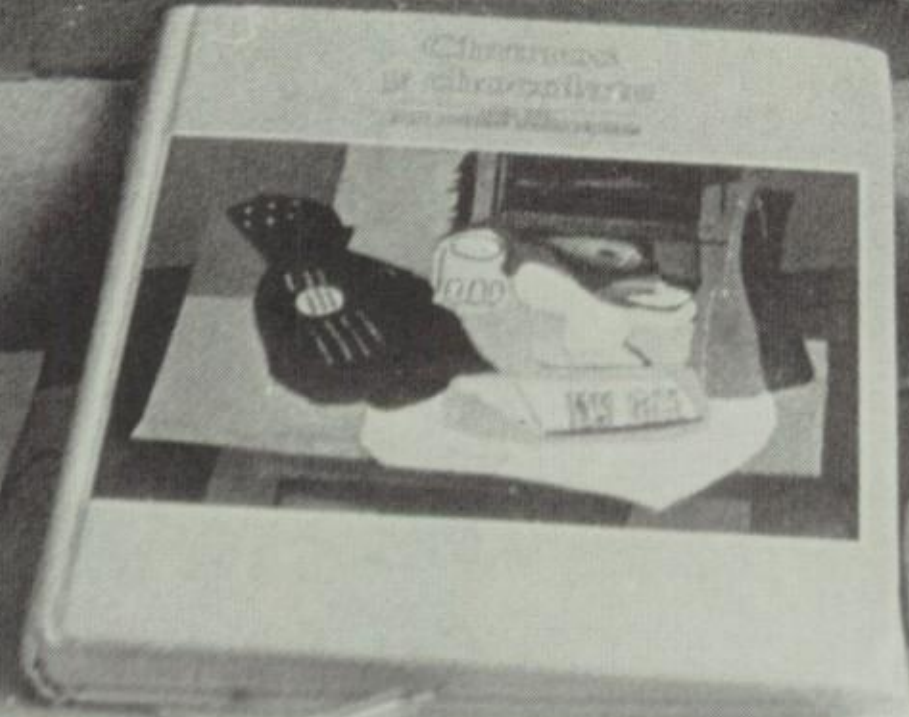

Students here at Hart continued to show a great interest in art and music. The Fine Arts department enabled them to pursue their interests and develop their talents. Enrollment increased again this year—showing an upward trend in student involvement. Leading the Art department, Miss Mary Ann Guho instructed courses in two and three dimensional art, with detailed studies in pencil and ink from a two point perspective. Mrs. Vincent guided the Photo department with her enthusiasm—implanting creative and innovative ideas. This year a new photo-of-the-week display was added outside of the photo room. The music department consisted of choral and instrumental groups—Sound Vibrations, Beginning Choir, and Concert Choir, all under the guidance of Mrs. Starr. The Chieftains Jazz Band, Marching band, and Symphonic band were guided by the peerless Larry Thornton. The Hart band continued its tradition of exceptional instrumental students—comprising the majority of the members in Honors band. The jazz ensemble took first place at the La Mirada competition.

TOP SECRET

Mrs. Loretta Huenink heads the English Department, which this year served two thousand Hart students. To accommodate such numbers the department expanded its faculty to seventeen members with the inclusion of Mr. Gary Hinman and Ms. Heather Sinclair.

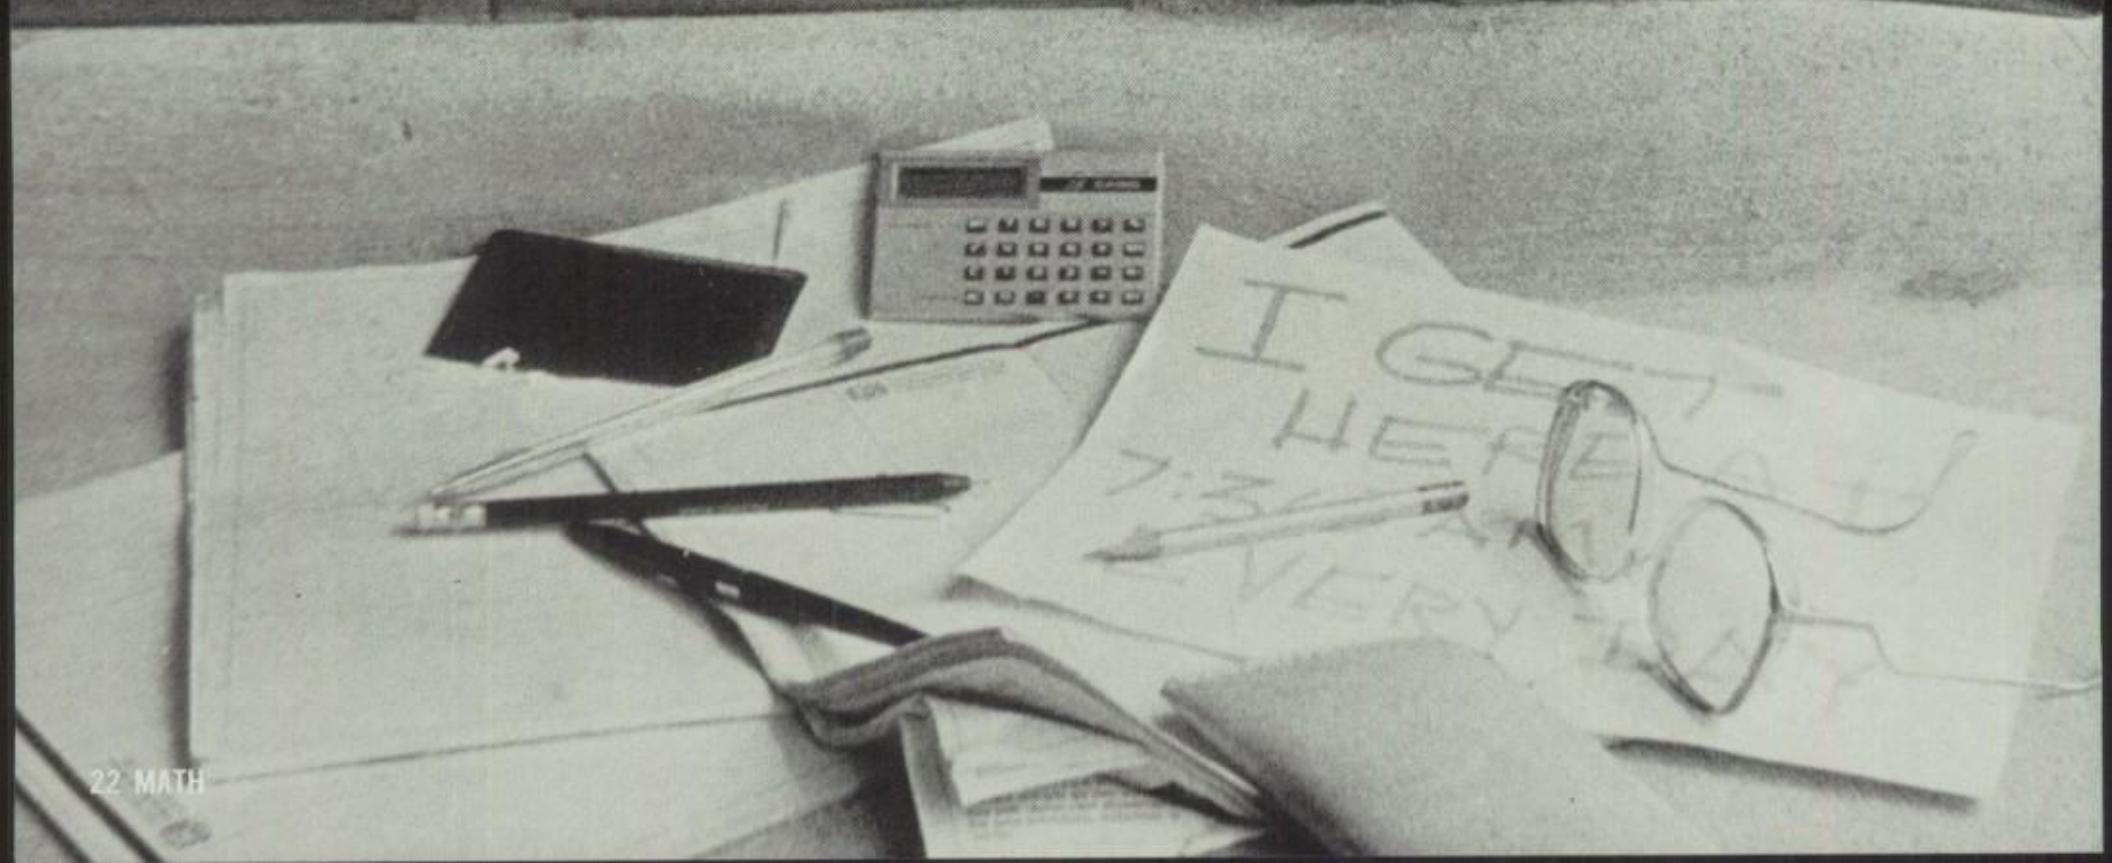

"Publish or perish," as quoted by Mrs. Huenink, was one of the tasks taken on by her Advanced Composition, A.P. class. These well versed students used their talents to compile the article "We Re-member," which has been printed in the senior section of this year's TOMAHAWK.

Film as literature, a part of Mr. Hinman's classes, was not a matter of popcorn and fun. Some of the movies viewed were based on literary works read and discussed in class. Students became aware of and searched for techniques and instances of symbolism, foreshadowing, allusion, and parallel characters in the films.

The Foreign Language Department added Mrs. Juliet Salazar to the list of mighty faculty members. Hart students learning the French or Spanish language were exposed to foreign culture as well.

The study of geography and customs of French and Spanish speaking countries gave foreign language students a better appreciation for the subject. Students who enjoyed and excelled in foreign language study were able to enroll in A.P. Spanish or A.P. French.

The Foreign Language Department is chaired by Mr. Bill Hughes.

Math

TOP SECRET

And so it continues . . . Many have been influenced by the discoveries of Euclid (300 B.C.), Newton (1700 A.D.), and Gauss (1800 A.D.). Now, in 1986, there are those at Hart who have been inspired by the great minds of Rose, Lund, Cheek, et al. Headed by Mrs. Ruth Baker, these teachers of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, analysis, calculus and computers attempt to give their students a better appreciation for the subject.

The Math Department added to its faculty three new teachers: Mrs. Kathy Howell, Mrs. RoseMary Hunt, and Ms. Karen O'Connor. This marked the largest increase in faculty by any department at Hart for 1985-86.

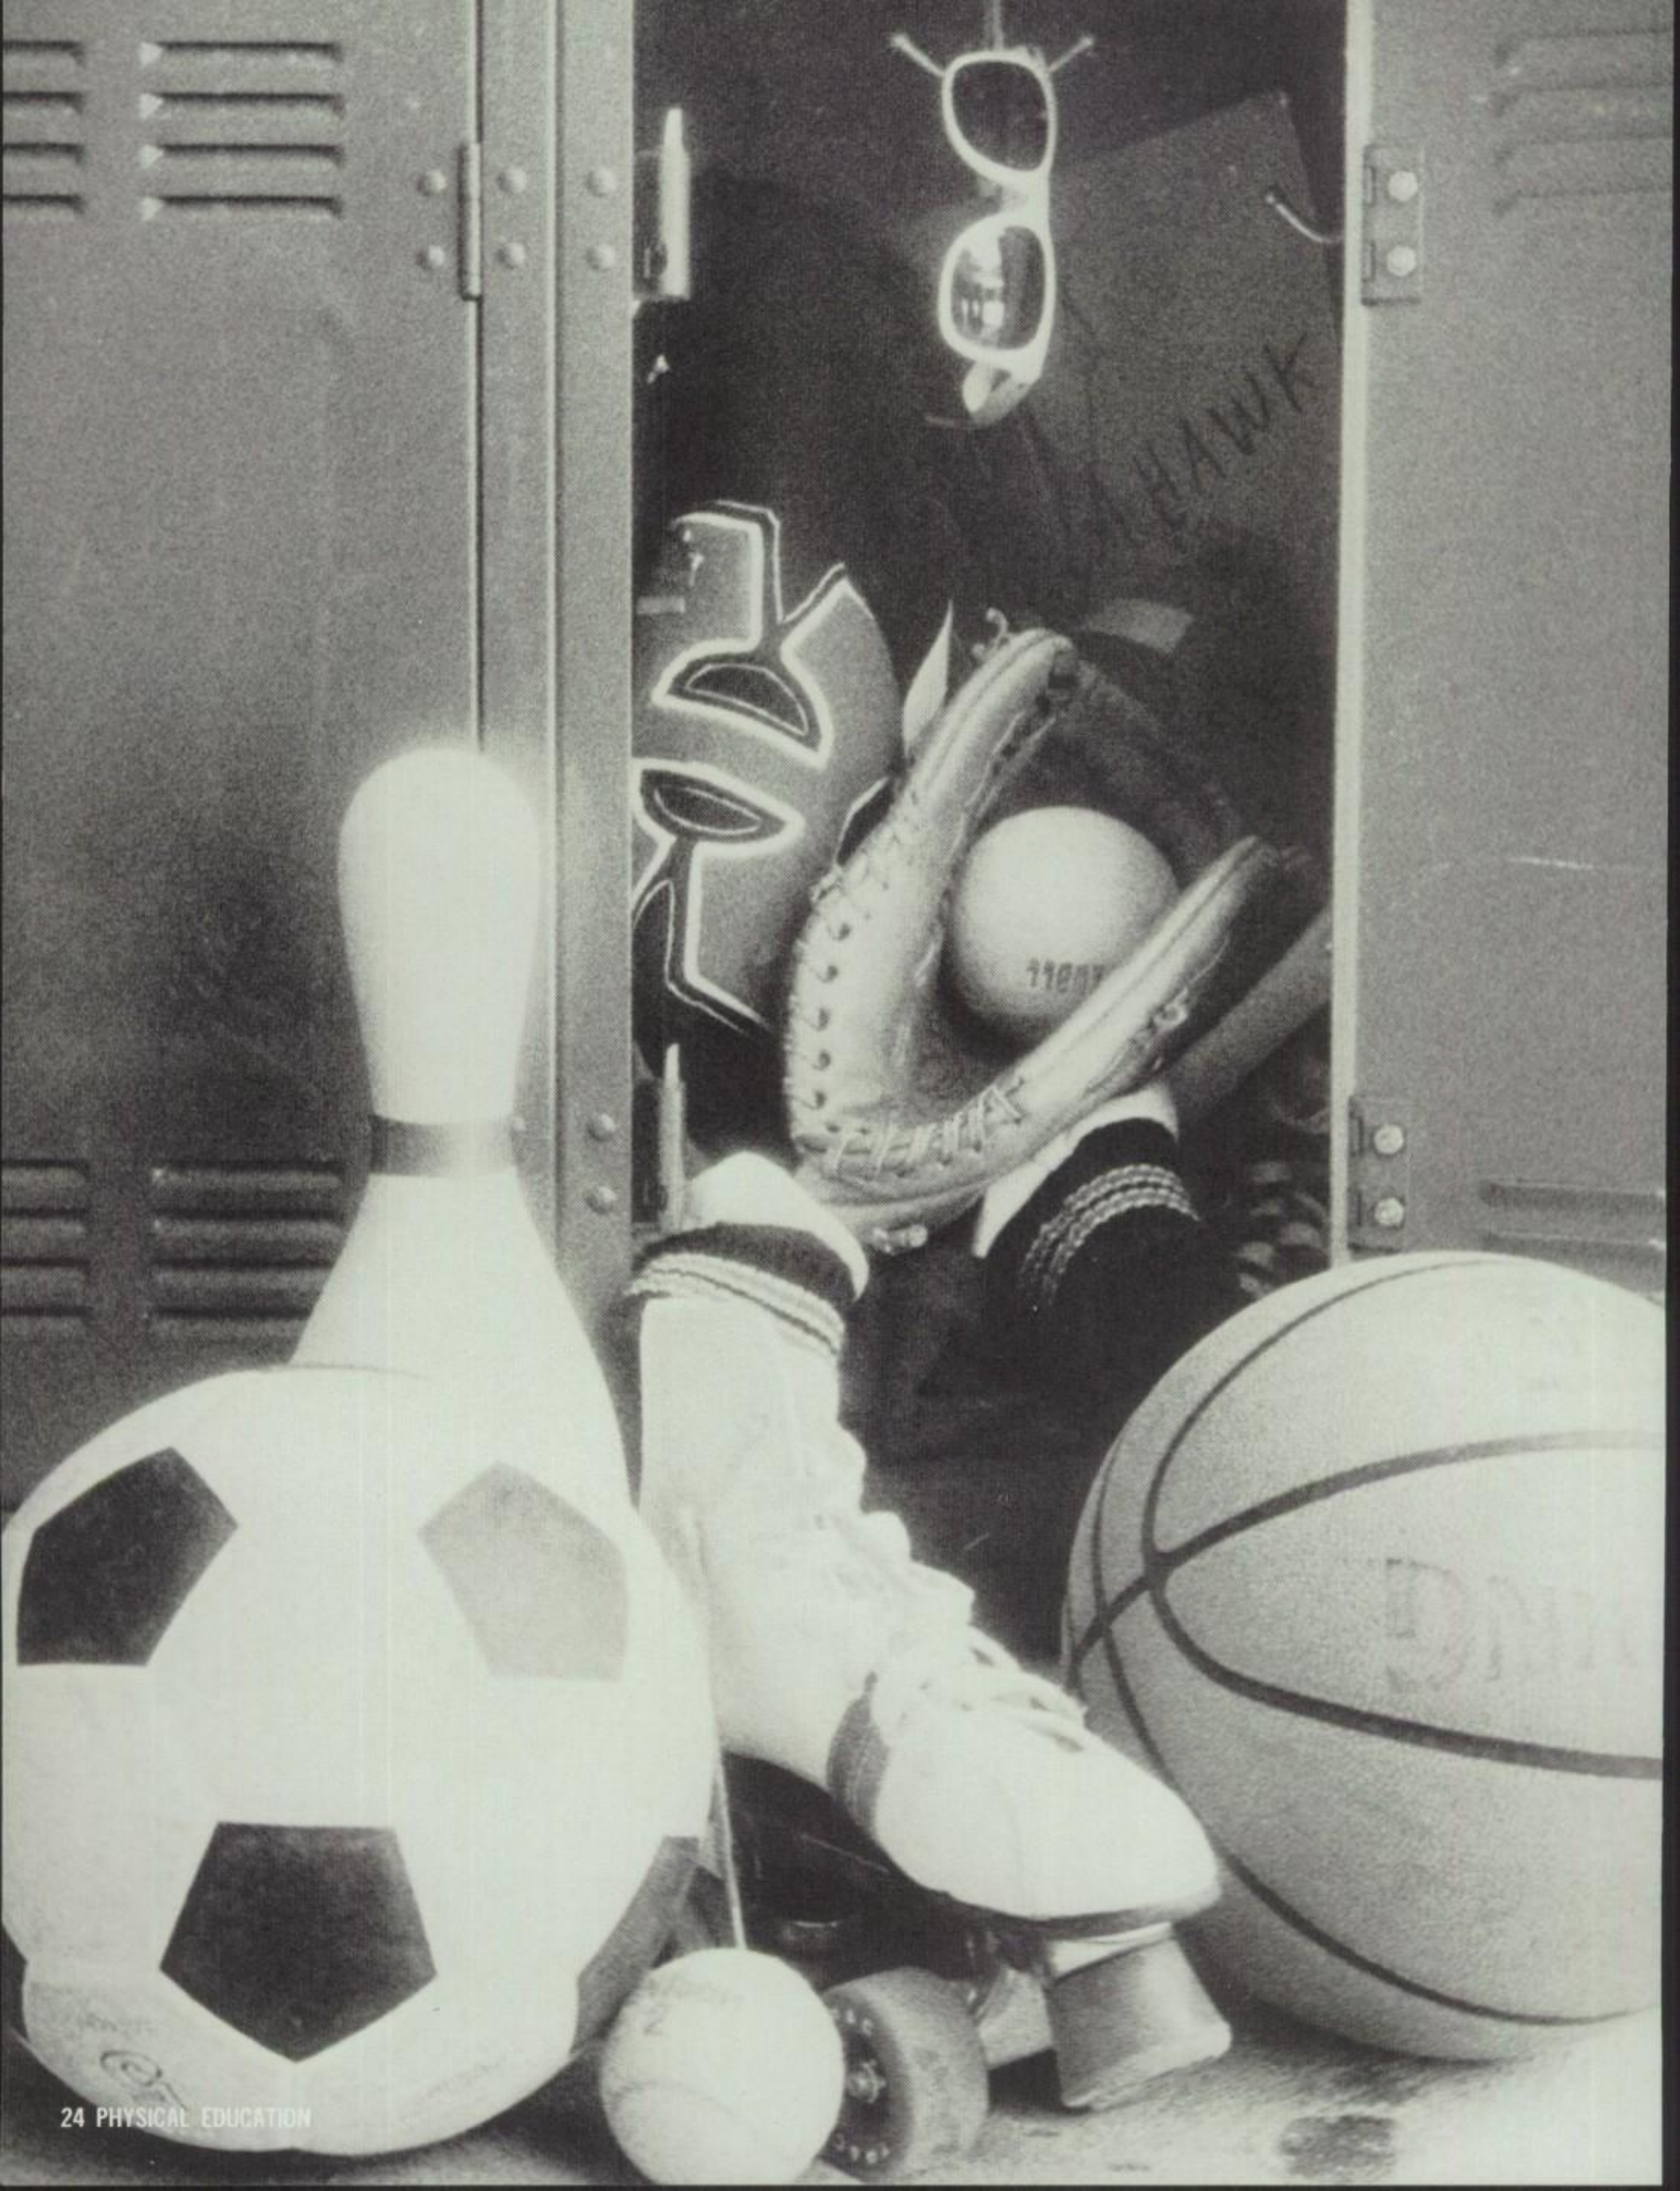

However, the most significant change that occurred this year was the addition of a new computer course. Computer Studies, taught by Mrs. Deloria and Mrs. Hunt, dealt with the basics of computer programming. In learning LOGO, students constructed intricate graphic screens depicting castles, satellites, mountains, and surf boards.

Utilizing a grant through which the Math Department obtained additional computers and software, Mr. Louis' general math class had the opportunity to strengthen their skills in the computer lab. Mrs. Levine (math instructional aide) provided these students with instruction and valuable assistance in the lab, as well.

Physical Education

TOP SECRET

Sounds of up-beat music, eight counts, and groans could be heard in Ms. Nancy Schreiber's aerobic dance classes. Ms. Schreiber was a new Physical Education teacher this year at Hart.

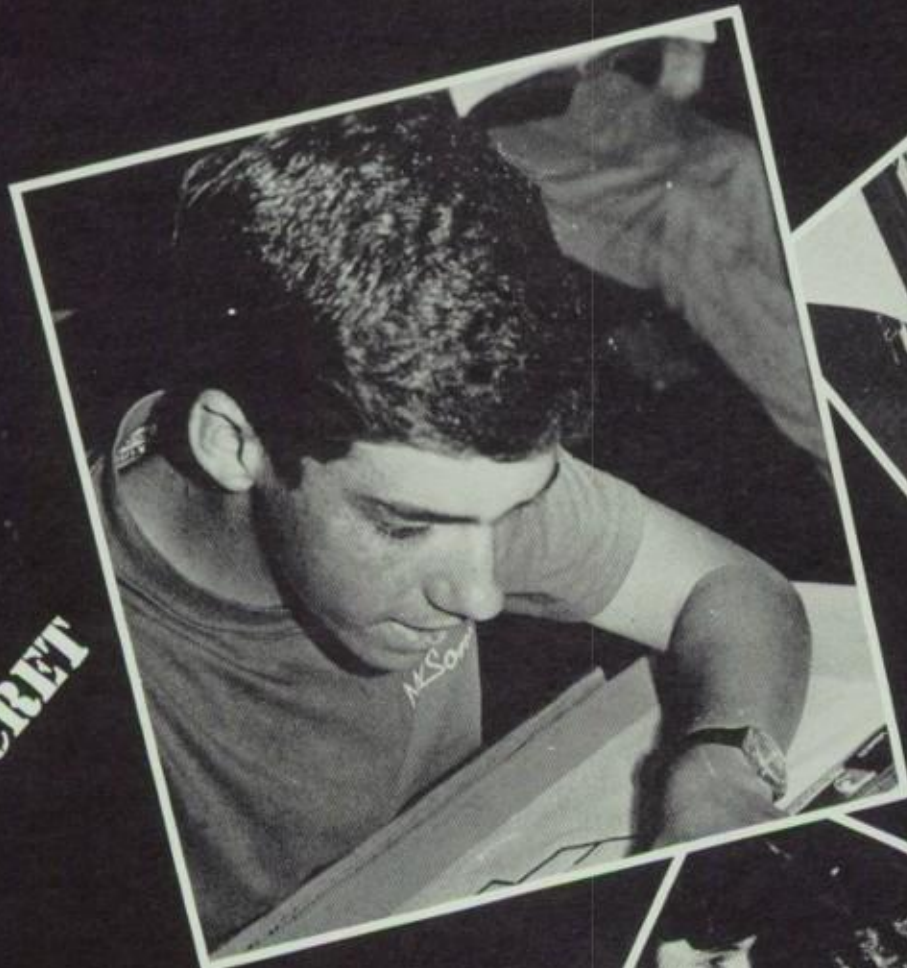

The Physical Education Department, headed by Mr. Weil, added a new course to its curriculum—9th grade P.E. This new course was not just calisthenics, stressing the total concept of fitness. The primary focus was on improving students' quality of life by forming a positive attitude towards daily exercise.

Business, ROP, Practical Arts

TOP SECRET

Business was booming in the F building this year! Courses offered by the Business Department, chaired by Mr. Tony Grande, provide instruction and practice of skills necessary in the world of business.

A new arrival to the Business Department was Mr. Scott Aalund. Also, new to the Business Department was Advanced Word Processing, a course instructed by Mrs. Leathers. Using Wordstar, students were able to write multiple letters by applying "Mail-merge." Students improved their keyboarding speeds by combining the skill of typing and use of controls available in word processing.

Under the direction of Mrs. Greene, the Regional Occupational Program (ROP) students were able to combine classroom instruction with on-the-job training. In the ROP Retail Co-op course taught by Rick Hansmeyer from J.C. Penney, students received three hours of instruction each week with ten supplemented hours paid training at local retail shops.

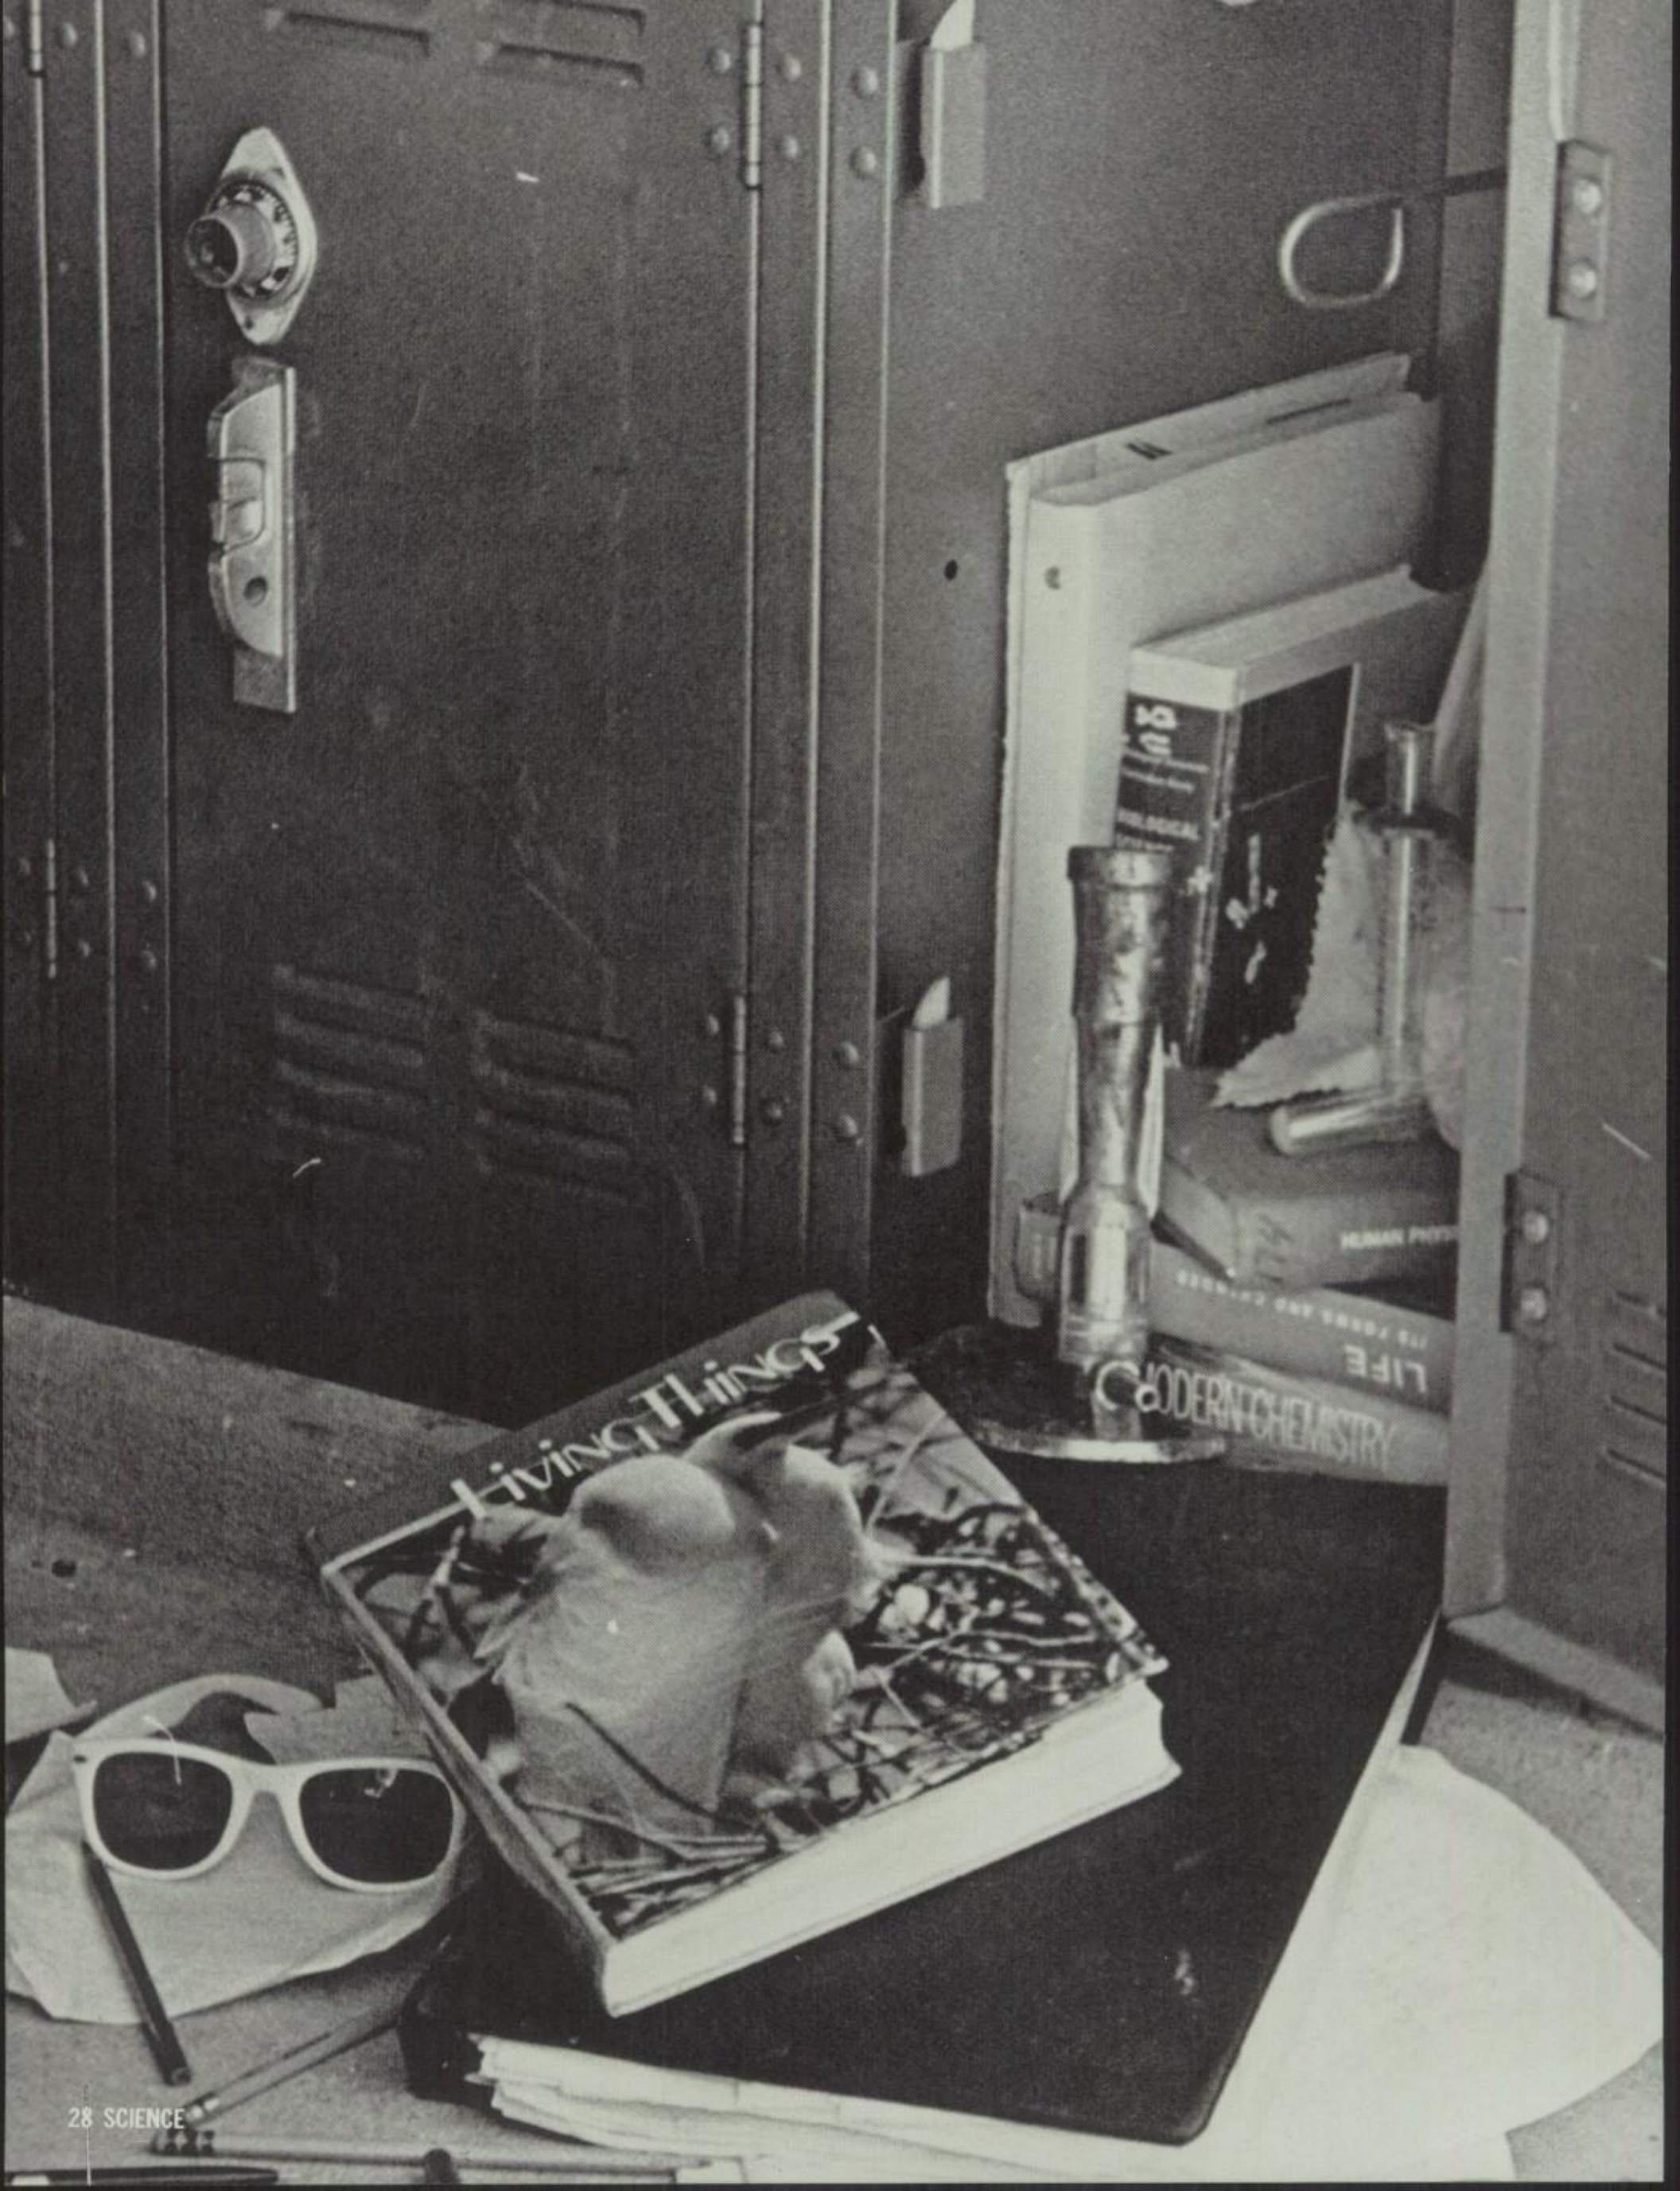

The Fashion and Hotel classes presented the annual Fashion Show at the Ranch House on May 29th. All were invited to observe the skills needed to coordinate such an event.

This year boosted off with a high enrollment of students in the Practical Arts classes. An experienced staff consisting of Mr. Garner, Mr. Born, Mr. Newman and new comer Mr. Honnen teamed up to teach students numerous skills applicable to future careers. Students learned these skills in Drafting, Metal Shop, Auto Shop, Wood Shop, and Graphic Arts.

Science

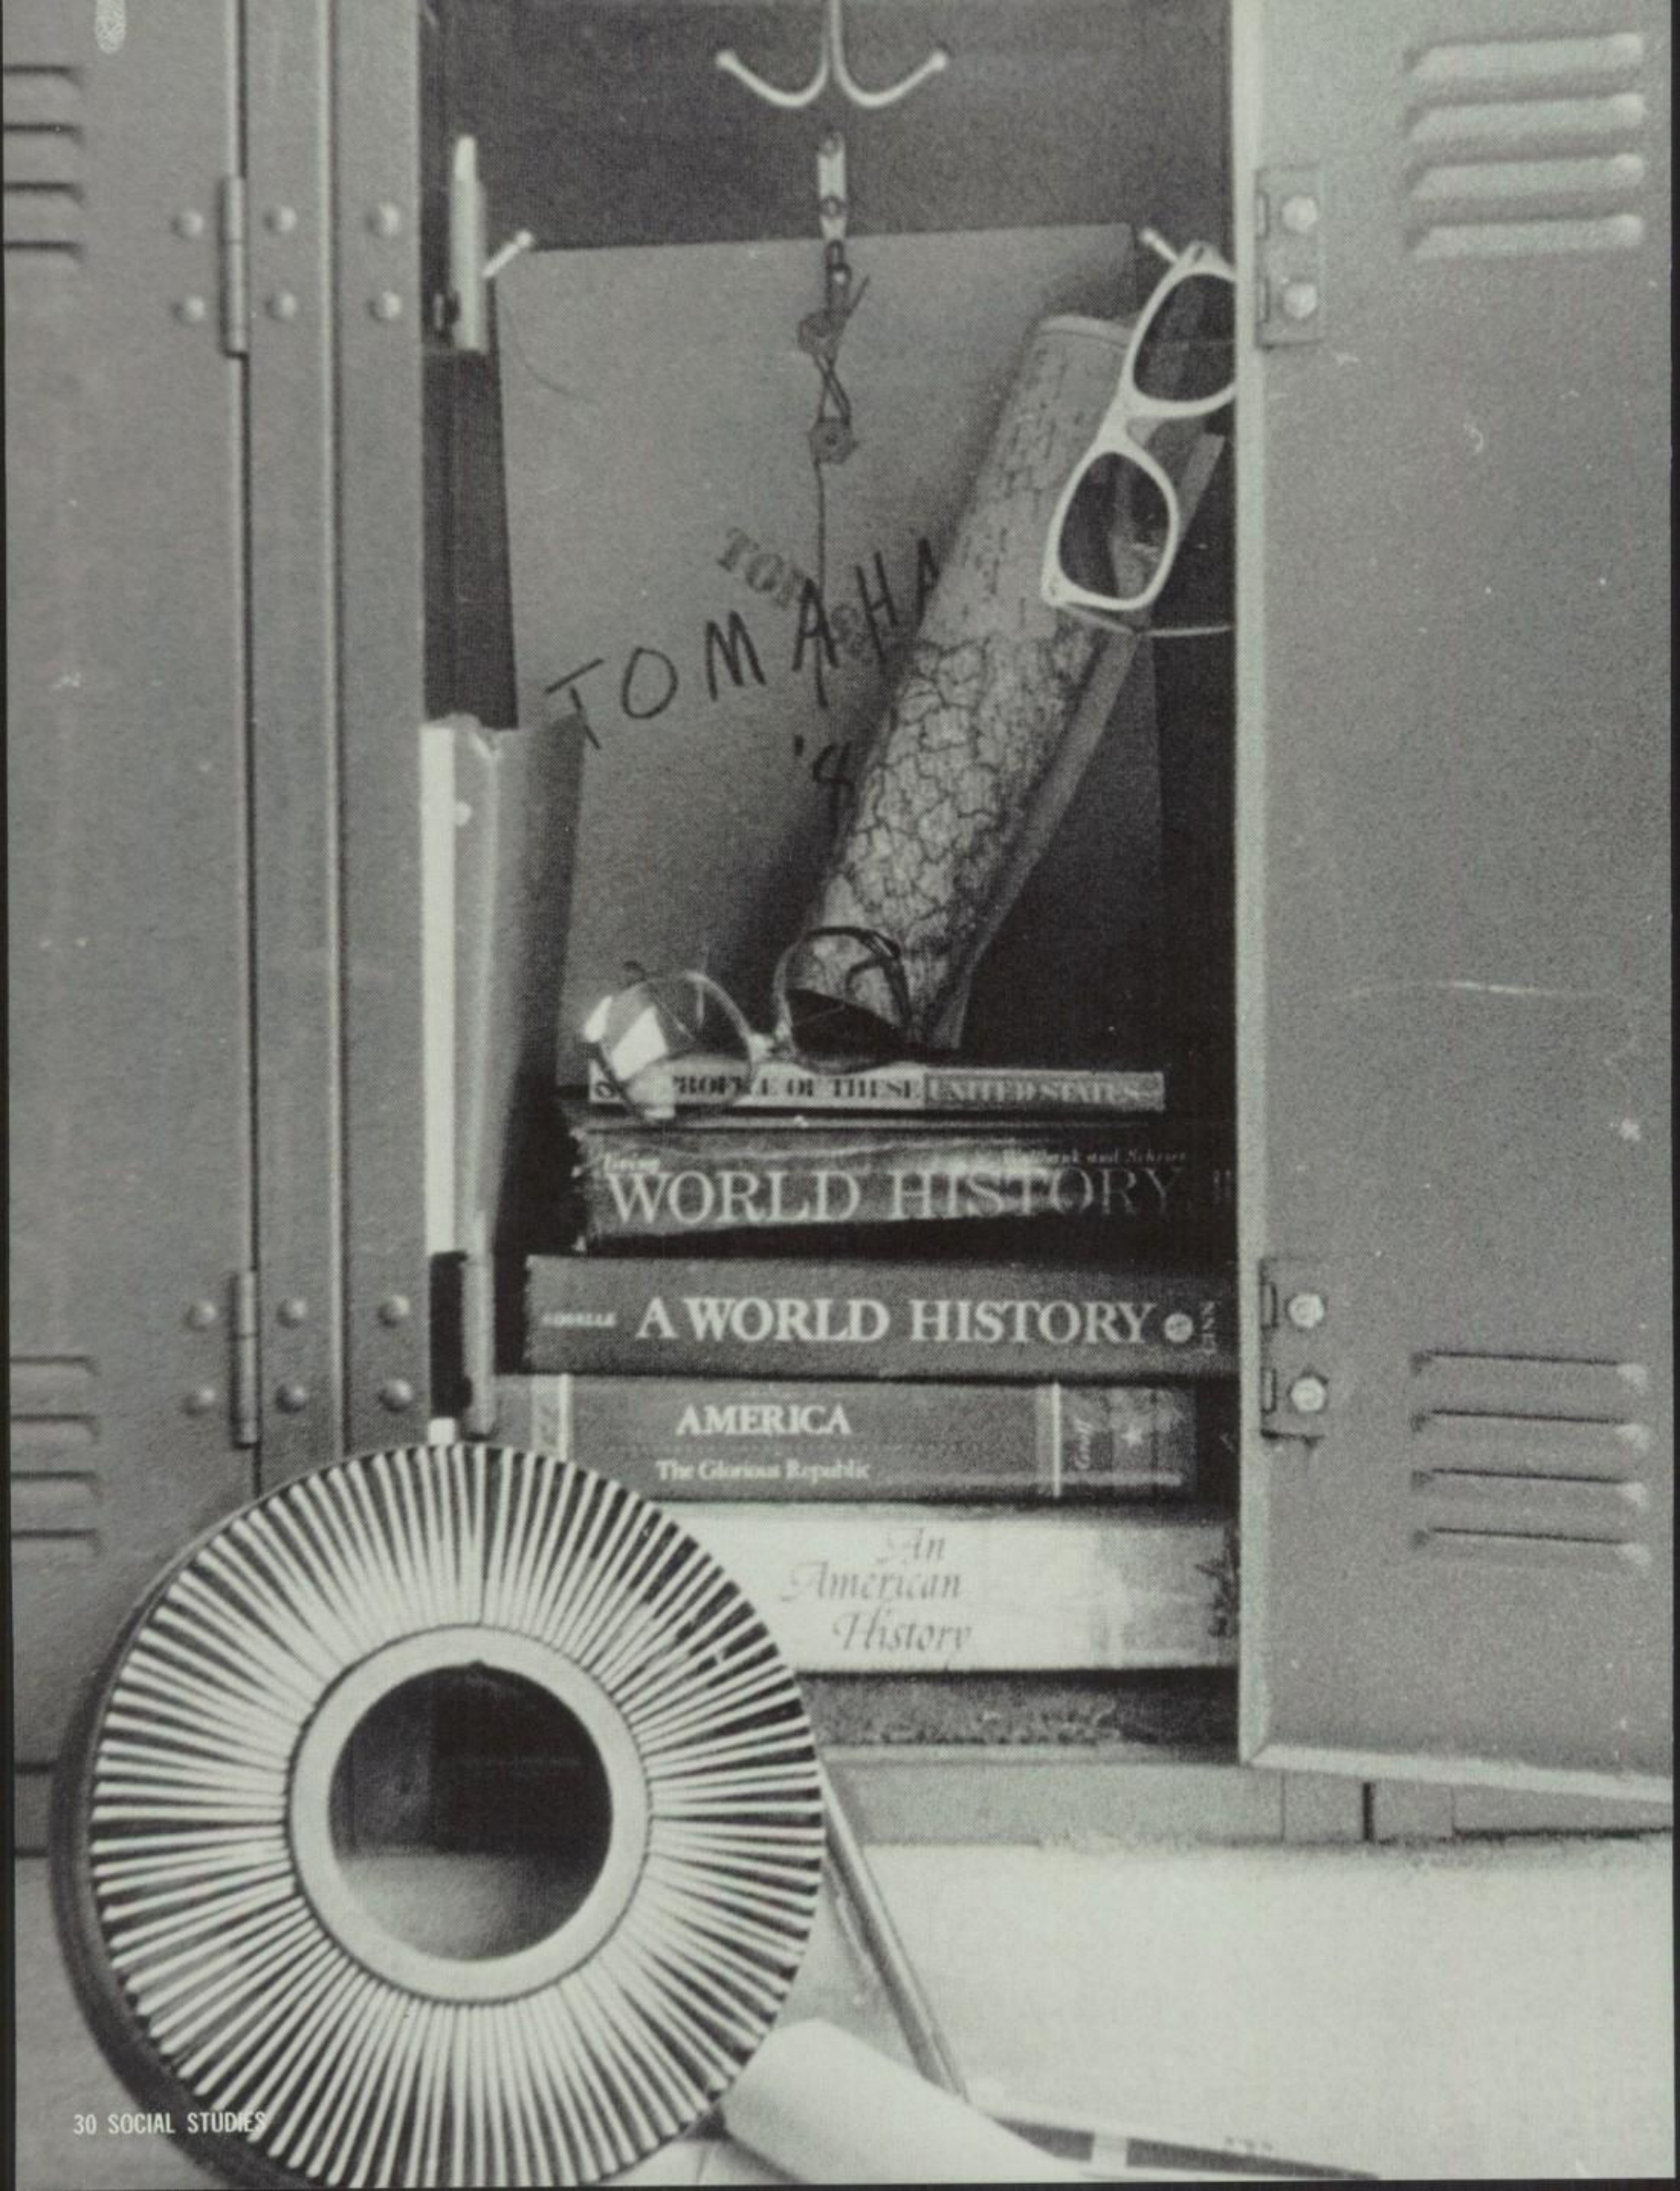

TOP SECRET

"Science—a human creation arising from the need to make sense of the world." (Collier's Encyclopedia, 1984). Hart students attempted to make sense of the world through the many courses offered by the Science Department, headed by Mr. Bob Henson. In IPS, freshmen learned of atoms and molecules, molecular motion, radioactivity, and Boyle's Law with instruction from Mr. Keil. Physical Earth, another freshman course, was taught by Mrs. Wolter, Mr. Williams, Mr. Kirby, and Ms. Schreiber. Biology was a "cut-up" for most sophomores in the spring semester. Most classes performed dissections of the fish and the frog. Yet two hundred students went one step further—they dissected a fetal pig. Students worked in pairs and paid for their own specimens, performing "surgery" outside regular class time. Students in Mr. Jolley's biology classes took the annual "Tree Key Walk," identifying the various types of trees seen on Hart's campus. Mr. Henson and Mrs. Carey (a new Hart staff member) taught biology as well. In Chemistry, taught by Mr. Leth and Mr. Ford, students studied orbitals, empirical formulas, conservation of mass, exothermic and endothermic reactions, ideal gas laws, moles, molarity, Avogadro's number (6.0×10^{23}), the 23rd power. Physics, instructed by Mr. Kirby and Mr. Leth, encompassed Error Analysis, Orbits (Mars, Mercury, Earth, Comet), Kepler's 3 Laws of Motion, Copernican Theory, Newton's 3 Laws of Motion, Ptolemaic Geocentric System, Einstein's Special and General Theory, Quantum mechanics.

"That was then, this is now" — the Hart High School Social Studies Department provides glimpses of the past with a hard look at the present in courses such as World History, American History, and American Government. Students get a social perspective in Sociology and Psychology classes. Government Honors, a new course offered to seniors and instructed by Mr. Pew, challenged the minds of the soon-to-be graduates. Discussions, initiated by reading assignments, were led by Mr. Pew who acted as THE MODERATOR in many heated debates. The focus of the course was the evolution of the United States' system of government. Past topics were compared with current issues, and the effect of historical decisions on present politics was traced and scrutinized. To lighten things up, Mr. Pew's class unwound in December with the singing of political carols!

Mr. Dean Roland, chairman of the department, and the Hart community welcomed the additions of Mrs. Marilyn Phillips and Ms. Valerie Sharpe to this year's Social Studies Department.

It is an excerpt of a compilate of results obtained by the California Assessment Program that reveals Hart's continuing excellence in the four fundamentals of state education. Of the 188 high schools in Los Angeles County, Hart achieved an exceptional rank of 12. Between 1984 and 1985, notable gains were achieved in spelling and math while slight decreases were incurred in reading and writing.

It can be safely stated that Hart will maintain an academic tradition of excellence in the years ahead. Look out #1!!

WE REMEMBER

A decade or two from now, after we have graduated from college and started our careers, what will we remember about high school? The lyrics to the school fight song and the nicknames of the cheerleaders? Undoubtedly not. The physics formulas and the French phrases? Perhaps. The teachers and the friends? Of course.

High school was a formative period in our lives. We entered the campus in 1982 as wide-eyed adolescent freshmen knowing not much more than our names and phone numbers. But after four years of learning from seasoned teachers, four years of character development in athletics, and four years of experience in social interaction, we became young adults. Throughout these transitional years, many people and events are still vivid in our minds.

We remember the freshmen year . . . having to walk to school, the unique aroma of a freshmen locker, walking to lunch at Jack-in-the-Box, Miss Lee's reject stamp and Bonita Smith who was "happy as a hungry tick on a fat dog's back." We remember Mr. Rose with his ceaseless energy and wild gesticulations that could power a city the size of Barstow if there were a way to hook him up. But most of all, we remember being lost and terribly alone, trying hard to fit in, and worshiping our idols.

We remember our sophomore year . . . We got to move up to lockers with the upperclassmen, we collected 100 insects, read Julius Caesar, learned about the monomaniacal Ahab, listened to Mr. Munroe's lecture on morality, laughed about okra, and Jolly Rancher green apple candy. This was the year we got our drivers' licenses. We remember winning the CIF championship. We remember our first homecoming parade.

We remember our junior year . . . lip sync contest, Mr. Roland's "unwashed mass of humanity," and Mr. Ford's "villages." We remember Mr. McElroy. This was the year of the PSAT, our first prom, our first doughnut run, Shake '85. We remember walk around registration and being upperclassmen.

We remember our senior year . . . more English, more science, more math, more social studies, a few electives, and a lot of silliness. We remember applying for college and planning our futures. We remember worshiping no one.

We share fond memories of Hart. We wrote on its desks, ate in its cafeteria (when we had to), and walked through its halls. We cheered from the bleachers, studied in the library, and spent countless hours on activities and sports. We spent four enjoyable years at Hart. A decade or two from now, the perspective may change, but our memories will still be very special.

"WE REMEMBER" was the class writing project of Mrs. Heunink's period 5 Advanced Comp. class.

Successful Seniors!

From Sprolic Week to the Senior Cruise, Hart's 1985-86 Senior Class ASB members had a successful year. Perhaps this success could be attributed to the enthusiastic officers: President, Rick Minnich; Vice-President, Mark Edwards; Treasurer, Pepper Castro; Secretary, Lisa Guagliardi; Representative, Cheryl Miller.

Being in ASB can be a lot more hard work than many students realize. These officers attended two one-hour meetings each week with the executive board in addition to many class meetings. Their responsibilities included planning and running many activities, especially for the senior class. From building homecoming floats, and delivering Goul-a-grams, to organizing the Spoof awards and selling Tootsie Rolls, they always seemed busy.

Cheryl Miller's role as representative could be described as nothing less than enthusiastic, spirited, and dedicated. Fellow ASB members remember her as always ready to volunteer, serve on a committee, lend a helping hand.

Secretary Lisa Guagliardi returned for her fourth year in student government. As the only veteran member of the group, she was especially helpful as the other officers learned how Hart's ASB system works. Lisa hardly ever missed a meeting and helped plan many fun activities.

Pepper Castro, the senior class treasurer, really enjoyed ASB. During the football season he could be seen at the games inflating and selling balloons to raise funds. He also rode on a float in the Homecoming parade, an experience which he recalled as one of the highlights of his year in office. Pepper summed up his times in ASB saying, "It was fun!"

Seeing ASB as a way to show his school spirit, Vice-President Mark Edwards had input into school activities. The most interesting project in which Mark was involved, he felt, was the Senior Cruise.

And, finally, no one in ASB could forget Senior Class President Rick Minnich. He coordinated and then ran all senior class meetings. Rick was always the first to present his opinion or argue a point during ASB discussions.

All in all the senior class ended the year on a high note. As ASB advisor Mr. Basey said, "As you end your terms in office, you will have had many successes, but as with anything, there will be those things that you failed to accomplish." These officers worked as hard as possible to make those failures as few as possible. As one Hart student said, "I think they did their job well."

J "Spider" Barr

He was a tall man, often seen on campus carrying a black lunch box spotted with Chiquita banana stickers. He was a former swim team coach, martial arts instructor, and Navy sailor. He was wise when we sought guidance and humorous when we needed a boost. He was our competent, caring, senior class counselor. He was Mr. Joel "Spider" Barr.

When he agreed to be the counselor of our class, Mr. Barr began a three year relationship with four hundred misguided, floundering youths. During these years, he labored diligently to shape and mold these students into what ultimately became the distinguished class of 1986.

A man of diverse interests and talents, Mr. Barr coached water polo and swimming at Hart for five years in addition to serving as assistant swim team coach at CSUN for over sixteen seasons. His CSUN swim team, which he helped lead to nine straight NCAA Division II Championships, called him "magic hands" because he gave all the soothing rubdowns. For years, a martial arts enthusiast, Mr. Barr has earned a second degree black-belt in Karate, Kung Fu, and Tai Chi.

Though he enjoyed participating in these extracurricular activities, most of his waking time was spent behind his desk writing recommendations, conducting parent conferences, or shifting class schedules. When visiting his office, a student could gain insight into Mr. Barr's character and outlook by noticing certain newspaper clippings and clever quotes hanging above his desk which always seemed in absolute disarray. A picture of a knight fighting off a dragon was pegged on Mr. Barr's bulletin board. The caption read, "Slay Ignorance." Also, the wise words of Daruma, founder of Zen Buddhism, were posted on his filing cabinet. "To fall seven times is to rise eight times. Life starts from now." These two items from Mr. Barr's office showed the value that he placed on learning.

Mr. Barr felt that most of the students he counselled were faced with the same problem. They worried too much about what other people thought of them. He communicated the following message to them: Don't be satisfied with mediocrity; don't worry about what other people think of you.

When entering or leaving Mr. Barr's office, one could not help but notice a sticker on the front door of his office that said, "The Z Team." For Mr. Barr, the Z stood for "Zenith," because Mr. Barr was someone who strove to reach the highest point he could.

One Singular Sensation

It is surprising that Tod Herrington was such an important asset to Hart's vocal music department, considering that he did not join the group until his senior year. Not only did Tod participate in the Concert Choir, but he was also a member of the advanced show choir, "Sound Vibrations."

Tod was one of two Hart High students who after "totally impossible" auditions, was selected to sing with the All Southern California Honors Choir. In addition to being a part of this prestigious group he also had the opportunity to perform when the Northern and Southern Section Choirs combine for the Music Educators convention. "This is an honor that does not come too often and Hart High is very proud of Tod," said Hart High vocal director, Mrs. Judy Starr.

When asked about his singing Tod said, "It always seemed like alot of fun, I'm glad I decided to try out." His only regret was that he had not joined the choir as a freshman.

A Creative Outlet

John Polizzi's interest in art began when he was eight years old. John's mother is an artist who owned an art gallery, Green Apple, at which she taught classes. John would accompany his mom to the gallery to watch the classes.

In junior high John's family moved to California. He would go with his mother to CSU Northridge, where she was an art student. John was able to learn advertising techniques and paste-up skills.

During junior high his interest spread to music. He learned to play the saxophone in seventh grade and the next year he was a member of the jazz band. Beginning in high school he joined the marching band and the Chieftains Stage Ambassadors. John has learned much from band, especially self discipline.

As a junior at Hart he joined the Tomahawk yearbook staff and became the Senior Art Director, a position he would hold for two years. Sometimes he found the job frustrating "because," he said, "I do not get enough control." But he did find yearbook to be a creative outlet.

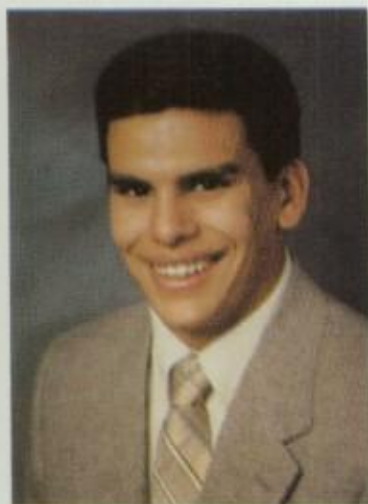

John's summers have not been spent relaxing on the beach. Instead, he has worked at "The Bindery" where he collated, did paste-up, and gained camera production experience.

A trip to New York and Europe during the summer of 1985 left a lasting impression on him. He visited the Museum of Modern Art and was, "very inspired." John said, "When I see a good work, it gets my juices flowing. It makes me want to create." In Paris he visited Le Louvre where he saw Claude Monet's painting "Lily Ponds." It was a thrill for John.

In September 1985, John began attending "Saturday High School" at the Art Center, a prestigious art college in Pasadena. This was an incredible honor, since only one student from a given high school is invited to attend each year.

Miss Guho, his art instructor at Hart, said of John, "He is an extremely talented individual who is very serious about his work. His talents in both Music and Art are a winning combination."

John hopes to attend an art school and then spend a year studying in Europe.

Hart Trial Team Courts Honors

Members of Hart High School's Mock Trial Team reached the semi-finals of the Constitutional Rights Foundation's Mock Trial Competition. Although the team was thwarted in the semi-finals, the student prosecutors, defense attorneys, and witnesses gave their all.

Prior to the first competition, sixteen volunteer students with no experience assembled with common goals to study the legal system, to master oral expression, to enjoy themselves, and to go as far as possible in the competition. The Hart team was successful on all counts. Long hours were spent on weekdays and weekends preparing for each competition. The students met to go over their testimonies, cross and direct examinations, and opening and closing statements.

Meeting with Lauren Ross, an attorney with her own private practice in the Northridge area, team members were greatly assisted in mastering legal terms and functions of the court that would be essential to success in the competition. The students were also under the tutelage of Nancy Leathers and Dave Klinger, faculty sponsors for the group.

Although the competition was a united effort, there were some outstanding individual performances. The council for the defense was composed of Alexander Pecel, Richard Minnich and Lisa Forssell; with defense witnesses Lisa Fadale, Francie Flores, Jennifer Stivers, and Cari Kawell. Prosecution lawyers were Steve Hollatz, Colin Smyth and Blake Sullivan, with Leonard Gilbert, Curtis Sims, Jody Mahagian and Ahryun Cho acting as prosecution witnesses.

After the first three rounds, the Hart team earned the right to compete in the semi-final round by amassing the points necessary to be ranked as one of the top sixteen teams out of field of fifty-six who began the competition.

In semi-final competition, Hart came up just three points short to Windward High School due to several timing technicalities. The competition was marked by excellent performances by Colin Smyth, Steve Hollatz, Alex Pecel, and the witnesses.

Three From Across the Sea

During the 1985-1986 school year, Hart were privileged to have three foreign exchange students: Heidi Corominas, Anna Blomster, and Johan Sedin.

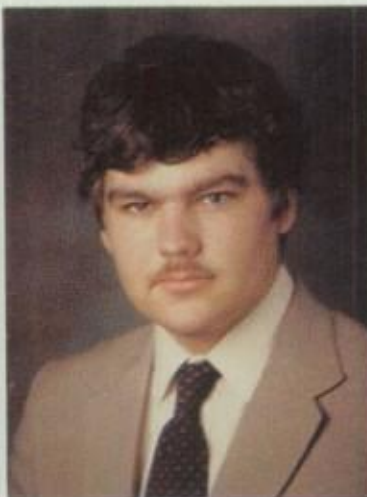

Heidi Corominas came to Hart from Aviles, Spain, a small town north of Madrid. Heidi's sisters first visited the U.S. a few summers ago, giving her the idea. Also, English is a very important language in Spain, Heidi wanted to learn to use it better. Arriving here on September 1st she lived with her aunt, uncle and cousin, Heidi Hultz, a junior at Hart. Heidi said that although the Hultzes did their best to help her adjust, it was sometimes difficult when she missed her home. The best part about America, according to Heidi, was the weather and the "cute guys." She missed the freedom of being able to drive her own car. "The U.S. is not really very different than Spain," said Heidi, "But Americans do have different ideas about how to spend their leisure time, and the schools here are much easier than in Spain." One of her best memories of the year was camping out at the Rose Parade on New Year's Eve. When asked about going back to Spain, Heidi said, "I will be sad to leave. I feel that I have really changed and learned a lot this year."

Anna Blomster is from Vasteras, Sweden, about 80 miles west of Stockholm. Anna's reasons for coming to the U.S. were many: most of her friends had already visited, her sister was an exchange student, she needed a break from school in Sweden, and she was interested in swimming in the U.S. She arrived on August 11th and stayed with the Falk family. "The Falks are a great family," said Anna, "They are nice to talk to." Anna enjoyed the California beaches, but disliked the traffic and the crowds. Agreeing with Heidi that the schools are easier here, and enjoying the weather, she will always remember best Mammoth, being a member of the swim team and camping out at the Rose Parade.

Johan Sedin also came from Sweden. Uppsala is his hometown. He came to the U.S. because many of his friends had also come. He is staying with the Kampmeyers, whom he considers a "real family." He and Anna came together August 11th. He said, "Friends like Kyle McMullen and Peter Ruiz," have really helped him fit in. He finds many flaws in our school system. "There are too many rules," said Johan. "I feel like I'm locked in. In Sweden the atmosphere is much more relaxed. We call our teachers by nicknames instead of Mr. or Mrs." His best memories included the DMC/Fishbone concert, skiing, playing football, parties, and going to the beach. Johan wants to return to America someday.

The Mark of Excellence

It is prestigious, sought after. It materializes into college funds. It awards from five hundred to two thousand dollars. It is the National Merit Scholarship Foundation.

Hart High School's Senior Class of '86 produced five National Merit Finalists: Karen Boyd, Juliet Gainsborough, Darren Louis, Marc Runkel, and Blake Sullivan.

Collectively they have held offices in FBLA ranging from president to active member. They were participants in CIF, SADD, Debate Club, newspaper, and choir.

Hobbies and interests have turned into jobs. Karen, an active gymnast, taught others. With Marc's computer interest he became a self-employed expert. Juliet's dedication to her job at Magic Mountain drew everyone's respect.

The finalists reached this point of their lives with lots of help. Influenced by many, they range from Juliet's appreciation of Mrs. Huenick to Blake's thanks to Mr. Lund. Also, they could thank many people from their past. Karen and Marc pointed out that teachers from early years made a difference.

Though the scholarships offered possible financial aid, this did not alter their college choices. Juliet is considering political science at UC Berkeley. Karen wants to study chemistry at Harvey Mudd and Blake, space engineering at Cal. Poly Tech.

As if these goals are not enough, future goals and dreams included becoming Secretary of State or Supreme Court Justice, even discovering a cure for spinal cord trauma-induced paralysis, but most popular was, "to become stinking rich."

U.S.A. Instructor

During the summer of 1985, Tiffany Tucker received what was perhaps her greatest honor as a flag team performer. She was asked to be a United Spirit Association instructor for the 1986 summer camp. As a three year flag team member, Tiffany was perfect for the job. Hours of practice had enabled her to become an expert flag handler.

Tiffany said of her future teaching job, "I want to do it because I will get to work with a lot of different students and teach them what I already know. I want to give them my skill."

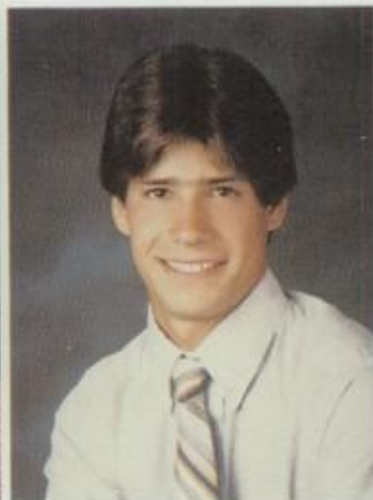

She first became interested in flags at a football game a few years ago. Tiffany remembered "the rewards of winning competitions, being friends with certain people on the team and in band, especially flirting with John Polizzi." These good memories plus a few less-pleasant times, like, "extra long and tiring practices and arguments over routines."

Tiffany's three years on the flag team were spent learning and growing as she practiced and memorized many routines. To be on the team, one must be flexible, coordinated, patient, and friendly. All of these qualities were outstanding in Tiffany and gave her the opportunity to be a U.S.A. instructor.

Novum Cantorum

Last year marked the take-off of a new ambitious music magazine led by one of our classmates here at Hart. Rich Minnich, founder and senior editor was bored with today's music scene. Rich was inspired by Tim Barnett, with whom he shared the same taste in music. The two enjoyed writing and listening to "strange" music, mainly "underground bands," which lacked coverage and publicity. In an effort to unite these interests, they formed what today is known as "Novum Cantorum."

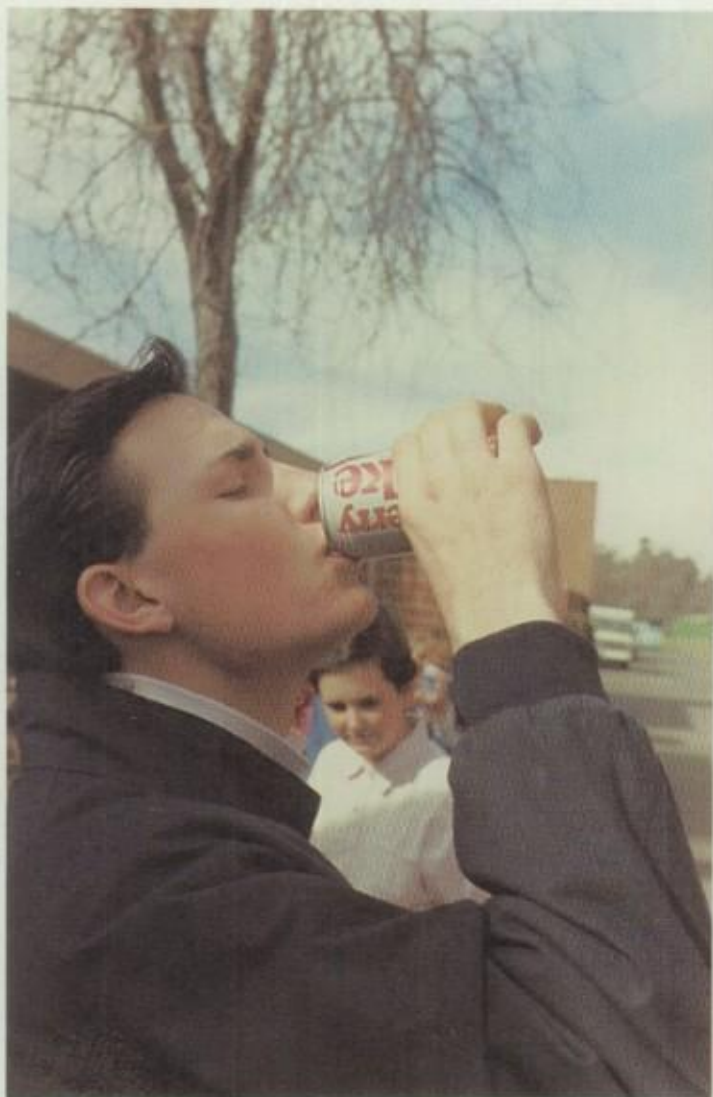

"Novum Cantorum" translated means "New Song." (Special thanks to Miss Lee for helping with the title.) In addition to Rich and Tim, writers for the "Novum Cantorum" included Bobby Bans and Jeff Suggs (University of Kansas).

Artwork and title design were done by John Polizzi. Rich led the staff by assuming the role of editor. He proof-read the articles and did all of the major editing himself. Rich never had a journalism or yearbook class to help him with the layouts. When asked how he managed to put together his first few issues he responded, "I looked at the newspapers and guessed how they did it."

The bands that "Novum Cantorum" chose to write about did not go gold or platinum. These bands, coming from all parts of the world play in clubs seating from one to two hundred people and their music can be loosely categorized as rock. The staff stayed away from bands that had a poppy electronic sound or emphasized the synthesizer. They concentrated more on guitar oriented bands in the wake of "The Clash."

If Rich finds a new crowd and more journalists he hopes to continue his magazine in college because it has brought him many rewards at Hart. He said, "The best part is when I come out with a new issue." The feeling that Rich remembered the most was when he was walking around campus and four or five people were standing in a circle reading the new issue. Rich said it was an experience for his writers because they had never had anything published before. "To publish is to arouse emotions. If you can touch one person's emotions, you have succeeded even if that person is you," Rich said.

Teaching on the Slopes

Ice cold snow, bone chilling winds, cold ears and energetic people - these elements are faced by Randy Wrage and Lisa Gee on every weekend during the winter months. Randy and Lisa are ski instructors at the Mountain High Ski Resort. Having skied for four years, Randy has instructed for one. His expert ability in this sport has been achieved through his strong desire to improve and constantly learn more.

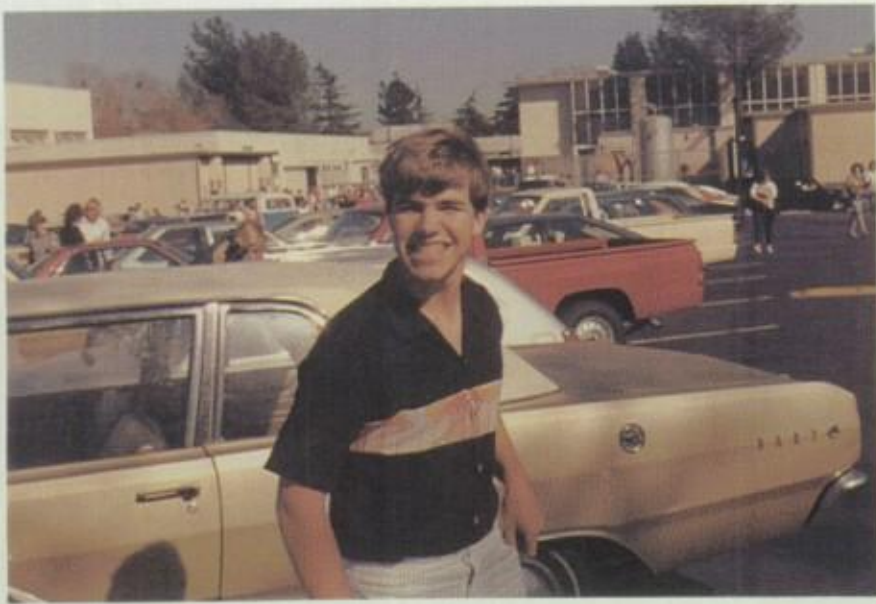

It has been said that Lisa was born on skis. She has skied for fifteen years and instructed for two. Lisa's dad inspired her interest in skiing. Also a ski instructor, he has taught her all she knows.

Randy and Lisa instruct children between the ages of four and eight years old. "Instructing children is not an easy job," said Lisa. "It's wear and tear on your patience, but when all is said and done it's a lot of fun."

They both agreed that coordination and a good instructor are needed to learn how to ski. Another important quality of a skier is to constantly be willing to challenge, learn and improve.

Lisa plans to continue instructing and someday become a Certified Ski Instructor. Randy also wants to continue skiing. He said, "Ski instructing is a great way to earn very little money, but you get to ski for free!"

A True Hart High Indian

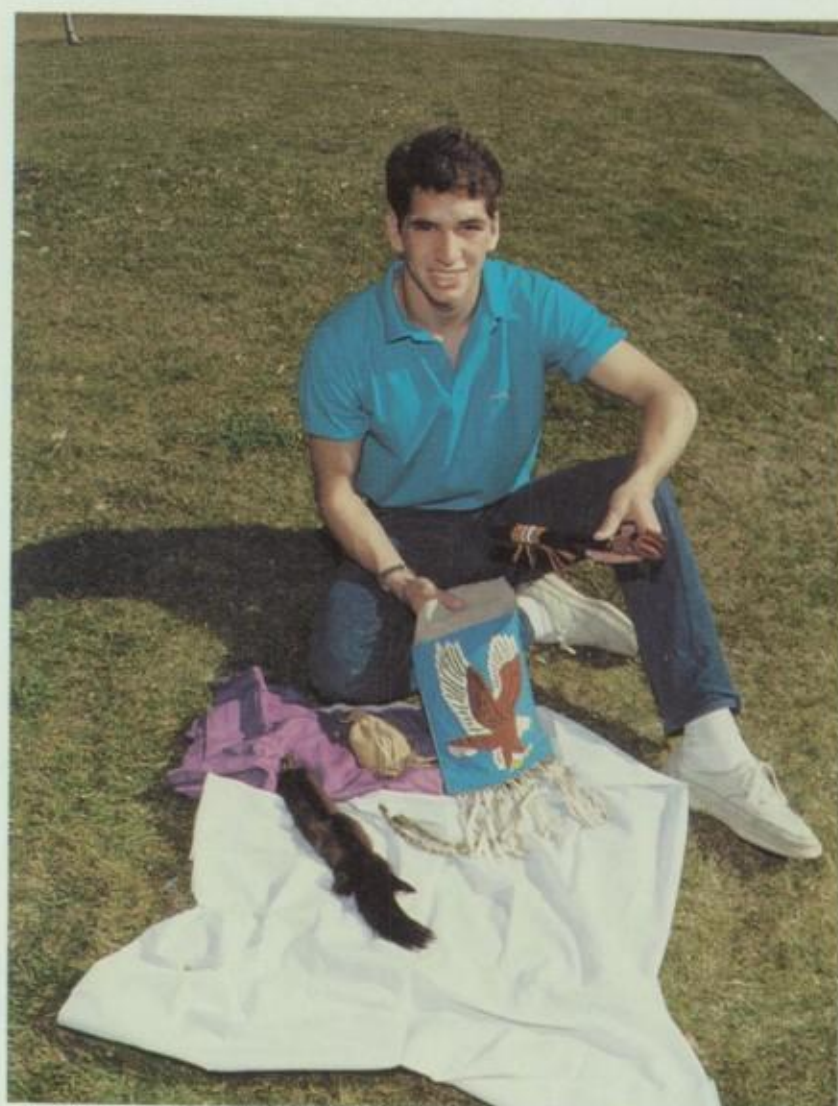

Indian customs and traditions have been a part of Mark Edward's life since birth. His mother, a full-blooded Indian, has involved Mark in the Anishnaba tribe throughout his life, especially for the last four years. When a member of the Anishnaba reaches the age of sixteen, he must go on a vision-quest, a custom to find his Indian name.

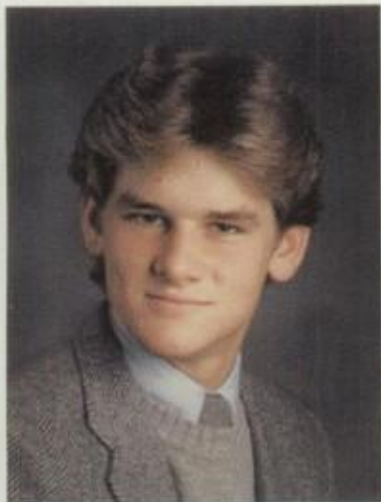

This past summer Mark attended the Tekawitha Conference in Phoenix, Arizona. When the conference was over, Mark traveled north in the company of an Indian medicine man to Butte, Montana.

From Butte, they went to a clearing located twenty miles north of the city. The spot was settled between a river and a forest. The medicine man drew a circle about fifty feet in diameter, close to the forest, but out of reach of the stream. Mark was not allowed to move out of the circle during his four day stay. His only equipment was a sleeping bag, a tobacco bag, a ceremonial pipe, and a sacred fire. He had no food or water. The fire was the most important item of his equipment. Besides providing Mark heat, it gave him the incentive to keep going.

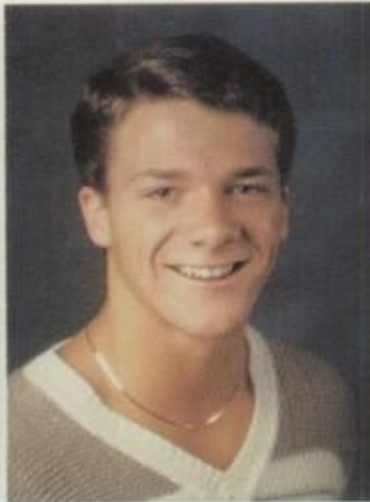

Everyday the medicine man came to see Mark, teaching him the languages and customs of the Anishnaba. On the third day, the medicine man brought a hamburger, fruit, and a 7-Up to Mark. It wasn't meant as a temptation, but to teach Mark that nothing should be taken for granted. That same day, the medicine man interpreted one of Mark's dreams revealing many things about him, including his Indian name—Madwash-kainini. On the fourth day, the medicine man took Mark back to Butte to recover. He was given broth and solid food to regain his strength.

Mark's outlook on his life changed after his experience. He sees those four days as a stepping stone to his adult life. Mark's future plans are to become a helicopter pilot for the U.S. Navy Search and Rescue Patrol. Yet, he may follow in the medicine man's footsteps and serve his people.

A Little Bit of the Orient

Our own senior, Mark Shuey, has brought a touch of the Orient to Hart High School. Mark's father, an instructor holding a second degree blackbelt, inspired him to take up Karate. Mark holds a blackbelt in Karate. He has no interest in Ninja, which is a Japanese style of fighting, but instead, practices a Korean style called Tobak.

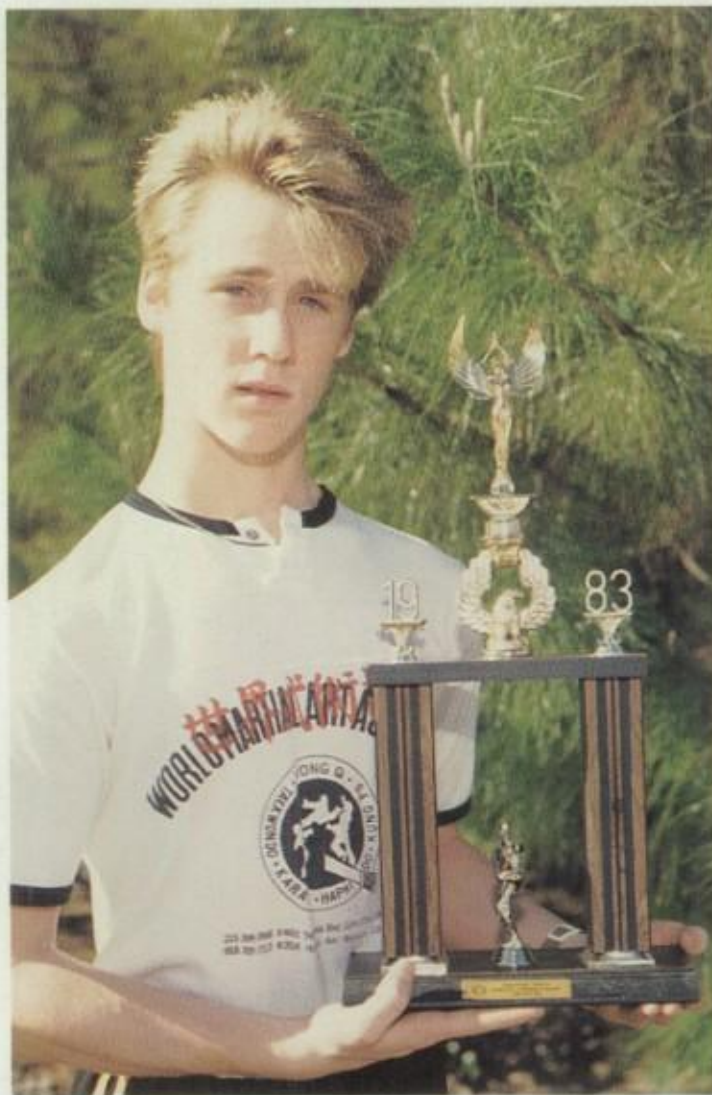

Wearing a pair of white pants, a black shirt, and a black belt, the colors of the uniform change depending upon the degree of the martial artist.

Mark's most dangerous stunts begin with breaking boards and bricks with his fists and jumping through a hoop of fire. He has also lain on broken glass with a watermelon on his stomach while his partner sliced it in half.

Teaching Karate to basic students, Mark included teaching them to punch and kick. He didn't teach advanced techniques such as jumping kicks and different punches.

Having learned the basics of chiropractics from his stretching exercises during workouts Mark used Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, to stretch, exercise and train for about two hours. These workouts were often extremely strenuous and draining—he usually could barely walk afterwards.

Mark plans to travel to Korea for a National Tournament of Karate. This will be a lot like the Olympics. Mark's idol is Clint Eastwood because of his "Dirty Harry" image. His advice to girls is to "think mean."

Charlie Drake-Hart's Own "Mr. Football"

As a shy freshman stepping onto the field, Charlie Drake had no idea that one year later as a sophomore he would be a starting lineman for Hart's varsity football team. Since that moment he started in 39 varsity and playoff games, and aided his team's victories to 3 Foothill League championships.

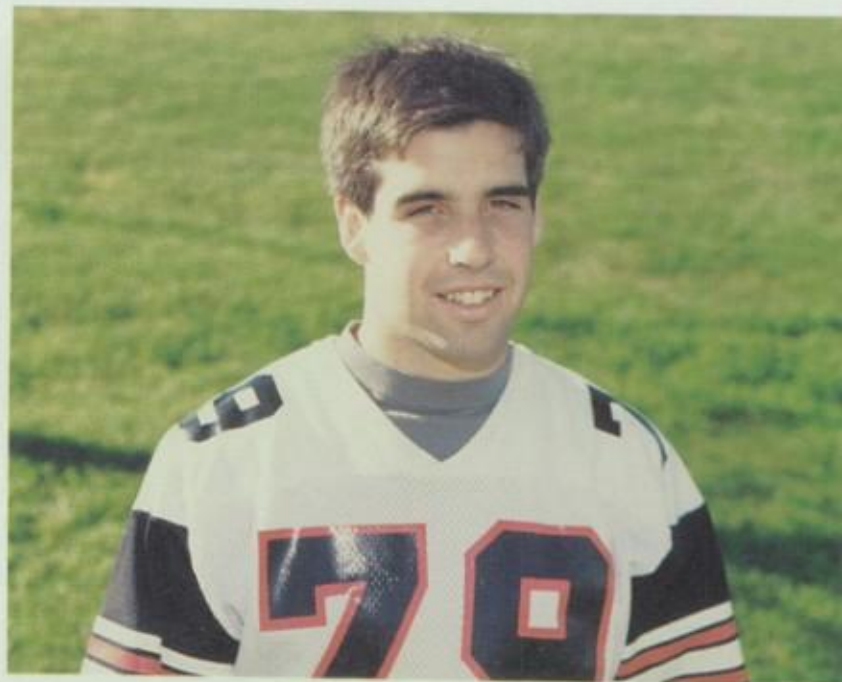

His many awards included: All Santa Clarita Valley, Outstanding Offensive Lineman, L.A. Times 1st Team All Valley, Daily News 1st Team All Valley, and 1st Team All CIF. He was also chosen for the "Street and Smith Football Yearbook" as "Another Senior to Watch".

For Charlie, the best part of high school football was the excitement of the games, and winning, of course. Playoff games ranked as the best and worst of times in his 3 years of play. During the 1984 playoff game against Thousand Oaks Charlie experienced his greatest disappointment. "It was a rain game," he said, "and we should have won."

Besides playing football Charlie participated in track, competing in shotput and discus. A good friend said, "He is dedicated in both football and track and he spends a lot of time in the weightroom."

Computers and skiing also captivated Charlie's interest. The Doors, The Police, and "The Boss" top his music choices, while The Cosby Show, The Young Ones, and Hill Street Blues are among his favorite T.V. shows.

What lies ahead in Charlie's future? College football of course!

TOP SECRET

Being a Junior

Being a junior is:

- ... taking the PSAT and worrying about the SAT*
- ... CPEG with Mrs. Huenink, learning about gerunds, adverb clauses and Schmaltz, the dumb beagle*
- ... a better chance of getting first choice classes in walk-around.*
- ... finally getting to see Mr. Lund draw a perfect circle.*
- ... bossing around freshmen and sophomores.*
- ... not being embarrassed to yell for your class when participating in rallies.*
- ... trying desperately (and unsuccessfully) to find a parking space at 7:55.*
- ... taking chemistry with Mr. Leth and learning about his evil twin brother, Ted.*
- ... flying over huge speed bumps in Daddy's car (then laughing).*
- ... bragging about how much you didn't study for the test you got an 'A' on.*
- ... going to the Prom for the first time.*
- ... seeing good friends graduate and leave for college.*
- ... realizing that high school doesn't last forever and soon it will be important to seriously plan for the future.*
- ... being an upperclassman, but not a senior.*

Class of '87

MONEY, MONEY, MONEY

"You want us to raise enough money for the Prom?" The first reaction of the five students who were to have thousands of dollars on hand by late spring perhaps was a bit unbelieving. But this, the most important task of the A.S.B. junior class officers, seemed more and more possible as the year progressed.

Starting with an extremely successful fund-raiser, the juniors managed to sell Carvel ice-cream in the rain and make a profit. Their money making endeavors continued throughout the year. At the carwash all five officers and some very enthusiastic juniors who came to help (and start water fights) made over $300. This was followed by a popcorn ball sale in November and a candy cane sale in December. To start off '86, the junior officers delivered carnation-grams on Valentines day and held another car wash.

Their efforts were finally rewarded with the tremendous success of Prom '86—every aspect of which was planned and coordinated by the junior class officers. Throughout the year, their dedication, ingenuity and perseverance made all their goals attainable.

During first semester, the officers included: President Christy Fisher, Vice President Alisa Land, Treasurer Mark Kendall, Secretary Kathy Stokes, and Representative Vicki Corpuz. However, during second semester Christy Fisher was elected as the new Executive Board President. Each junior officer was moved up a position and a new secretary appointed.

Aspiring Business Woman

When she was twelve years old, Dayna Pike watched as her father bought cables for his computer. Four years later, she provided him with those cables. Hard work and determination have paid off for Dayna, who created Data Communications Services. D.C.S. was inspired by her father's need for custom computer cables. With a little work, Dayna and her brother, Dave, learned how to make these cables and began selling them to local businesses. Her father, a data consultant, helped spread the word about their business and Home Savings lent financial support. Soon, orders were pouring in, even from Hart. "For every computer on campus—there's one of our cables in it," said Dayna.

During her junior year, Dayna conducted business without the help of her brother. In addition to making and selling the cables, Dayna keeps all business records. Her dedication and hard work proved to be extremely rewarding. Selling the cables, which were priced from $25 and up, provided Dayna with a sizable profit and a sense of accomplishment.

A Singing Sensation

If, one day in the future, the voice on the radio sounds familiar, listen closely, it may be former Hart student, Shannon Barber.

Shortly after Shannon began dancing at age eight, she decided to polish up her act and pursue. Soon she was the main attraction at dance recitals, delighting audiences with songs like "Goodship Lollipop." Four years later she began singing professionally.

Shannon attended the School of Performing Arts' Summer Session in 1983. That year she was selected as the Santa Clarita Ideal Talent Miss. Her voice coach, former leader of the group "The Knack," encouraged Shannon to participate in her next big event. At an auction for the Asthma Foundation, she sang before 2,000 people.

As a high school junior, Shannon took her career one step further, recording every three weeks in a studio. Her manager sent demo tapes to E.M.I. and Warner Records. Shannon hopes to sign a record contract and then "make videos, make money, and make people happy." This is definitely singing sensation to watch out for in the future!

Aspiring Artists

Jon Craig is an aspiring artist who does everything. He has worked with sketching pencils, oil paints, air brushes, charcoal, and water colors. As a high school student he also became interested in photography and film.

Jon began drawing in the fifth grade. Some of his art has been published in Hart Beat, our campus magazine. Jon also entered his original work in various art competitions.

Hart could boast of another artist, Jim Colston, only Jim's art was of a different nature. Jim concentrated on cartoons and animation. "I use pictures instead of people on film to make things move," he said.

Jim built most of his animation equipment. He has worked on several successful movies including a science fiction saga and a story about a monkey. Since 150 pictures are necessary for one minute of film, this is a complicated and tedious process.

In the future, Jim plans to utilize his talents and become a cartoonist.

Sophomores

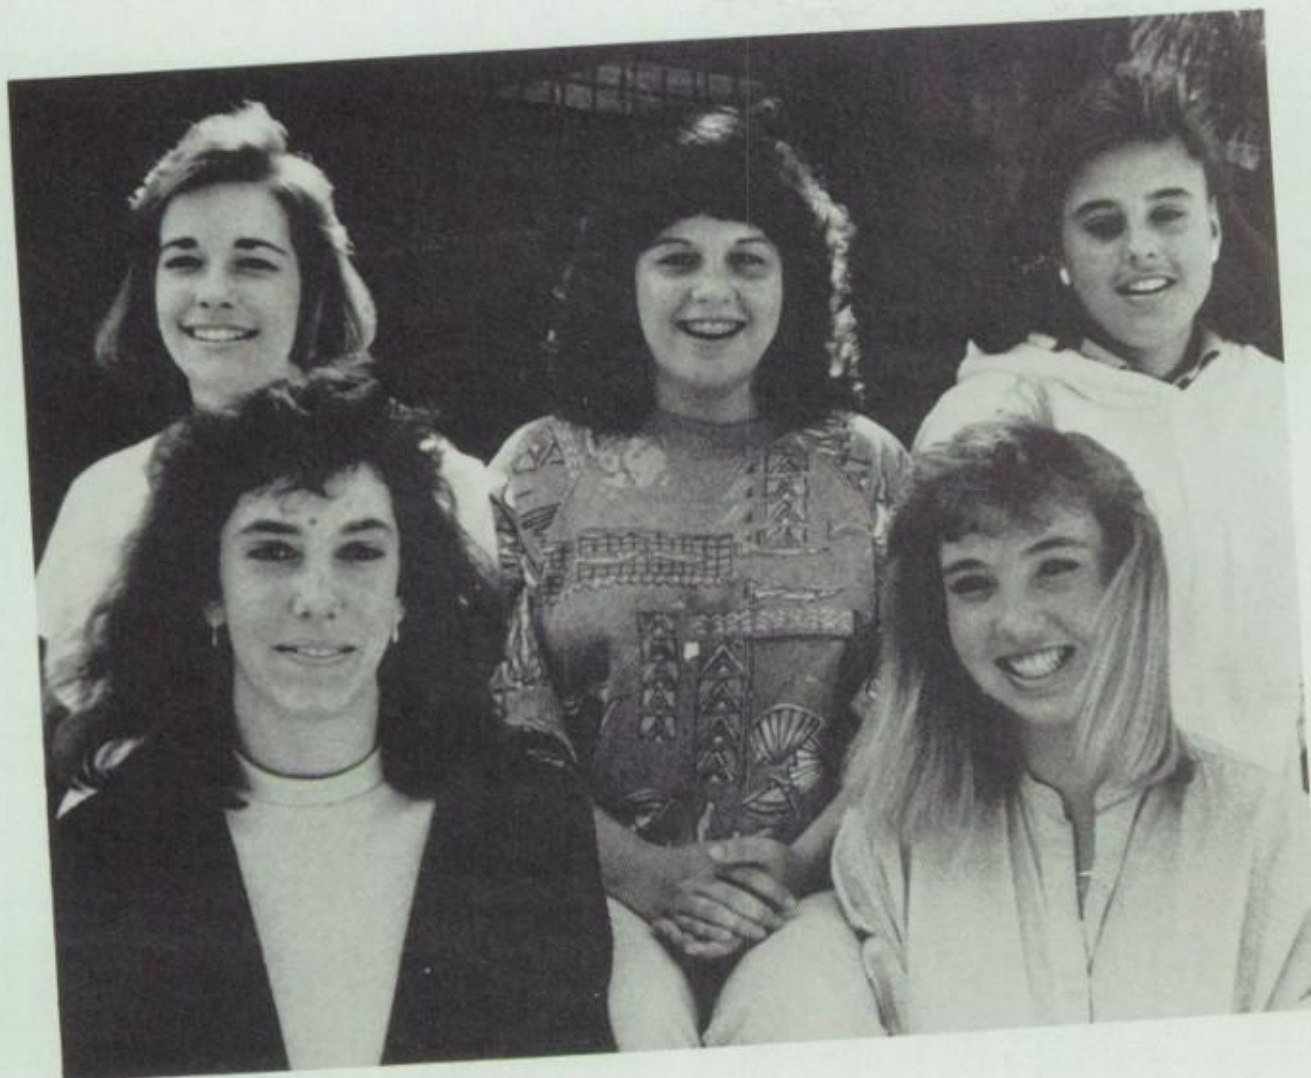

Two Down, Two to Go

For the class of '88, being sophomores wasn't all that bad. Sure, we were still underclassmen, but at least the name "Freshmen" had ceased to stereotype everything we did. On the first day of school we proudly flaunted our knowledge of the location of the "M" building and the price of every item on the cafeteria menu.

As sophomores, we moved into bigger lockers and made fun of the freshmen. We took Drivers Ed with Mr. Monroe and bragged about the cars we would get on our 16th birthdays. In Geometry we learned the Pythagorean Theorem with Mr. Rose and in biology we dissected frogs and fetal pigs with Mr. Henson. We finally had friends that weren't embarrassed to drive us out to lunch.

With one year behind us and two more to go, we the class of 1988, the scholars, cheerleaders, band members and football stars, had developed a special pride in ourselves, and could look forward to anything the future might bring.

Class of '88

Looking Ahead

The 1985-86 sophomore class A.S.B., led by President Holly Polen, experienced a highly successful year. The officers, Vice President Heather Larkins, Secretary Amy Gereb, Treasurer Kim Diamond, and Representative Alicia Bull-ock worked together throughout the year, planning activities and fund raisers.

The popcorn machine that the previous class had purchased was run by the sophomore class and continued to be a major source of income throughout the year. One of the class' most successful events was their Homecoming float entitled "Cinderella."

Anxiously looking forward to the following year's prom, the class spent time raising money and planning for this big event. The class of 1988 would like to thank their advisors Mr. Newbauer and Mr. Borruehl for their constant support and enthusiasm.

Speed-Racer!

Each weekend during his sophomore year at Hart, Richie Pauley headed out to the desert, not to a plush resort like others from L.A., but to the L.A. County Raceway, where he raced his A.M.C. Gremlin. Richie became involved with drag racing when he was 14 years old, two years before most teenagers ever sit behind a wheel. When his father and mother, who also raced cars, introduced him to the sport, Richie quickly caught on and was soon winning races.

Coolly discussing the dangers of drag racing, the fatal accidents he's witnessed, or how his engine exploded at his last race, Richie seemed crazy to pursue such a risky hobby. But, he was quick to assure that the incredible excitement of living on the edge made all the involved risks worth it. Driving his "souped-up" A.M.C. Gremlin, Richie could reach 120 m.p.h. in twelve seconds. At this high speed every slight movement is important and intense concentration necessary.

Richie Pauley plans to continue racing in the future. Someday he hopes to buy a pro-gas car which he will race on N.H.R.A. circuit tracks all over the world. Although there is a cash prize awarded to winners, the amount is not enough for a career. Consequently, Richie wants to go to college and become a veterinarian.

Tennis Anyone?

When she was ten years old, Christine Schmeidel saw the movie "Little Mo," about tennis pro Maureen Connolly. Christine remembers this movie vividly and feels it motivated her to pursue tennis seriously. By the end of that year she was playing in United States Tennis Association state and national tournaments. Since then she has competed in tournaments as far away as Florida and Arizona. As a freshman, Christine finished 69th in the nation. The following year, Christine, who then ranked 19th in California, decided to transfer to Hart from L.A. Lutheran to play tennis. The transfer paid off, as Christine went undefeated in the league and competed in the CIF quarter finals. She lost only four of the 200 games she played.

Christine is grateful for her parents support. She said that they helped by driving her to practice and tennis matches. They always encouraged her to keep up the hard work.

"Hard work" was an understatement. Christine practiced three and a half hours on weekdays—more on weekends. She saw her coach, Nathan Le Grand of Tarzana, twice a week and worked out often.

Christine hopes to attend a major college such as Stanford or U.C.L.A. on a scholarship, and then possibly play professional tennis. For anyone who may be thinking of a tennis career, Christine offers these words of wisdom, "Tennis takes up a lot of time, and you have to give up a lot, but in the end you will find that it is worth it."

Biking B.J. Esmond

B.J. Esmond became involved in motorcross biking at age seven, when his father and cousins took him out to ride for the first time. He quickly showed a talent for this sport, actually learning to ride a motorcycle before a bicycle. In highschool B.J. accompanied his father every other weekend to Hungry Valley to ride the hillsides.

B.J. said that he especially enjoys the deafening noise of the engine buzzing through the hills and the challenge of riding through unfamiliar terrain. In spite of his expert abilities, B.J. chose not to race during highschool. He felt that the hectic racing schedule would both take valuable time away from school and force him to quit the joy-riding he and his father enjoy. B.J. does hope to race one day. Until then he will continue to practice and build stamina.

"Riding," he said, "offers me a unique experience each time."

The Next Chuck Yeager?

Soaring above the clouds with a racing spirit, David Kelly banked his father's open cockpit biplane into a sweeping turn. The incessant humming of the engine, the changing activity on the instrument panel, the distorted words from an air traffic controller — all were thrilling to the young pilot.

First exposed to flying when he was five, David learned every aspect of aviation from his father, an American Airlines pilot. As a sophomore he completed the ground control courses necessary to obtain his pilot's license. David believes that if it weren't for his father's influence and devotion, he never would have pursued flying. When he graduates from high school, David plans to enlist in the Air Force, serve four years and then become a pilot for American Airlines like his father.

Reflecting back on his flying experiences, David Kelly said, "Who ever hasn't flown is missing a lot."

Freshmen

Panic, Survival, And Firsts

Panic. Our first day in high school was nothing less than a life-threatening experience. Hart's campus seemed to be purposely designed to confuse new students. We feared being late to first period, wearing the wrong things, asking stupid questions, or worst of all, ending up as the only freshman in a class filled with ruthless upperclassmen.

Survival. Learning that seniors and Teachers didn't really torture freshmen was merely a small consolation for soon we encountered countless problems that we had never dreamed of. We had to survive the sludge experiment in I.P.S. with Mr. Keil. We sweated through those first oral responses in Spanish 1. And any freshman, accustomed to the 5 period day at Placerita, would swear that the clocks were slowed down during the last 15 minutes of sixth period.

Firsts. More than anything, the freshman year was a time of firsts. Cheering at our first rally, slow-dancing at our first winter formal, laughing and yelling at our first football game. We met Sarge, stalking in the parking lot, and learned to respond quickly when the cafeteria workers shouted, "Next! Move the line down."

Growth, freedom, learning, independence and new experiences. Our freshman year was all those things and more. But most of all we had begun our high school experience; we were finally real Hart students and proud of it!

Frosh Have Spirit!!!

Each year the freshmen class provides Hart with many new and exciting ideas. The class of '85/'86 was no exception. Under the leadership of class officers, President Hilary Larkins, Vice President Nicole Weber, Secretary Lori Virden, Treasurer Karen Kelly, and Representative Stacy Pointer, this spirited class got right into the swing of things by participating in all kinds of activities. They cheered loudly at rallies, excelled in athletic competition, and won many intramural events. President Hilary Larkins said, "We, as officers felt that everyone in our class was working together. They all supported our ideas, sales and activities."

These dedicated officers met every Tuesday during lunch with advisors Mrs. Hagan and Miss Sharp who were, according to Hilary, "very helpful." The freshmen were responsible for the Hoop-de-La festivities held in February. They raised the money for the ceremony by selling See's candy suckers.

Without a doubt, the creativity and hard work of these five officers helped lead the freshman class through an incredible year!

Hot Wheels

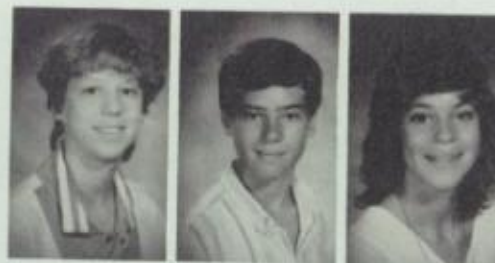

Tiffany Jares is a figure skater, but her routines are performed on wheels rather than on ice. Wearing rollerskates Tiffany imitates the moves of iceskaters that she has always admired. It's easy to notice her talent.

Rollerskating demanded a lot from this ninth-grade honor student. Five or six days each week were spent with coaches on the rink at Skateland in Northridge.

Tiffany competed in Southern California and Regional competitions placing well in freestyle and figure events. Each routine required concentration, artistic ability, hours of hard work and dedication. Tiffany plans to participate in the World Competition someday.

"It's a real challenge but when you stand on top of the first place platform, it's all worth it!" she said.

Goldfinger

Part of the incredible success of the 1985 Frosh football team could be attributed to Jamie Carroll, the quarterback. With exceptional talent and leadership Jamie led his team to a 9-1 record. In spite of the pressure placed upon his position, he played well throughout the season. Calling plays, passing and running, Jamie continually gave everyone a reason to cheer.

When asked about his leadership abilities, Jamie replied, "Everyone works hard and listens. I just try to help as much as I can and keep everything running smoothly."

The team lost to Pasadena in the league championship game, but hopes to avenge their defeat next year. "We have a lot of talent and are looking forward to next year." With Jamie in the quarterback position, 1986 promises to be a very successful year for the class of '89.

No Big Deal

Morgan Jones is on his way to show business stardom. In his short career he has had parts in Schwepps and Disney commercials as well as in T.V. series such as Family Ties, Sara, Airwolf, and Blue Thunder. He also played in Highway to Heaven and Amazing Stories.

Morgan claims that he has always been interested in acting. Three years ago he began attending auditions and taking classes in theatre, but his main interests lie in film and television. In the future, he might consider directing or producing in addition to a successful acting career.

Morgan has quite a resume for such a young actor. He has two agents, he met Michael J. Fox, and he has worked with Steven Spielberg. However, he doesn't let all the excitement and glamour of show business go to his head. Morgan plans to attend college and major in business as a back-up career. "Besides," says Morgan, "it's no big deal."

LAURENCE K. STRAUSS, PRINCIPAL

There is a man at Hart High who believes in distinction. A man of dignity. A man of conviction. He is not one of our teachers or deans, nor any of our counselors. This man is our principal—Laurence K. Strauss.

Deeply dedicated to his job, Mr. Strauss wants to produce a safe yet disciplined environment for learning. "My goal," commented Mr. Strauss, "is to provide a curriculum that clearly spells out how students will be evaluated to insure the quality of our teaching." Mr. Strauss mentioned that Hart High is in the midst of alligning its curriculum. A phase in which the administration is incorporating the District's impetus.

Supervising the staff, interacting with the community for public relations, and supervising the students are a few of Mr. Strauss' responsibilities. "One of the most pleasurable parts of my job is feeling the pride in the school coming from the students, teachers, and the community," commented a proud Mr. Strauss.

With the end of the year comes final exams and the graduation ceremonies. The proudest moment for Mr. Strauss is when he directs his commencement speech to the students—expressing his thoughts on watching each student develop through their high school experience.

Mr. Strauss and his administration have produced a smooth effective operation—demonstrating a deep concern for their job. He exercised a high level of involvement to serve as an example; to display an image of Hart High; to leave an impression that "we must make a difference."

JOHN SCHIRMER, VICE PRINCIPAL

This fall marked Vice Principal, John Schirmer's second year here at Hart. "The warm attitude among the students and teachers made my transfer from Canyon, where I served as Assistant Principal for thirteen years, seem to be a minor adjustment," said a welcomed Mr. Schirmer. Mr. Schirmer commented that it was—and is—indeed a pleasure to work with such a skilled faculty which understands the whole picture of their job.

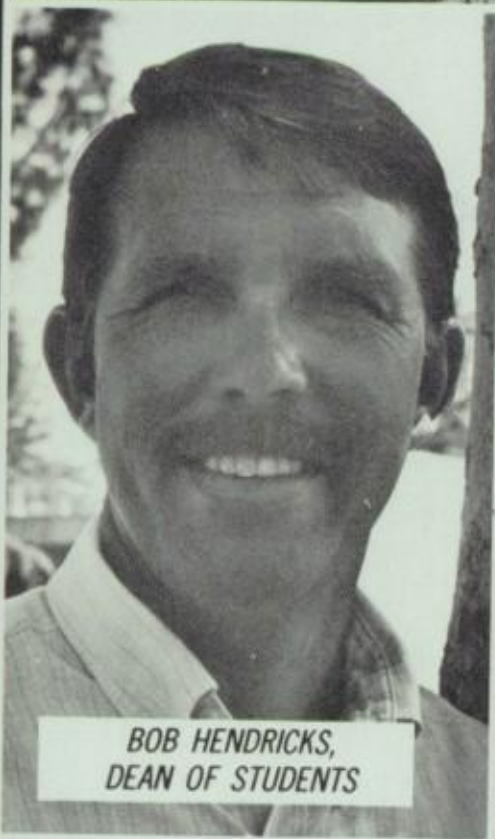

Mr. Schirmer's careful devotion to provide a positive educational atmosphere is demonstrated by his energetic attitude. Always on the ball to improve the appearance of the campus, Mr. Schirmer contributed this year by putting a flower bed in front of campus and updating the display case to present the spirit of tradition which distinguishes Hart High from other campuses.

Scheduling all classes, developing the school master calendar, and organizing the graduation exercises are a few of his other endeavors. With a staff of ninety teachers, Mr. Schirmer commented that he must keep a certain frame of mind in which he honors the complaints of everyone.

Hart's New Moms and Dads

Not only did Hart receive new students in the past year, but we had the unexpected joy in receiving new additions to the family. Robyn Courtney Basey came into the world on September 1, 1985. Both Mr. Basey and his wife, Candy, would like more children. Robyn has given Mr. Basey many small joys, but one sticks out in his mind, "I never realized how much fun it was to be drooled on." Another new dad on Hart's campus is Mr. Honnen. Charlene Marie entered his and his wife, Sharon's, life on September 3, 1985. Since Charlene Marie is their third child, the two happy parents do not wish to have more children. One of Mr. Honnen's favorite activities is, "Watching her scoot around on her back." Mr. Borrueel also became a father with the arrival of Daniel Mark Borrueel on November 9, 1985. He and his wife, Donna, would like more children. He has no complaints about his little boy, but the worst moment so far, was when "I was holding him up high above my head and him slobbering in my eye." Yet, he is still very proud of him since, "He looks just like me! Handsome!" At the time this article was written Hart had one more new family member, Katelin Eileen Shenberger. Born March 25, 1986, Katelin had the entire school buzzing with her arrival. Her parents, Jill and Joseph Shenberger don't know if they want more children at this point. Mrs. Shenberger's special joy is that, "She looks just like my husband!" Mrs. Shenberger will be back teaching Spanish in September.

At the end of April, Hart had an expectant mother, Mrs. Vincent. Mrs. Vincent will be giving birth on May 20 or 21, 1986 since her second child will be a C-section birth. She would like either a boy or girl whose names would be either John Robert, John William or Joann (?). Both she and her husband, Robert, decided not to have any more children. She will be back in September part time teaching photo.

Hart Says "Goodbye"

After 19 years of Hart High teaching and 27 years in the educational field, John Borozan is anticipating the next chapter of his life. As an instructor of English, French, Social Studies, and Anthropology, Mr. Borozan has always felt a strong responsibility for his students and their academic growth.

Mr. Borozan looks forward to the future and plans to enter the marketing field. A former actor, he left Hart High with many memories and a strong feeling of accomplishment.

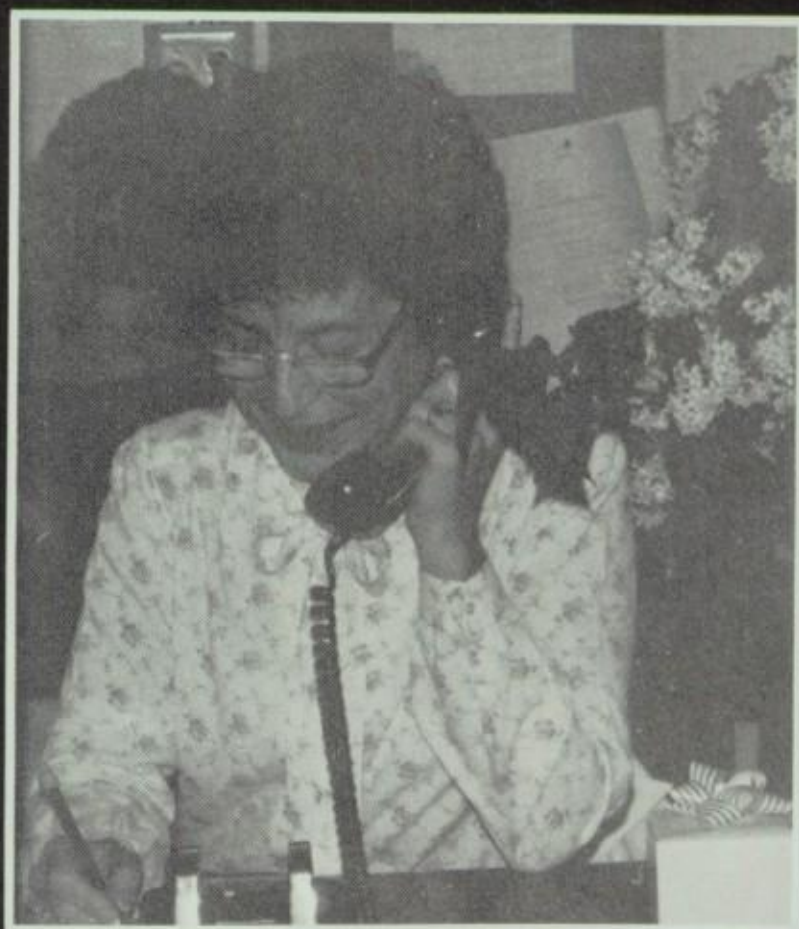

One former student said, "Mr. Borozan has a great sense of humor and was always willing to help us with our work." Hart High has been blessed with the contributions of Mr. John Borozan and wishes him much luck.

Since 1973 Hart students have seen the smiling face of Mrs. Jeanette Stenicka each morning after returning from an absence. In the attendance office, Mrs. Stenicka has faced many complaints and situations posed by both parents and students. She has always handled everything in the most professional manner. She enjoyed the contact with the youngsters of our community.

The faculty at Hart sincerely appreciated Mrs. Stenicka's efforts and will miss her.

Mrs. Stenicka and her husband, Bob, will be retiring together in Arizona. They look forward to spending more time with one another, their two children, David and Linda, and their two grandchildren. Mrs. Stenicka leaves Hart with a treasure of happy memories.

True Holiday Spirit

At Hart an important holiday tradition has been the canned food drive. Each year this activity helps students remember the less fortunate families in the community. To help inspire student to bring more cans, an annual competition has been established where the class that collects the most cans wins a pizza party. And each year it seems that Mr. Newman's auto shop class wins.

In 1986, this class broke the previous year's record of 2,323 cans. Mr. Newman (the "can god") said that his students are motivated by "a desire to help the needy during the holidays." Instead of celebrating their victory with pizza and soda the auto shop class persuaded A.S.B. to give them one hundred dollars. With this money the students bought bags full of toys for needy children.

One student in the class said, "Giving to the needy makes us happy."

KAREN O'CONNOR: Geometry, Algebra IS1, Drill Team Coach.

The Right Stuff

Bob Henson and Don Lund are just like any other teachers at Hart, except for one important difference—they both have "The Right Stuff." They're pilots.

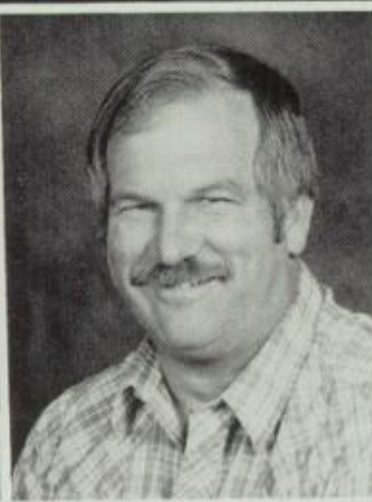

The next time you hear the drone of an aircraft engine over the Santa Clarita Valley, look up. It could be Captain Bob in his biplane or his Grumman Tiger showing off some negative G stunts. Or the aviator at the controls could be Captain Don in his Cessna 172, buzzing off to Tahoe for the weekend.

In 1968, Henson flew for the first time in a Cessna 150. Four months and $425 later, he became a licensed pilot—quite a contrast with today's costs of at least $2000 for flying instruction. Captain Bob can recall many adventures since his first flight, but none stands out more than when he almost had a mid-air collision with a commercial jet near Ontario airport. Henson says quick reactions by both pilots saved him from becoming a "permanent hood ornament."

Lund learned how to fly in 1978 at the Van Nuys airport. After a total of 90 hours of instruction, Captain Don received his license and now holds an instrument rating, which allows him to fly in bad weather. According to Captain Don, the instrument rating "makes flying a useful form of transportation rather than just another way to have fun." Lund recalls one incident when he had to make a precarious landing in very low visibility. He had to abort his initial attempt at the last moment when he realized that his glide slope indicator wasn't working properly. But on the second try, with full flaps down, he managed to land his airplane safely.

In the classrooms and in the clouds, both of these fine instructors show the right stuff.

RICHARD WEEKLEY: Extended Day Program

Teacher of the Year

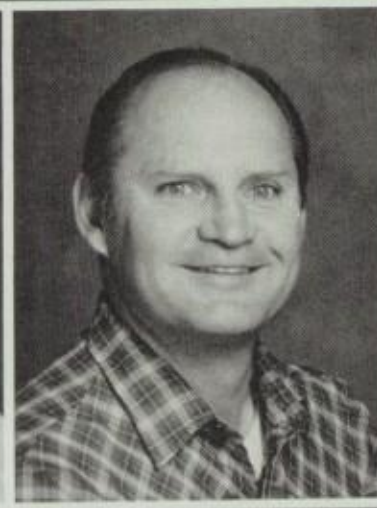

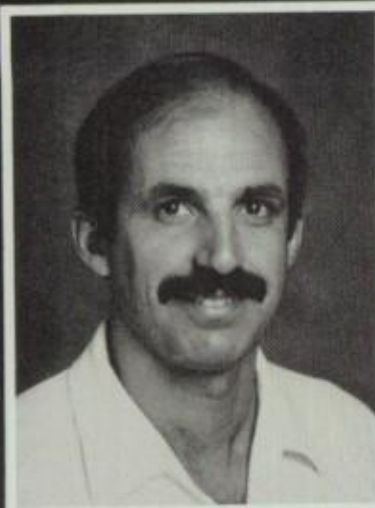

"Personally, I like teenagers. People of our generation are not supposed to like teenagers. Tolerate them, yes. Love them, of course. But like them, never! But I like teenagers."

This genuine concern for her students coupled with her knowledge and command of her subject and contentment for her job has enabled Hart's much-heralded English chairman, Lori Huenink, to gain her statewide recognition. Selected Hart District Teacher of the year in 1985, she was one of thirteen Los Angeles County finalists who vied for state honors in education. Of the more than 500,000 secondary educators in California, Mrs. Huenink was ranked thirty-seventh.

Her success as a quality instructor is not a fluke. Enthusiasm, dedication, and genuine concern toward her students and subject have catapulted Mrs. Huenink to the peak of her profession; the teacher elite. In each of her three courses — Advanced Composition A.P., College Preparatory English Grammar, and Public Speaking — she strived to instill creativity, confidence and pride in every student, so that each might fully develop his potential.

Though the state has just now recognized her excellence in the classroom, her students have honored and revered her for the past sixteen years.

"Everybody should have the Lori Huenink experience," proposed Joyce, Searby, devoted counselor and loyal friend.

Indians Dominate Foothill League

The 1985 Indian football season was one of the best in the school's forty year history. Outstanding individual performances and dedication to the team turned a disappointing first game 6-3 loss to cross town rival Canyon and a 0-3-1 beginning into a 9 game winning streak, a third straight Foothill League title, and a berth in the CIF Finals against Muir High of Pasadena.

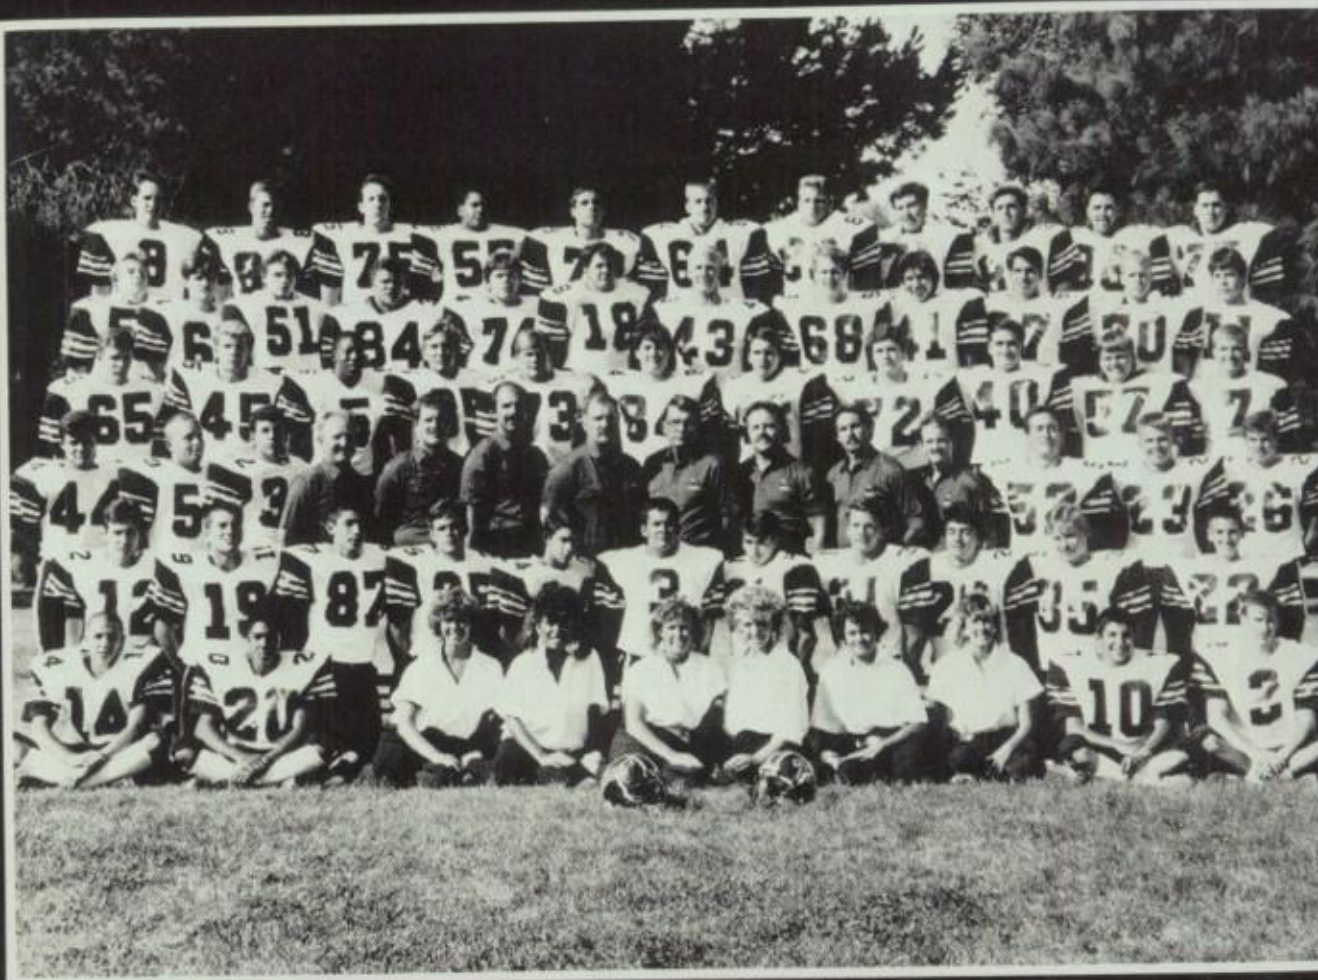

Led by All CIF Tackle, the Foothill League's Most Valuable Lineman, and three year varsity starter, Charlie Drake, the '85 varsity featured an All-League offensive line. Each of the six starters (Charlie Drake, David Lee, David Long, Jack McKeon: First team - Greg Felan, Jeff Moore: Second team) was named to the All Foothill League team. Behind this awesome front ran the First Team All League Backfield, All CIF and Foothill League Back of the Year Jim Bonds, Brian Baie and Chris Hite. Statistically enjoying a very successful season, Hite and Baie shared the spotlight, rushing for 660 yards and 598 yards and 15 T.D.'s respectively. Hite also led the team in pass receptions with 61 and an additional 769 yards and 8 T.D.'s.

The '85 varsity's Most Valuable Player, Jim Bonds, broke many school passing records, including most completions in a season at 179 and most yards in a season with 2,425, while scoring 11 T.D.'s and passing for 16 more.

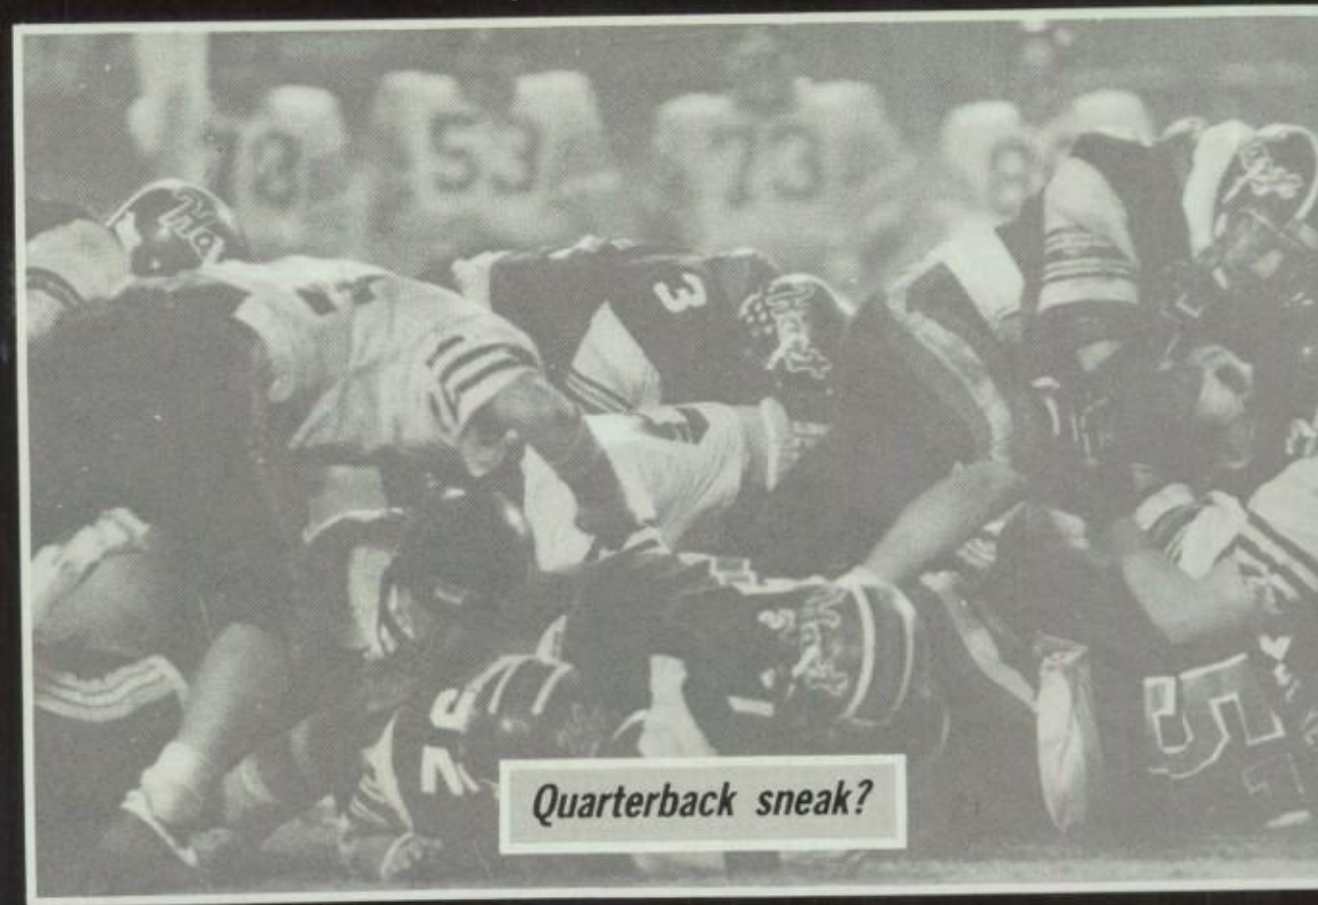

Defense against the run was the real strength of the Indian defensive unit in '85 as they too had seven players make First Team All League. Up front in the trenches, Kyle McMullen (53 tackles, 9 QB sacs), Gary Smith (63 tackles, 5 QB sacs), and Jim Vandertoorn (45 tackles, 6 QB sacs) limited opponents to less than 60 yards rushing per game. They were backed up by a trio of First Team All League linebackers Mike Holden (63 tackles), Tim McLean (76 tackles, 6 QB sacks.) and leading tackler and All CIF Player John Libby (102 tackles).

In the Indian secondary the leader again was two time All League safety Cedric Ingram (55 tackles, 6 interceptions). With his second perfect league record (5-0) and Foothill League Championship in as many years Head Coach Rick Scott and his staff led the Indians into the Coastal Conference play-offs with wins over Newbury Park, Santa Barbara, and West Torrance before being defeated by the Muir Mustangs in the CIF final game. Reflecting on this past season Coach Scott said, "Hart football is an integral part of Hart High's history."

This team has earned the respect and admiration of past and future teams. They will long be remembered for not only their record, but their courage, character, and dedication to the program that is Hart football."

Continuing a Winning Tradition

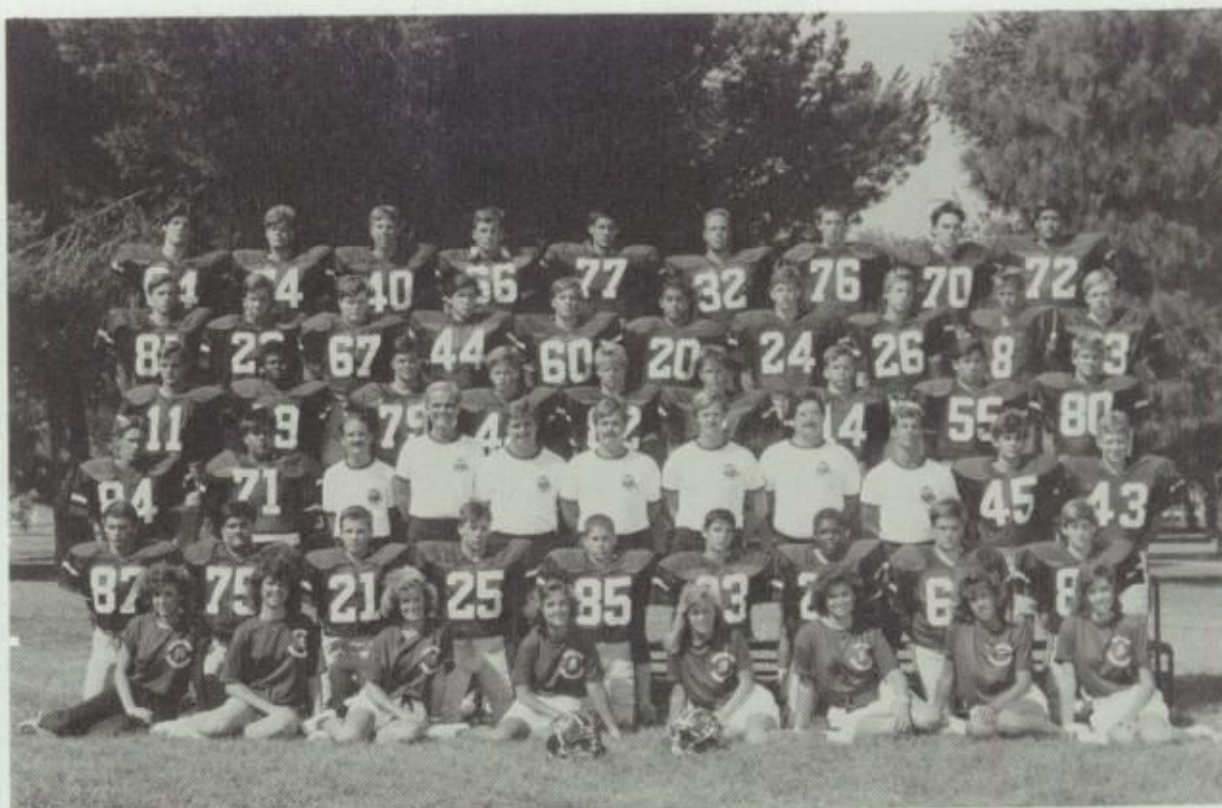

Continuing a Winning Tradition

The 1985 Sophomore Football team accomplished the ultimate in sophomore football going 10-0. This excellent team outscored its opponents 394 to 65. The offense was led by quarterback Darren Renfro's 1,337 yards passing and tailback Craig Whitten's 1,475 yards (the most yards gained by any tailback in Hart history). Also leading the offense were tackles Brian Jacobs and Tim Gorman, whose blocking helped produce the 3,395 yards of total offense.

Hart's defense held opponents to less than seven points a game. Six shutouts were led by Frank Williams, Kevin Gannon, Mark Rogerson, Scott Holden and Jay Spake. Kicker, Jim Harper, booted two forty-eight yard field goals, the longest in Hart history.

The highlights of the year were definately the 54-0 whipping of Canyon, and the 35-20 win over Schurr for the championship. (Schurr had beaten Hart as freshmen for the championship the previous year.)

The 1985 sophomore team was coached by Rick Herrington, Dean Herrington, Joe Erdelen, Mike Halcovich, Ray Whitten and Kyle Lachman. They were able to continue the excellent Hart sophomore football tradition.

The Hart High Freshman Football Team opened its 1985 campaign against arch rival Canyon High School, in a game that was as emotional as any they would have all year. The young Indians beat the Cowboys 21-0, with the great defensive effort which was to be their trademark throughout the coming year.

With the first win under their belts the young warriors readied themselves to do battle with the Knights of Notre Dame High School and the Indians of Alemany. Both teams proved to be no match for the now confident Indians, as they collected their second and third shut-outs. The fourth week of the season brought another arch-rival—the Centurions of Saugus High School. The Centurions were well prepared and emotionally high for the game. However, they could muster little offense against the stout Indian defense and met with the same fate as their predecessors.

A quick trip down Hwy 14, netted the Indians a fifth win in a row. The now confident Indians rolled to a 13-0 victory over the Rebels of Quartz Hill, boasting a perfect 5-0 mark, which included 4 shut-outs. The defense allowed only 6 points in as many games. The first to challenge the young Indians were the Falcons of Crescenta Valley. While the Falcons had greatly improved their program over previous years, the game proved to be no contest.

The team prepared to pursue the one thing that has eluded all Freshman teams in the past, an uncontested Foothill League Championship. However, during the showdown at Pasadena High School the young Indian warriors finally succumbed to the size and speed of a very good Bulldog team. Emotionally down by the disappointing loss, the team rebounded the following week, venting their frustrations on Alhambra and San Gabriel High Schools. The young warriors closed out their amazing season as they dismantled the fine Spartan team of Schurr High School.

In a year that was flawed only by the errors of inexperience, this young team continued with a winning tradition established in years past and proved that they could rightfully take their place with the finest teams in the history of Hart High School.

Swift of Feet

It was a year of firsts for the 1985 cross-country team. Not only was the team's third place finish in the C.I.F. Finals the best in Hart history, but their overall performances throughout the course of the season were exceptional. In addition to a third place tie in C.I.F., the Hart squad raced to its first outright league championship by winning every dual meet. This talented varsity team captured three out of four invitational championships.

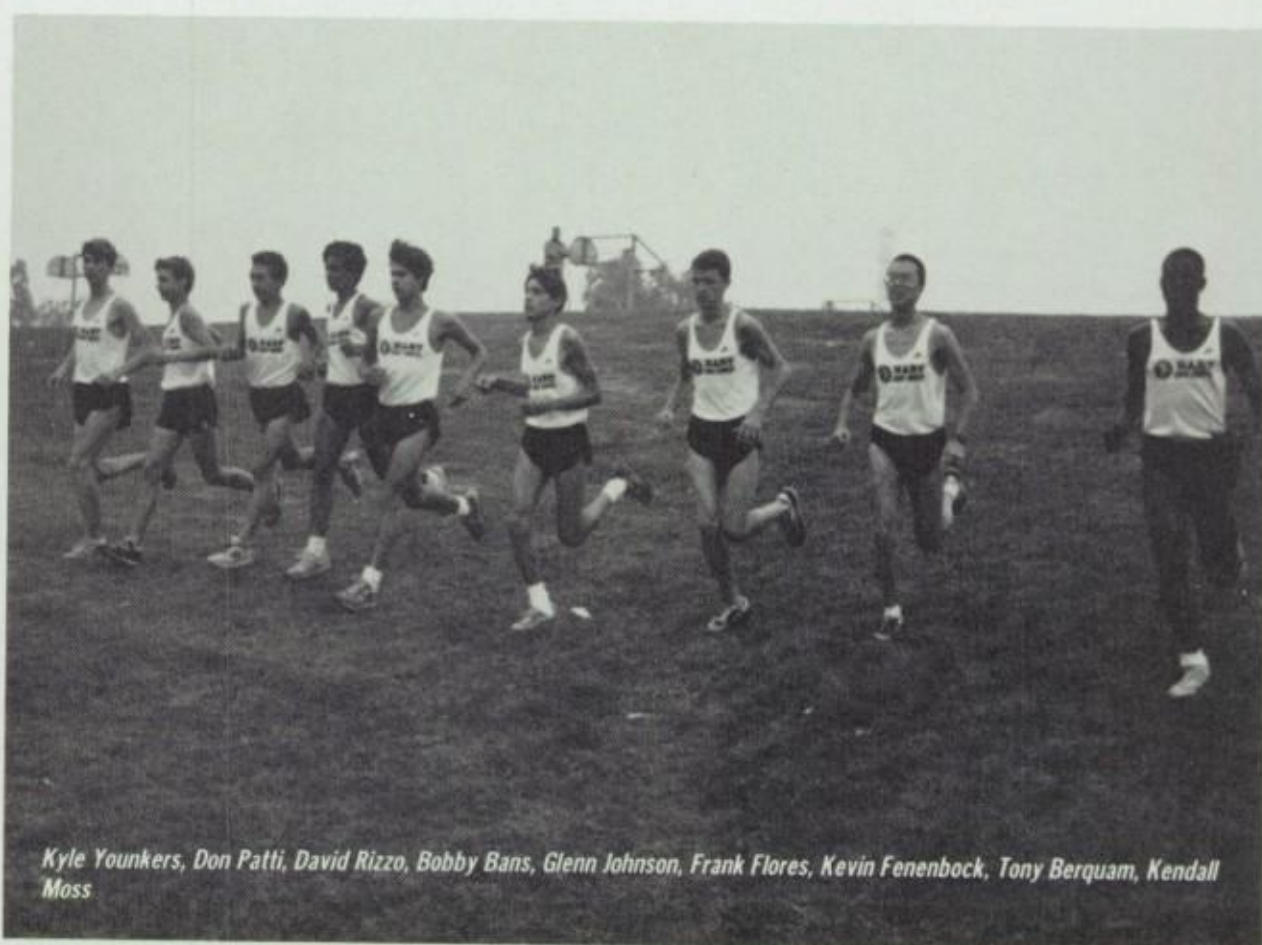

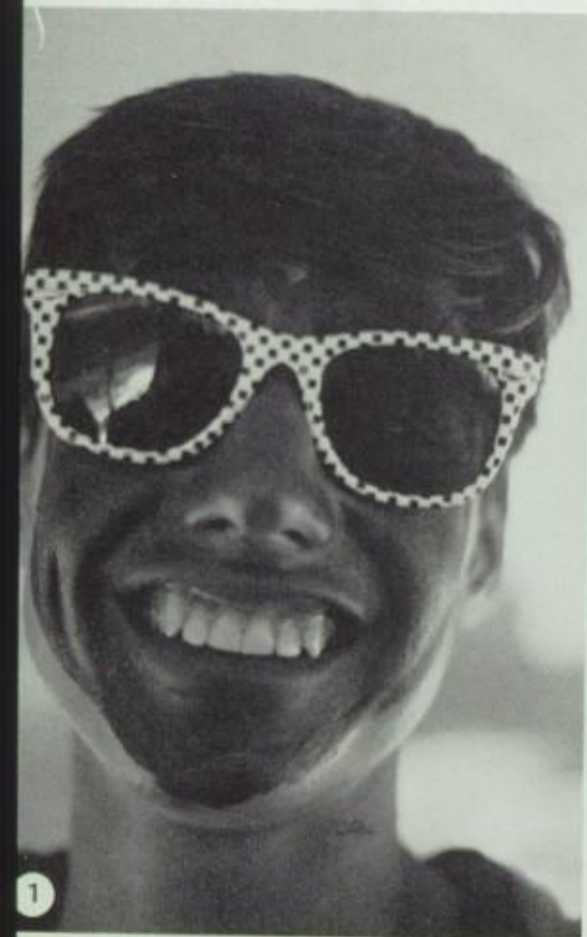

Who composed this winning squad? Who were these pain-loving individuals? Glenn Johnson, Kendall Moss, Kyle Younkers, Bobby Bans, Frank Flores, Kevin Fenenbock, Tony Berquam, David Rizzo—these were the eight gutsy runners on Hart's championship team. During the season, there were many individual highlights.

In the league finals at Schurr High School, five Hart runners placed in the top ten, clinching the league crown. Frank Flores led the Indians with a second place finish, and was closely followed by Glenn Johnson in third, and Kevin Fenenbock in fourth. Also scoring well were Tony Berquam, eighth, and Kyle Younkers, ninth.

Freshman/Sophomore Boys Cross Country team had an extremely successful season finishing with a 6-0 record. Undoubtedly the strongest runners on the team were Don Patti and David Rizzo, who also participated on the Varsity team. Another valuable runner, Brian Hurta, helped lead the team to the league championship.

The Junior Varsity runners, finishing the season with a 4-1 record, won second place in the league. The team was led by captain, David Blackwell, Tony Berquam and Matt Vanatter (until his unfortunate injury forced him to remain on the side lines.) Tony also had the opportunity to run for the varsity team during the season.

Constructive coaching of Gene Blankenship and Dave Klinger inspired everyone's excellent running abilities to shine through.

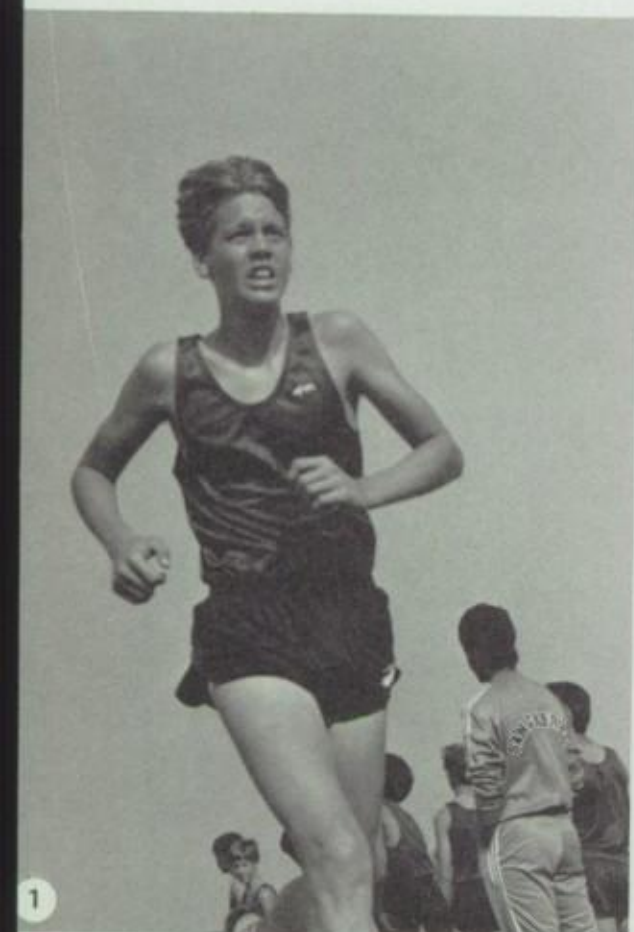

With such a young, strong crop of winners, next year's teams should be exceptional.

Running Away With It All

"One of the most rewarding experiences in my life has been working with the cross country teams at Hart." These words, uttered by Head Cross Country Coach Gene Blankenship, are easily believed. Who wouldn't have enjoyed working with the members on the team, who had finished their best season in Hart history.

The accomplishments of the 1985 girls team alone were extremely impressive. The list merely began with the Foothill League Championship. The girls also captured first place in the L.A. County Championships and the Royal Invitational meet, and fourth places in the Bell/Jeff meet and Kenney Staub Invitational.

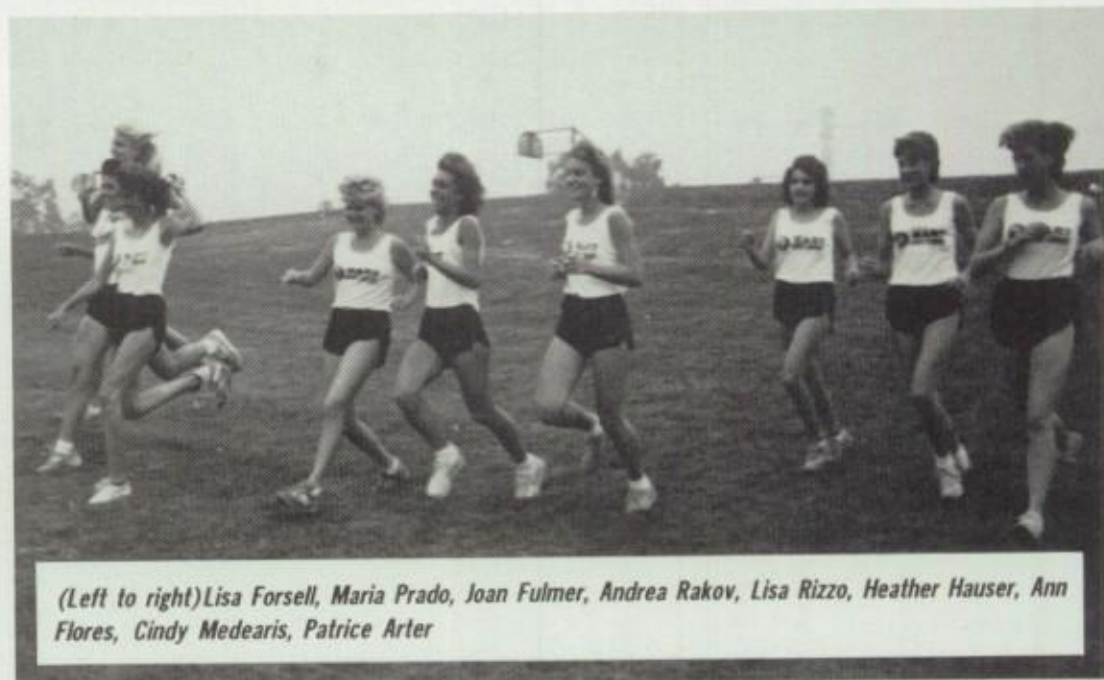

Much of the attention during the year was focused upon senior Lisa Rizzo, whose list of accomplishments seems endless. Andrea Rakov, another determined, hard-working senior was a valuable asset to the team. After a successful 1985 season, junior members Stacy Norfleet and Heather Hauser promise to lead the Indians to victory once again in 1986. Joan Fulmer, Ann Flores, and Cindy Medearis also had an exceptionally good season. The JV team had many new members who were aspiring to make Varsity.

The skillful coaching of Gene Blankenship combined with the talent and dedication of the Hart runners seemed to be a perfect formula for success.

Lisa Rizzo leads the pack.

Service with Style

The girl's Varsity Volleyball team had its ups and downs this year, but most players will agree that the season could be summed up in one word—exciting!! Although they defeated only rival school, Saugus, they kept almost every match close with teamwork and spirit. The varsity was a young team, consisting of only three seniors, four juniors, and one freshman. Coach Jeanne Tong tried to help the players keep their morale high throughout the season, encouraging the team to do their best at all times. Team captains Kim Leigh, a junior, and Nancy Scribner, a senior, also provided encouragement for their team mates.

At the team banquet, Nancy Scribner was awarded Most Inspirational Honors. Tiffany Leigh was voted Most Improved while Stephanie Daniel received the Coach's Award. Kris Paris was voted Best Defensive and Lisa Gee, Best server. The Varsity also gave its thanks to manager Joyce Scribner.

The junior varsity team had a successful year and many talented players. Liz Nivon was given the Most Inspirational award while Jeanette Fogg received both the Most Improved and the Coach's Award. Kris Paris was voted Best Defensive. Under the leadership of Coach Chris Mansfield, the Junior Varsity Team did well and looks forward to more success in the future.

Learning basic skills and rules, the Frosh/Soph team got off to a strong start and continued to play well throughout the year. Awards went to: Lisa Stout, Most Inspirational; Missy Ogden, Most Improved; and Liz Siedler, Coach's Award. Led by their coach Miss Sinclair, the Frosh/Soph enjoyed a productive season.

Volleyball provided many girls with a fun way to spend the fall, but there was also a lot of hard work involved. Perhaps senior Lisa Gee put best when she said, "It was a challenge, but it was worth it."

Taking It To The Hoop

The Hart Varsity basketball season started with a surprising 71-57 win over a talented Alumni team. The rest of the season was characterized by hard work and determination. In the non-league season the Indians fared well, winning most games and qualifying for the championship semi-finals in the Hoover/Burbank Tournament. Senior Troy Best was selected to the All-Tournament team.

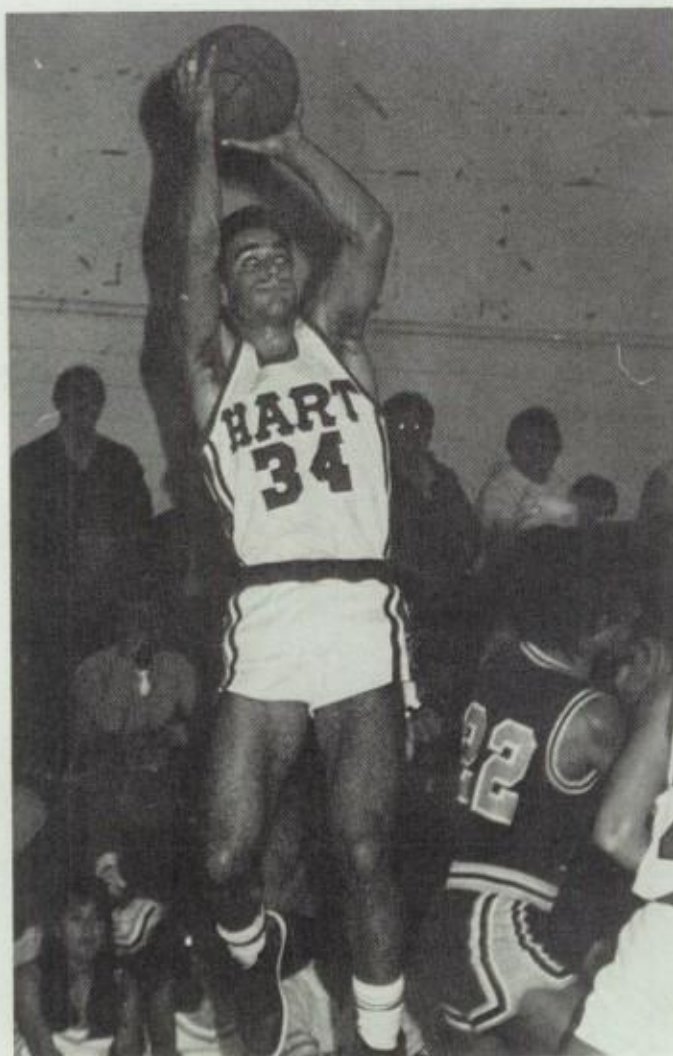

Throughout the Foothill league games the Indians gave 110%, but came up short in the end. Jim Baroni and Mike Michelson were often high scorers in many games. Steve Anners after being moved up from the J.V. team to the Varsity squad played extremely well throughout the season. With starting players Scott Gilmore, Tom Ewing and Troy Best leading the way, Hart battled fiercely, keeping every game close and competitive.

Although at times things looked grim in terms of wins and losses, offenses and defenses, points and rebounds, and turnovers and transition, the meaningful component which remained were the desire, cooperation, competitiveness, and resilience displayed by the players and the team throughout the season.

J.V. Basketball had successful season . . .

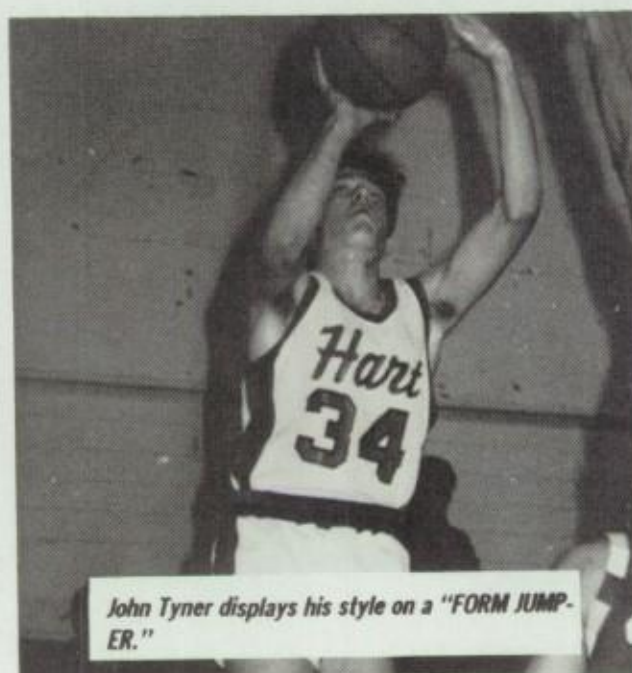

The Junior Varsity squad had a successful season finishing third in the tough Foothill League with a 6-4 record. Some of the highlights during the preseason included: playing well before losing to a talented Crescenta Valley team, beating cross-town rival Saugus 49-45 and crushing Canyon 57-39 to avenge an earlier loss.

The Foothill league season was a mix of exciting victories and a few unfortunate losses. During Brian Jacob's second game he was able to grab a season's high 14 rebounds. In what was probably the best game of the year for Hart, the quintet of Brian Jacobs, Steve Valenzuela, Peter Cop, Bryan Allen and Keith Kennedy pulled out an exciting 41-31 victory. Hart continued their winning ways throughout the season. In the last game of the year against Schurr, Hart needed a win to finish in a second place tie with the Spartans. After leading by 3 points at the half, the Indians couldn't stop the hot-shooting Spartans and lost 53-40.

The 1986 Hart squad was not only a talented basketball team but also a group of fine young athletes who cared about each other and pulled for one another at all times.

Coach Gary Peters offers "pearls of wisdom" to his team.

Playing their first year for Hart, the "little" Indians finished a rather impressive 1986 season. Hart finished the Foothill Frosh/Soph League with a 6 win, 4 loss record to secure third place—a good showing considering these freshmen competed against many sophomore teams. Overall Hart had a successful 12 win, 8 loss season.

Most important for these freshmen was not the actual minutes each individual played, but their personal improvement and expanded knowledge of what high school basketball is like. Nineteen players started the season and nineteen players made improvements from the beginning to the end.

Indeed, with a talented group of youngsters who excelled on the court as well as in the classroom, Hart basketball will have continued success in future years.

A Season of Learning, Improving and Polishing.

Although the Girls Varsity Basketball Team did not have a winning season on the scoreboard, they maintained a winning attitude throughout the season. Coach Pam Walker described this as a "rebuilding year," with three freshmen joining the team. "This is the most unified team I have ever coached," said Coach Walker. The girls were supportive of one another both on and off the basketball court. The team's MVP award went to Senior Gina LaMantia; Best Offensive Player was Marni Harris; Best Defensive Player was Jennifer Buhman; Most Improved player was Nicole Anthony; the Coaches Award went to Desa Pecel; and the team's Scholar Athlete was Jennifer Buhman.

Hart's junior varsity team finished a successful season in 1986. With hard work, practice, and teamwork, these girls were able to achieve third place in the Palmdale Tournament. During the j.v. awards banquet Danielle Wood was awarded Most Valuable Player and Kelly Kepplinger received Most Improved recognition. Throughout the season, coach Nancy Schreiber both led and motivated, aided by team captains Liz Seidler and Monica Ohlman.

Although the freshman girls' basketball team did not win the majority of their games, Coach Gary Hinman claims that they "showed tremendous improvement." If the season had continued a bit longer they would have won more games. When pressed to single out individual performances, Coach Hinman said, "Well, although Beth Givens was our leading scorer and always played well, I'd hate not to mention the outstanding hustle and efforts of Lisa Swanson, Nikki Brodowy, and Sara Warner—and, of course, Kim Atwood's tremendous defense."

6th Year in Playoffs

Defense was the name of the game for this year's boys varsity soccer squad. Allowing only 11 goals in 12 league games, the team earned second place in the Foothill League. With a league record of 7-4-1, the team ran into tough competition from eventual CIF runner-up, Burbank, and Alhambra. All four defeats of one goal difference came from these two teams. Scoring twice as many goals than their opponents in league play, the varsity peaked in the CIF playoffs by demolishing their first and second round rivals, El Segundo and Righetti, 4-0 and 3-0, respectively. Even though they barely lost to CIF champion Esperanza 1-0 in the quarterfinals, this year's outstanding team achieved the best record ever for a Hart soccer team.

Rewarded for their overall excellence of play during the season, Chris Fontal, Eddie Olafsson, Jim Hofferber, and goalkeeper Jamey Forsyth were selected for the All-Foothill League First team. The Signal's All-SCV soccer selections included Rick Frye, Jamey Forsyth, Eddie Olafsson, and Bob Wolfe. In addition, Jim Hofferber was honored as the valley's MVP for 1986. Receiving the highest individual awards of the year were seniors Eddie Olafsson and Chris Fontal as they were chosen for the All-CIF second and third teams, respectively.

Overall, this team of very dedicated and talented athletes worked extremely hard and enjoyed a highly successful season, finishing with a final record of 14 wins, 7 losses, and 2 ties.

The Hart High Junior Varsity Soccer team could brag of a nineteen win, two tie, and one loss record for the 1986 season. Throughout the season they defeated many fine teams and placed second in the Simi Valley Tournament. This wonderful team also was able to end the season as Foothill league champs for the second year in a row. The Indians scored a record 86 goals while only giving up 10 goals in 22 games. Their explosive offense and great team-work made scoring goals easy. Also, the team's defensive players were highly successful at keeping the opponents from scoring.

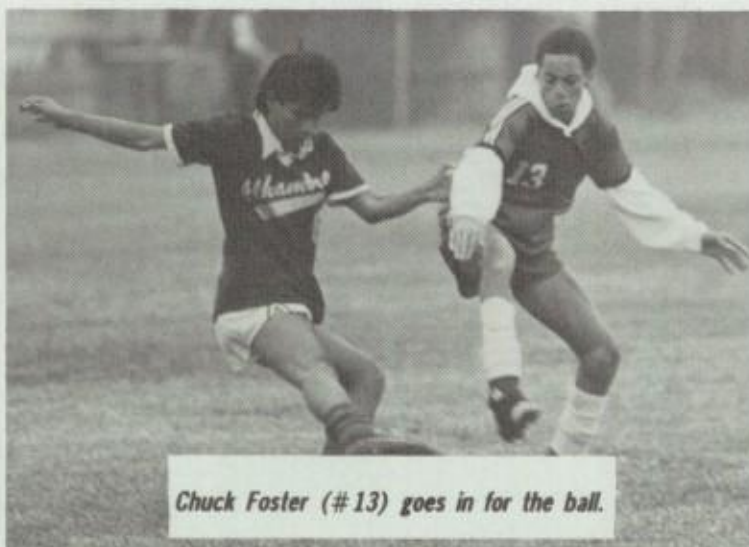

Overall, the J.V. team finished the year on a high note. Next year promises to be even better.

The Hart Girls Soccer Team played to a season record of eight wins, eight losses and two ties. The losses were 1-0, 2-1, 3-2, the hardest losses to reconcile, because in any one of them, the score could have easily been reversed. The quality of players on Hart's team was high with five players selected to the all Foothill League team: first team players included Alicia Bullock, Ingrid Penuela, Lisa Polizzi; second team places were awarded to Liz Woods and Rachael Davis. The Signal All Santa Clarita Valley Team selected Penuela, Bullock, Polizzi, and center fullback Heather Hauser. Liz Woods was awarded a place on the Simi All-Tournament team.

Hart's Girl's Soccer team consisted of nineteen outstanding athletes who worked hard and played aggressively throughout the season. At the Soccer Banquet the following awards were given: Barbara Miles—the Coach's award; Heather Hauser—Most Inspirational; Ingrid Penuela and Alicia Bullock—Co-MVP's; Lisa Polizzi—Rookie of the Year; and Terri Anderson—Most Improved. Graduating four year letter earners—Ingrid Penuela, Liz Woods, and Michele Enger were also honored with commemorative plaques.

Surging Ahead

Though the record may not reflect it, this year's track team was quite possibly the best in Hart's history. Six individuals established eight new school records. Frank Flores captured the 2-mile and 3000 meter marks, Cedric Ingram clocked a new school best in the 330 Intermediate hurdles and the 220 yard dash, Kendall Moss set a new standard in the 800, Sean Williams leaped to a record in the triple jump, and Lisa Rizzo shattered her own mark in the 2-mile. Endless hours and complete dedication paid dividends for these stellar athletes.

Though the Boy's Varsity team compiled a 3-2 record for the season, they captured Football League Finals meet championship. Individual determination and team unity sparked the late season triumph. Members were honored for their contributions at the awards banquet. The team MVP trophy went to Cedric Ingram who also garnered the 330 hurdle title and the 220 crown. Frank Flores and Kendall Moss were chosen Co-MVP for the distance squad while Pete Ruiz was MVP in the field events. Kevin Fenebock and Colin Smyth received Coaches awards.

A lack of depth proved to be the crucial factor limiting the success of the Girls Varsity team. However, key performers gave their all to reconcile this problem. Alicia Bullock, who received the coveted Coach's award turned in many strong performances throughout the season as well as snatching the 440 League title. Sprint/Hurdle MVP, Amy Silver gathered points consistently in the 100 and 220, and, as usual the league distance races were dominated by league MVP, Lisa Rizzo.

Another first place throw by Steve Barnett.

Alicia Bullock wins the 440.

Frankie Flores, tie your shoe!!

Close but, . . .

The number two ranked Indians started off the season with a bang when Tim Nedin pitched a no-hitter against Westlake in the opener of the El Segundo Tournament. The Indians had a record of 4-1 and ended up taking third place in the tournament. This was a minor setback to the Indians, however, they defeated a tough Simi Valley squad who went on to be the number one team in the nation.

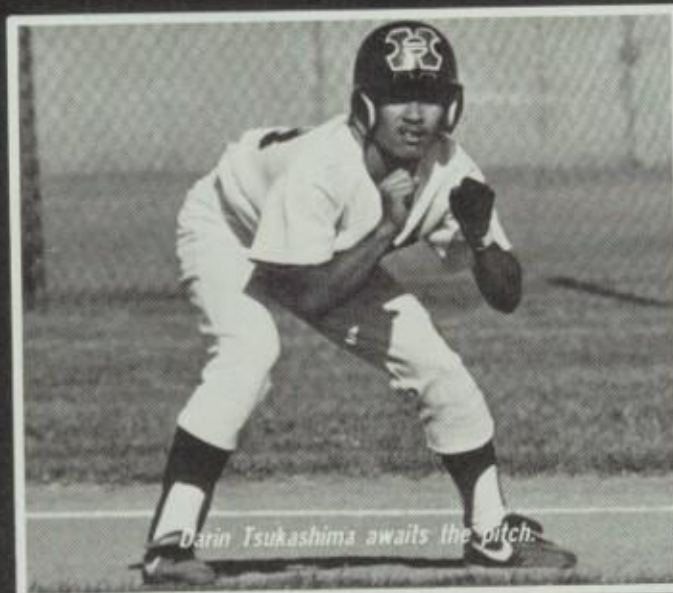

Next came league play where the Indians went 7-8, losing five games by a margin of one or two runs. Over spring break, Hart took third place in the Goodman Tournament. Despite the injuries of Jim Bonds and Sheldon Sparks, two instrumental players for Hart, the Indians battled to a final record of 15-10.

Though the Indians were disappointed with the overall outcome of the season, some personal achievements offered compensation. Tim Nedin was named to the first team All-League and Gary Smith was named to the second team All-League, with Mike Elswick receiving Honorable Mention. With this kind of talent, coaches like Mr. Frank Sanchez, Mr. Andy Allersworth, and Mr. Pete Calzia, will undoubtedly continue with success.

We Are The Champions

The 1986 Junior Varsity Squad fooled a lot of people with their young talent. Making a recovery from last year, the team clinched the Foothill League with 12-3 league record. The team started pre-season with a little difficulty but the young talent exploded after the Saugus Easter Tournament with a ten game winning streak and battled to a final record of 17-6.

One of the Indians strengths was their pitching. Scott Bockman, 9-3, and Shawn Bowen, 8-0, were in the main pitching rotation for Hart. The Most Improved Award was given to Jamie Carroll. Darrell Davis was chosen as the Most Inspirational team member. Mike Stevenson received the Leadership Award and Don Hinson was honored as the Most Valuable Player.

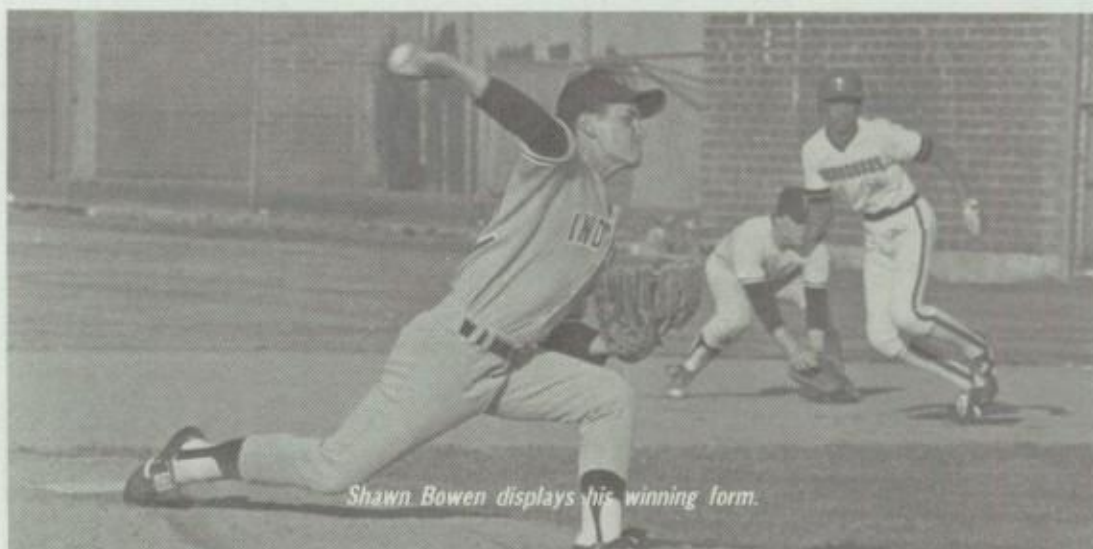

The Indians were pleased with the overall outcome of the season. With the consistency of their hitting, pitching, and defense, the Indians were an unstoppable force in the Foothill League. Head coach, Tim Borruel, who completed two seasons at Hart, adjusted to the winning tradition of Hart's baseball program.

Surprise!

The year 1986 was a year of change for the Girls Varsity Softball Team. After losing seven starters, people expected the team to be young and weak. However, the team surprised everyone, completing the season with flying colors. They finished second in the Foothill League, second in the Hart Tournament, and won the Consolation Trophy in the Simi Tournament. Aided by the coaching of Mr. Weil and Mr. Martinez, the girls experienced a successful and fun-filled season.

Unfortunately, the team was defeated in the first round of CIF playoffs. Cyndi Smith was chosen as first team Foothill League Pitcher, and Kris Paris was chosen as first team outfielder. Nikki Fox, Michelle Nedin, Desa Pecel, Danielle Wood and Kris Yeates were selected to the league's second team. Angie Gorski also made honorable mention.

The Varsity awards were as follows:

Desa Pecel—Rookie of the Year
Nikki Fox—Most Valuable Offense
Kris Paris—Most Valuable Defense
Christy Stavoropolous—Most Improved
Angie Gorski—Most Inspirational
Cyndi Smith—Most Valuable Player

The J.V. awards were as follows:

Debbie Beam—Most Valuable Player
Eileen Van Sickle—Most Improved
Jennifer Phillips—Most Inspirational
Lisa Schurmann—Most Valuable Offense
Nicole Anthony—Most Valuable Defense

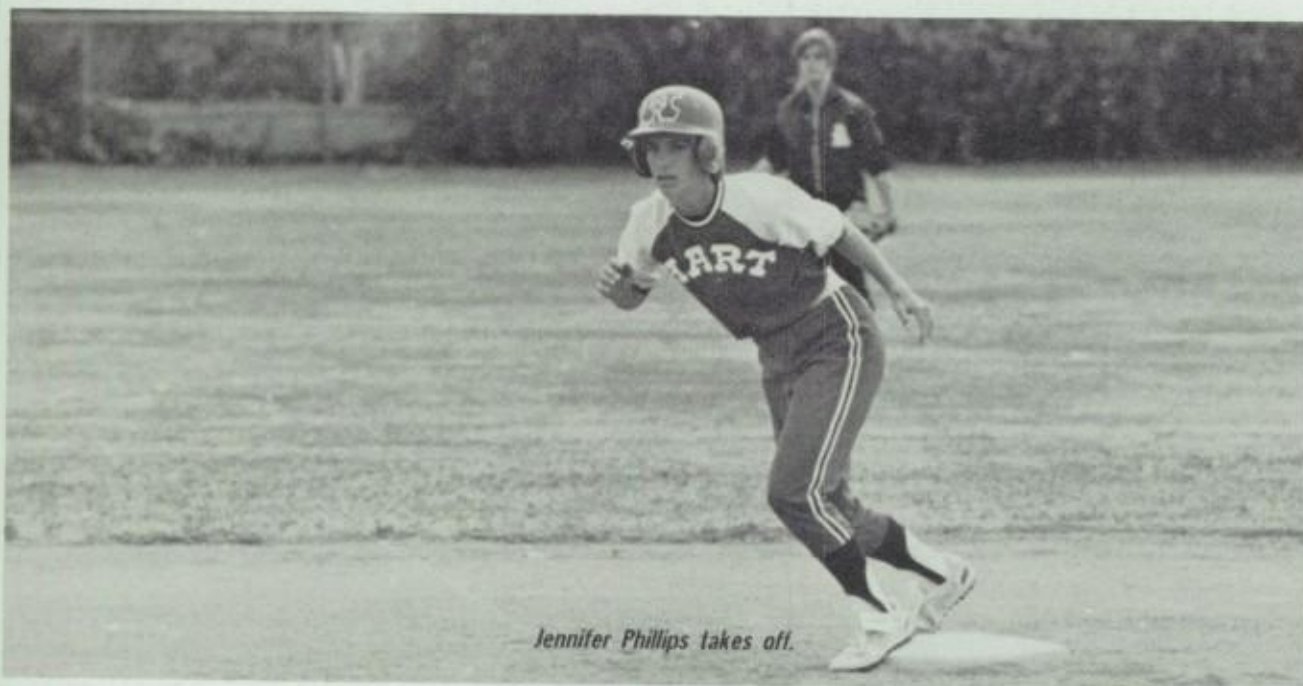

Next year promises to be a strong year for softball, as the Varsity loses only one starter and the J.V. has many returnees. Good Luck!

Hart's Aces

The Girls' Varsity Tennis Team had another great season this fall. Christine Schmeidel led the mighty Indians, winning 162 games and giving up only four. She not only won first place varsity singles at the Palmdale Tournament, but also made it to the finals of the Mark Keppel and the Buena Ventura tournaments. Christine also advanced to the third round of CIF finals.

The team's overall record was 10-8. Desa Pecel and Danielle Wood, the freshmen doubles duo, did exceptionally well for first year rookies. Gina LaMantia demonstrated her ability at playing tennis during her first year and earned the title of Most Dedicated. Other awards included: Most Valuable Player - Christine Schmeidel; Most Inspirational - Keilene Izumi; Most Improved - Dena Eastman. The Coach's Award went to Jackie Mittelstadt and Loreen Toji, the team captains.

The team thanks Coach Steve Love for another great season.

Foothill Champs

Throughout the '86 season, the tennis team played almost flawlessly. Coach Mansfield stayed calm, cool, and collected even when verbally attacked by irate coaches. Cockiness set in early and, despite a close loss to Burroughs, Hart continued to destroy opponents until the end. With a 9-1 league record, the Indians captured the Foothill League Championship for the second year in a row with incredible singles from Jamie MacMullen, Tuan Dam, and Bret Silverman. The doubles finished off the one-two punch that proved effective throughout the season, with the teams of Mark Nikander and Jason Smisko, Mike Fischer and Rich Osete, and the continually changing team of Kyle Thomas and either William Stokes, John Zrofsky or the late-comer Hoi Dam. This combination proved effective until the second round of the CIF finals, where they met Calabassas and went 5-13 to the Coyotes who have won the CIF Championship for many years. The varsity tennis team of '86 proved to be the best team in Hart history.

With the addition of a "real" coach, Mr. Rose, the JV team had one of their more prestigious years. They were put through rigorous workouts and stretching exercises usually until 4:30. Although their record was not perfect they held their own against all of the JV teams of the Foothill League.

Hart Tees Off

After a tough season, Hart golf finished fourth in the Foothill League, with a 6-4 record. In individual competition, Craig Buckley finished ninth, Kevin McGraw tenth, and Mike Zicker twelfth, respectively. McGraw said, "We peaked too early, and when it came time to face our league opponents we just weren't there." The team finished 9-7 overall, under the strong leadership of Mr. Jim Seely.

The awards for 1986 were

Undefeated . . . Once Again

The Varsity Hart Swim Team had an outstanding 10-0 season. Both the boys and the girls teams swept all the events throughout the season. What made the winning streak even more important was the fact that the team had to overcome a great deal of pre-season barriers in order to be successful. The team practiced daily from 5:30 to 7am and 6 to 8pm.

The team's success is partly due to its excellent coaching staff. Head Coach, Steve Neale, gave the team the constant positive spirit for a prosperous season. Assistant Coach, Brian Rooney gave the team the tough workouts. The coaching staff's newest addition was Assistant Coach, Jennifer Salles-Cuhna, who gave constant support to everyone.

With the girls' unbeatable medley relay team (Tiffany Leigh, Anna Blomster, Debbie Yasacochi, and Sandy Tapp), and free relay team (Donna Kroeger, Anna Blomster, Kristen Cannon, and Debbie Yasacochi) the girls found no problem conquering all. The boys team encountered a little more competition but with the help of the tough freshman, Blair Cannon, junior Craig Miller, and senior Chris Asplin the team blasted all competition out of the water.

The outstanding swimmers were honored at the annual banquet. Most Improved Swimmers were Tiffany Leigh and Greg Horowitz. The Most Inspirational awards went to All-League girl Sandy Tapp and senior Chris Asplin. The MVP award went to Sweden's Anna Blomster and freshman Blair Cannon. (Blair holds two new Hart High records.) The Coach's award, better known as the Aquaman award, was given to Anna Blomster and Trevor Waterson for their tremendous contributions to the team.

The Hart Swim Team finished the year as League Champions, and the Girls' Team placed in the Top 10 of CIF.

JV Swims To Win

The JV swimmers also had a successful season in '86. With the boys' 10-0 record and the girls' 9-1 record, the teams couldn't be stopped. The JV girls' only loss was to Burbank, due to lack of swimmers. The girls were dominated by tough individual medley swimmer Jill Lieberman and strong breast stroker Rachel Davis. The team's captain, Michelle Sebek, couldn't be stopped in the distance and sprint freestyle events. The J.V. boys started out with a novice group of swimmers, but by the end of the year were talented winners. The boys team was led by the Martin Brothers, Derek and Travis. Team Captain, Todd Ford swept the distance races at league finals. All in all a successful season was had by all, and the Hart swim teams, once again won all four Foothill League Championships!

The Hart Diving team hosted its very successful third diving competition at COC. David Lander, once again, qualified for CIF, and the diving team participated in the Calabasas meet where they scored points and assisted with the swim team wins.

Time Out

The "Refrigerettes", "Brawny Babes", "Spikers", "Fat Boys", "Skeptizoids", and "Chili Peppers" are just a handful of the creative team names for Harts' 1986 Intramural program.

This successful season started with the Arm Wrestling Competition. Girls and guys alike showed off their muscles and endurance. In the Hackey Sack Competition, students displayed their dexterity in trying to keep a miniature bean bag off the ground by using their legs. Powder Puff Football was the most popular event followed by 3-on-3 Volleyball and Ping Pong.

In all team events, students formed their own teams and signed up for play in tournaments which were conducted during lunch and after school. The best individuals and teams survived as champions.

Each week a participant was recognized as "Athlete of the Week" for outstanding play in competition — a highlight in anyone's athletic career.

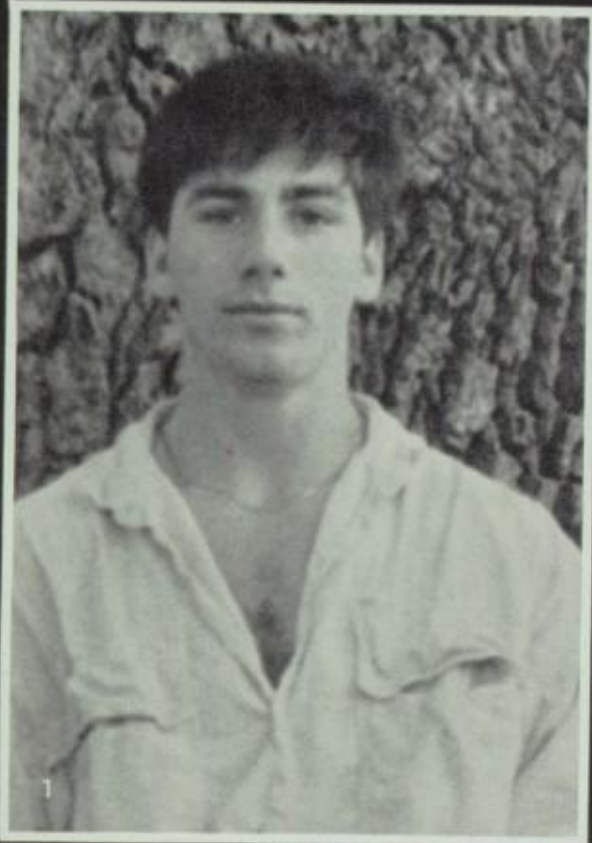

Conducted by Mr. Gary Spindt and ASB, the intramural events provided an exciting outlet from academics and fun for all who participated.

CONFIDENTIAL

The opening of doors for the 1985-86 school year marked more than merely the beginning of another year; it symbolized the official opening of the 1985-86 Marching Band season as well. And what a spectacularly dazzling season it proved to be!

Kicking off the season with performances at football half-times, the band was able to practice, then master the show that would later lead them to victories over other bands. Securing the highest and most prestigious Sweepstakes Award, the Marching Band in their first competition, the Frontiers Day Parade, gained confidence and enthusiasm. This successful beginning led the Band to challenge a more difficult aspect of Marching Band Competition—the field show. Despite fierce competition, the Hart High School Marching Band once again prevailed, achieving victory: third place at the Santa Barbara High School Field Show Competition; second place at the Simi Valley High Competition; and first place in the Chaffey College Pageantry of Bands.

These victories led the confident, enthusiastic Marching Band to undertake an even more demanding challenge—the hosting of their own second annual Redskin Rampage Band Competition. Bands traveled anywhere from across the valley to across the state. The event, a tremendous success, was an enjoyable afternoon of excitement for all those who attended.

Perseverance, determination, desire, and most of all, pride, were the components of the fuel that drove each band member to work as a unit, to pursue and to achieve excellence. Under the direction of Mr. Larry Thornton, the 1985-86 Marching Band was able to achieve a high level of precision which, in turn, rewarded the unit with an exciting, successful year.

For most, the words "Drill Team" bring to mind a group of smiling girls in bright costumes dancing to music. But to members of the drill team, the words bring back special memories.

"The applause."

"Getting up at 5:30AM to be at practice by 7:00AM after a stop at AM/PM for a Diet Coke."

"The high after hitting a difficult routine!"

"Wet tennis shoes and socks!"

"CAMP!"

"Being late to field show practice and having Mr. Thornton stop the band till you get into place."

"GETTING 1st PLACE!"

"Falling into the splits wrong."

"Owning five pairs of sweats— all black!"

"Molly and Gina."

"Being yelled at by Julie or Justine but especially by Miss O'C."

"Bus rides—'We Are the H——s!'"

"Putting on the uniform for the first and then for the last time."

"ATTEN'HUT!!"

"The final performance of 'Dead or Alive'"

"Dep, bobby pins, and hairspray."

"Performing— that's why we did it."

"Making buttons that read 'LWC DO IT TO IT!!'"

"DIET COKE."

"Where? That's way out in Portugal!"

"Simi, Santa Barbara, Northridge, and Chaffey."

"Missing first place by mere tenths of a point."

"Dodger Night."

"Secret Santas."

"But I don't want to wear team lipstick."

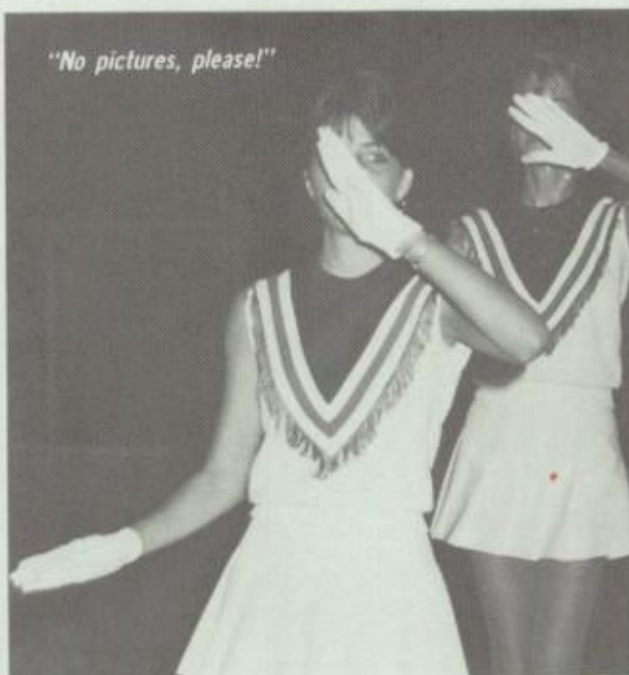

"Pow Wows!"

"What made Drill? The friends. The people, their actions, quirks, annoyances, smiles, and friendships. That's what made Drill Team."

1985- for Drill Team it was a year to remember. We overcame obstacles—adjusting to a new advisor, losing two captains, and having a very young team. Yet, we overcame these barriers and won a superior trophy at camp, and first place at Simi, Chaffey, and at Frontier's Day Parade. For all involved, being on Drill team made high school a special memory.

I caught it!

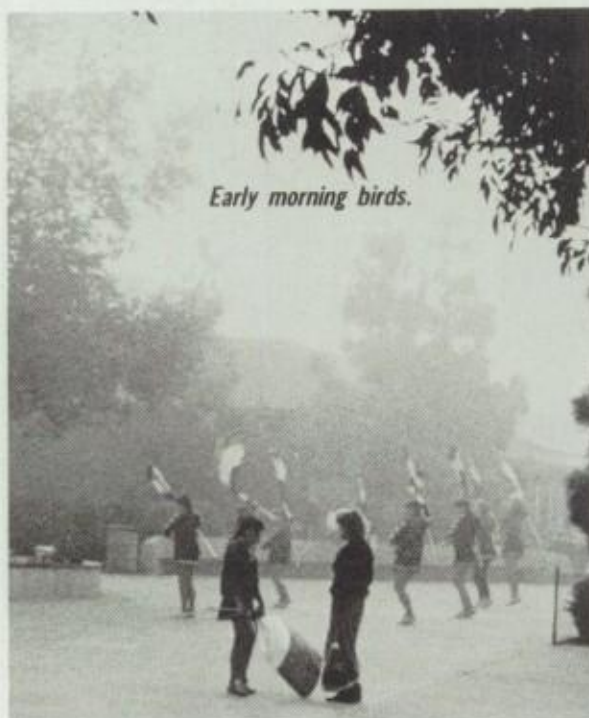

The 1985-86 flag team had a busy and eventful year. During the summer, the girls traveled to U.S.A. camp. By winning a second place plaque, a Superior trophy, and a Spirit Stick, the team began a most successful year. Also, the girls won the Sweepstakes trophy at the Frontier's Day Parade and a first place trophy at the Chaffy College field show competition. When they were not busy competing or selling candles and sausage, the flag teamers performed at rallies, football games, Homecoming, and Spirit Night.

The team had to work hard for their success, for it was not always easy with the many changes and hardships they faced. One change was in the team's appearance. No longer did the girls wear long sleeved polyester mini dresses. Instead, they donned skin-tight black unitards, sequined leg warmers, and a sequined overlay. Also, since eight of the seventeen girls on the team were new members, hard work and effort dominated the morning and afternoon practices held five days a week.

Along with the long hours of practice, the team had many fun times as well that will be remembered for years to come.

The offices held by Flag team members were as follows:

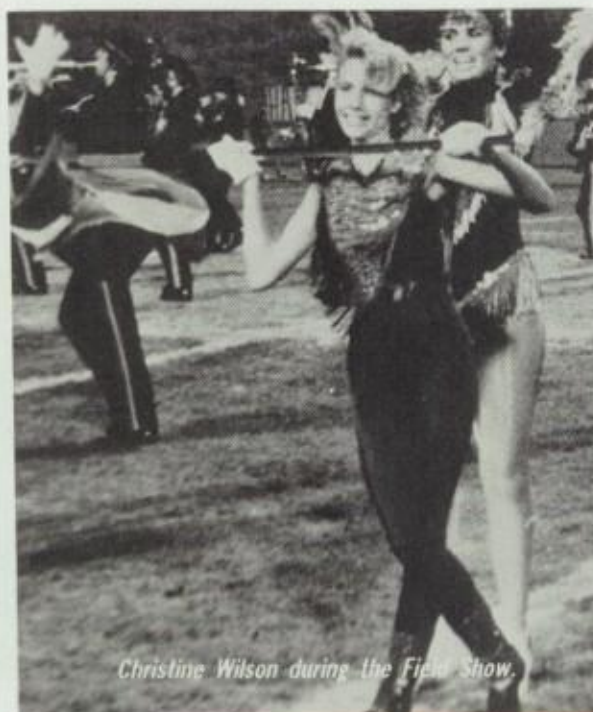

Captain—Kari Vlashart
Co-Captain—Dominique Cabrera
President—Heather Drobney
Treasurer—Julie Olsten
Social Director—Louise Meekings

Unity and winning spirit were definitely the secrets to Pep squad's success in 1985. The twenty-seven cheerleaders had a busy year, rooting at events ranging from football games to swim meets to track competitions. They also performed enthusiastically in rallies and cheering competitions. Early in the morning, the girls were at school, stretching, drilling, rehearsing routines over and over again. And long after the last bell had rung they worked in the halls, perhaps making posters for the big game, planning an activity, or just practicing. Captain Kelli Vollom, assisted by Lisa Fadale and Lisa Guagliardi, led the Varsity squad in claiming first place at the L.A. Watts Summer Games Competition and third place at the Blair Competition.

The Junior Varsity and Freshman squads each displayed their Indian spirit under the leadership of JV captain Wendi Manwaring and Freshman captain Allison Thatcher. Their enthusiastic and spirited performances hold promise for next year's squad. Guiding them along the way was their ever-faithful advisor, Mrs. Shenberger. She also showed her dedication to Hart through her appearances at football, basketball, and volleyball games.

Together and apart, the three cheerleading squads displayed the spirit of Hart High. Their hard work, winning smiles, and precise moves earned them the prestigious "Superior Plus" award.

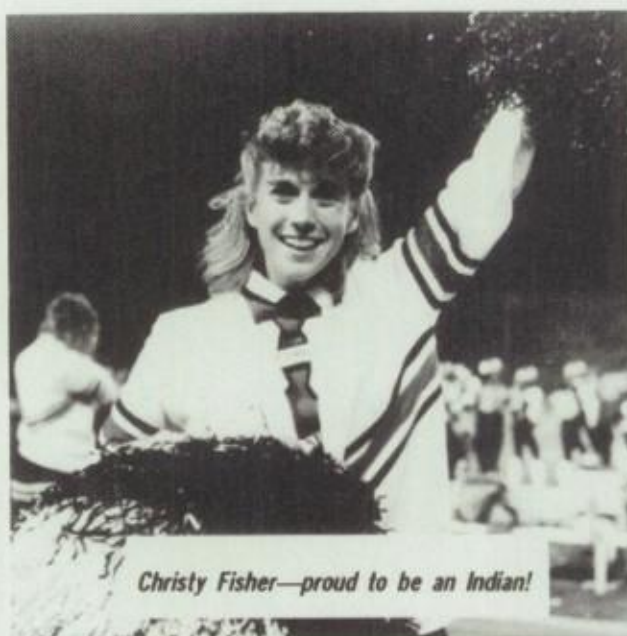

When asked about her experiences as a cheerleader, one sophomore replied, "It's a lot of hard work but believe me, it's worth it!"

This was a great year for both Concert Choir and Sound Vibrations. Both not only experienced a growth in membership but also a change in costume.

Short dresses for the girls in Concert Choir replaced the traditional long dresses. Sound Vibrations, which for years was distinguished by its different colored dresses for the girls and matching shirt and pants for the guys, opted for a more professional show - choir look of matching black dancing outfits and tuxedos.

The number of people in Concert Choir this year was higher than it has been in many years, topping off at over fifty singers, and giving it a fuller sound. Sound Vibrations changed its form this year by expanding from twelve to eighteen members. The addition of nine girls improved the choreography, which was remarked upon as being the best Sound Vibrations had ever done.

Concert Choir's first performance was the annual Christmas Concert, at which Sound Vibrations also sang some inspiring Christmas tunes.

In May both groups at the annual Spring Concert and traveled to San Jose for a music festival. The trip an experience of great fun and great music - both Concert Choir and Sound Vibrations won trophies for superior performance, as well as soloist Helen Lee for her individual performance.

Sound Vibrations entered alone in some show choir competitions, and although they didn't win any trophies, they still enjoyed the experience and learned from it.

New at Hart last year was the fall production of "The Shame of the Tombstone." This production was a western melodrama. Tammy Chapman, Chris McGlothin, and Noel Fields performed in the leading roles. This, the first dinner theater production to be held at Hart, was highly successful.

Later in the year, the drama club members stretched their acting talents further and performed a musical, "Give My Regards to Broadway." This production starred Jane McGlothin and Mike Steinman.

In spite of a busy schedual, the drama club found time to enter a fall competition. Several members were able to reach the semi-finals, including: Jennifer Ecert, Angela Skinner and Sidney Patrick.

Secretary - David Takeuchi

Take One—It's Tuesday morning, 7 am, and 31 prompt ASB members are waiting patiently for your friend and mine, Mr. Dale Basey, to arrive and unlock the door to G-1. Inside G-1 there will be extensive talk regarding open lunch, kazoo sales, and parking lot pandemonium.

Take Two—It's Thursday at lunch and the aroma of Dominoes pizza escapes G-1 and penetrates the quad. ASB meets again. Under the supreme leadership of President Trevor Waterson and Vice President Mikala Limbrecht, the 85-86 executive board—David Takeuchi, Dan Ramos, Kyle Younkers, Mike Holden, Jennifer Stivers, Amy Silver, Susan Lange, Travis Wilson, Christa Foster—had a fun-filled, productive term in office.

Take Three—Friday, Game Day. . . Throughout the campus are white sweatshirts with red stripes. . . Hart ASB.

Student League was very busy coordinating the three main events of 1985/86— Homecoming, the Winter Formal and the Tea and Fashion Show. This vigorous group took an active part in enhancing school spirit and supporting activities through fundraisers.

Hats off to the officers, Jackie Mittlestadt (President), Alisa Land (V.P.), Krista Foster (Secretary), Diane Novak (Historian), Mrs. Kase and Mrs. Howell who served as the new advisors, and all those who took part in making each event something to remember.

Journalism & History

Typeset . . . paste-up . . . lay-out . . . print . . . The students who took journalism during the 85-86 school year learned every aspect of printing a newsmagazine. The year sped by as everyone spent hours writing and rewriting, laying-out, and re-laying out, their articles. The work seemed endless but the results were magnificent. Three Hart Beat magazines were published during the year. Articles on Senior Cut Day and the record rating section provoked thought among the students and the magazine provided a forum for student thought and complaints. Good writing combined with talented photographs and artwork resulted in magazines that were extremely impressive.

After many years absence, Hart High once again has a History Club on campus. It was the brainchild of Mr. Neale and his tenth grade World History classes. Activities this past year had a two-fold purpose: enrichment of the student's appreciation of local historical and cultural centers, and enjoyment of the recreational opportunities offered by the Southern California climate.

Club officers were:

Celes Bickerman President
Mike Fischer Vice President
Lisa Forssell Secretary/Treasurer

"Hey, where'd you put that cheat sheet??"

This is a picture of Kyle Thomas and he's in FBLA.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays during lunch in F-33 one could find the answers to such questions as: Who succeeded Winston Field as prime minister of Rhodesia on April 15, 1964? What mountain peak was James A. Whitaker the first American to climb in 1963? The Hart Brainstormers, led by Mrs. Huenink, met twice each week to exercise their gray matter in preparation for competition against Canyon and Saugus High Schools in the annual Battle of the Brains. The Brainstormers also took on the master minds of the Hart faculty in a lunch time competition—the ultimate intellectual challenge!!

The Future Business Leaders of America is the largest club on Hart's campus. With almost eighty members involved in the '85-'86 school year, FBLA has a lengthy list of accomplishments. From hosting a Southern Section Workshop to having two members on the state board, this group succeeded in developing its goal of "competent aggressive business leadership."

French Honor Society French Club

The French Honor Society was established to recognize students who master this elegant language. These students can boast of A grades in the French classes they have completed. The French Honor Society consists of first through fourth year French students and Monsieur Hughes who serves as advisor.

Member, Gwyn Thurston, said, "I have learned another language and also have learned of another culture. Learning the French language has given me the desire to see France and live in it's culture."

Soft music is playing as the aroma of Chicken Cordon Bleu fills the air. No, this is not a small cafe' in Paris, but one of the French Club's gourmet dinners. Under the supervision of Bill Hughes, the French Club was revived and looks even more promising for next year's members.

Officers for the fall semester were: Ron Puckett (President), K.C. Thomas (Vice-President), Shellie Caouette (Secretary), and Chris Butler (Treasurer). Fall semester's activities included seeing LA CAGE AUX FOLLES and selling T-shirts and buttons.

Spring semester elections brought something new to the club. Shellie Caouette and Sara Fogan worked as Co-Presidents, and Celes Eckerman and Chris Harvey shared the job of Vice-President. Other officers were Kelly Johnson (Secretary) and Jordana Fogan (Treasurer). The spring semester was highlighted by numerous gourmet dinners.

Translated into English, "Nosotros Unidos" means "We are united." This is a Spanish speaking club at Hart advised by Mrs. Lacy. Their activities during the 1985-86 school year included a bake sale. Nosotros Unidos donated all proceeds from this sale to the Red Cross Relief in Mexico.

SADD—Students Against Driving Drunk—formed on campus this year to remind Hart students that friends don't let friends drive drunk. Rather than encouraging a large membership, SADD stresses a widespread attitude and message that urges students not to drive while intoxicated.

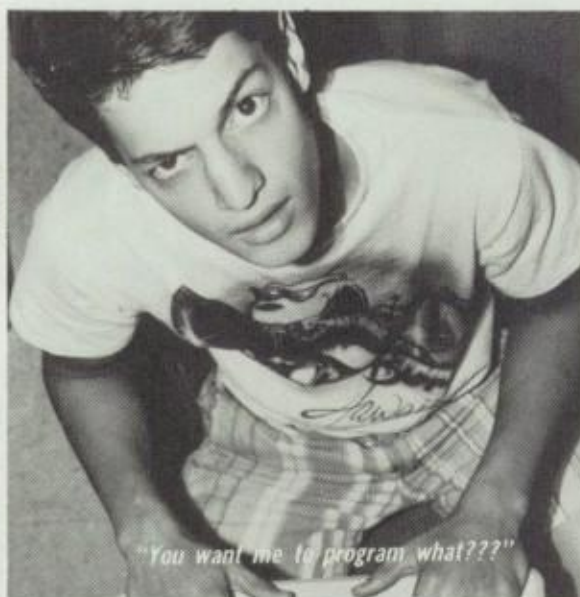

Before the formal and prom, business cards with the Dont Drink and Drive message were put in the pockets of tuxes and in corsage boxes. Prior to vacations, posters and banners were hung throughout the quad and parking lot. The most vivid reminder presented by SADD was the float in the Homecoming Parade.

Affiliated with the national SADD organization, the Hart chapter looks forward to a successful and important future.

Computer Club & Photo Club

Dan Daily, Bob Shah, and Tony Berquam.

"You want me to program what???"

"Sneaky shot" makes again

"Computer people don't lose their memory." The Computer Club a new club to Hart High, is advised by Mrs. Deloria.

This club participated in several national computer contests throughout the 85-86 school year. Two components make up a computer contest: a written test comprised of questions on Boolean algebra, transistors, and the mathematical concepts involved in computer programming; and a challenging programming activity. The student writes a program and enters it into the computer within a time frame. The school's score is the sum of the 5 highest individual scores.

Hart's Computer Club can be proud of its achievements—the club ranked second in the state of California. Congratulations!

Photography is for capturing special moments. That is what the Photo Club does. It captures those special times between friends on film. Pumpkins with faces to scare off the spirits, dried corn stalks, dry ice, and a black background with an eerie red light set the scene for the Halloween pictures. A look of the snow and pine trees was created for the Christmas pictures. The profits from these pictures helped the club earn enough money to buy a new stereo for the photo room.

Colored balloons set the stage for the Easter pictures with profits helping to purchase new tripods for the studio. The Hart Breakers catalog, sponsored by the Photo Club, was sold during Sprolic Week with the money going to create a photo scholarship fund. In order to plan these pictures, there were many lunch meetings in Q-3. Deciding themes, creating scenes and making fliers and posters—these were the ingredients to successful pictures. Photo club's hope was that these pictures of special moments will be enjoyed for years to come.

For most students, getting an A in a class is a challenge, getting straight A's on a report card is extremely difficult, and maintaining a straight A, 4.0 average throughout high school is quite simply impossible. Yet there are those at Hart who do it, who successfully bring home straight A's semester after semester, year after year. Many of these successful students are members of the California Scholarship Federation.

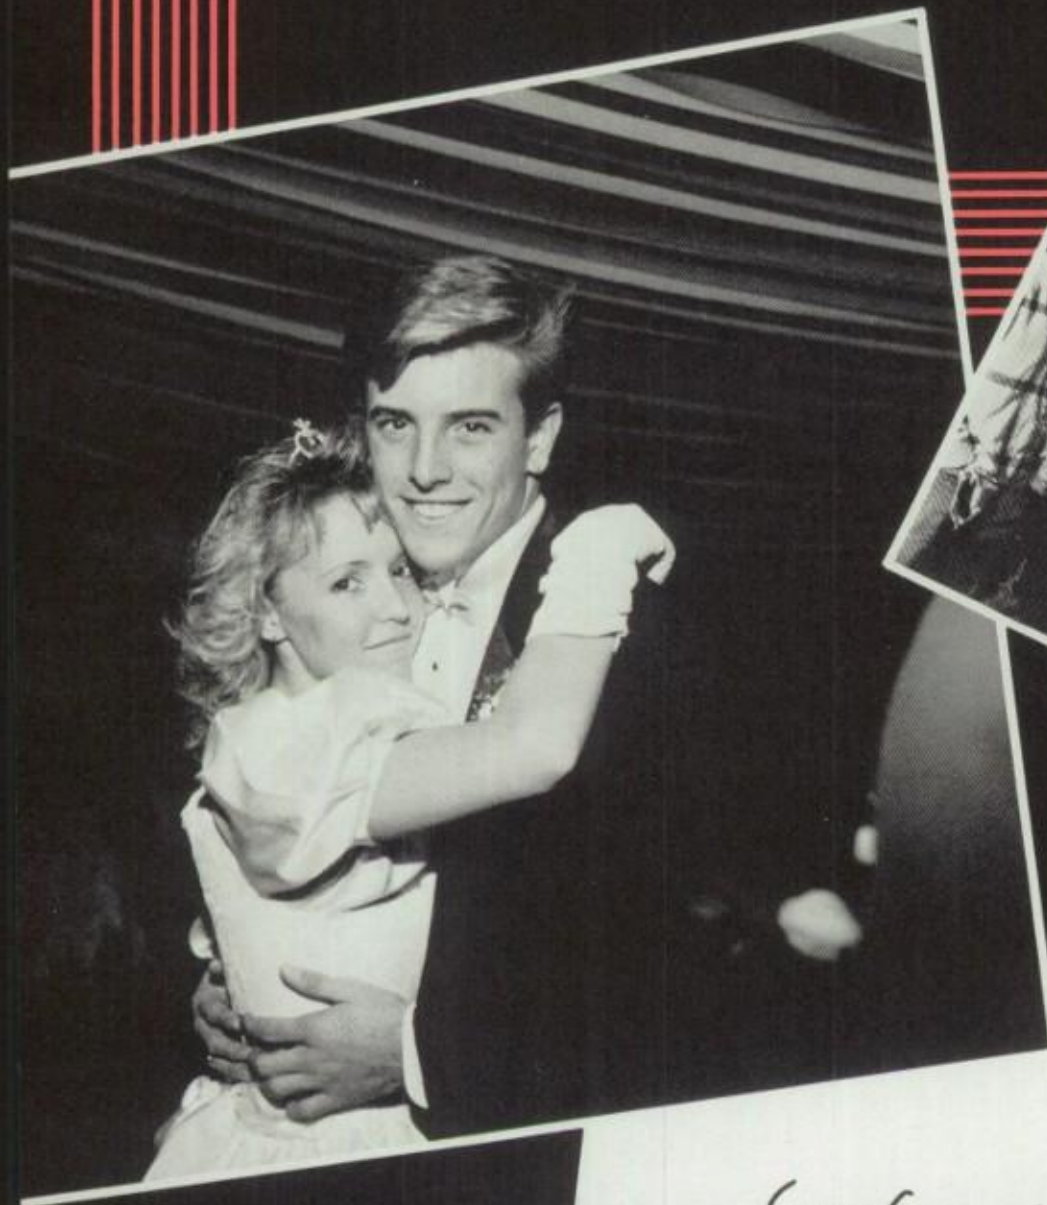

Having seen the size of Hart's 180 member C.S.F. club, one can't help but realize that Hart has something to brag about. For these students, whose major efforts are usually focused in the classroom, C.S.F. is a means of gaining recognition. If a student can qualify for membership for at least 3 of his 4 years in high school (a feat that requires almost all A grades), he is honored at graduation with a gold tassel worn with his cap and gown. C.S.F. also gives members a chance to share their talents with others through a tutoring program.

C.S.F. sponsors a tutoring program, which gives its members the opportunity to share their talents with others.

CONFIDENTIAL

ONCE UPON A TIME...

HOMECOMING

1985

The 1985 Homecoming Court: Lisa Fadale and Trevor Waterson; Jill Zepezauer and Travis Wilson; Lisa Rizzo and Colin Smyth; Queen Jackie Mittelstadt and King Rob Fotheringham; returning Queen and King Kathy Volding and Thane Blinman; Beth Baldwin and Tod Herrington.

Once upon a time . . . the dreams of two high school seniors came true. Jackie Mittelstadt, band conductor, Girls State representative, and all around nice person was crowned 1985 Homecoming Queen. Rob Fotheringham, Hart scholar and varsity basketball player reigned as Homecoming King.

The night began with the traditional parade around the field in old fashioned cars. The court represented all parts of Hart's diverse student body. The five fathers who were escorting their daughters, proudly sat in the back seats of the cars with their princesses, while the princes rode in front. As the band, drill team, and flag team performed an excellent half-time show, the five couples nervously walked across the football field to the stage. They lined up on the stage, which was decorated beautifully by Student League. Mr. Henricks announced each couple. Student League had once again presented another excellent Homecoming ceremony.

When asked what she thought about her new royal title, Jackie said, "It was a dream come true!"

WINTER FORMAL FOREVER YOUNG 1985

December 7, 1985. For many students at Hart, this date was especially memorable. It was the night of this year's Winter Formal, "Forever Young." The gymnasium was transformed into a Winter Wonderland by the Student League and 225 couples arrived, wearing elegant dresses and tuxedos. This year's dance was the first to use a D.J. instead of a live band, and the students all agreed that this was a big success. Students danced, talked, and enjoyed hors d'ouerves and the company of their special dates.

The Winter Formal court was announced and the evening was highlighted by the crowning of Queen Susan Lange and King Cedric Ingram. After the King and Queen were crowned, most of the students sped off in cars or limousines to dinner, the beach, Westwood, or another special place. When the evening was over, everyone agreed that the Student League and ASB helped to make this a night to remember forever.

HOOP-DE-LA 1986

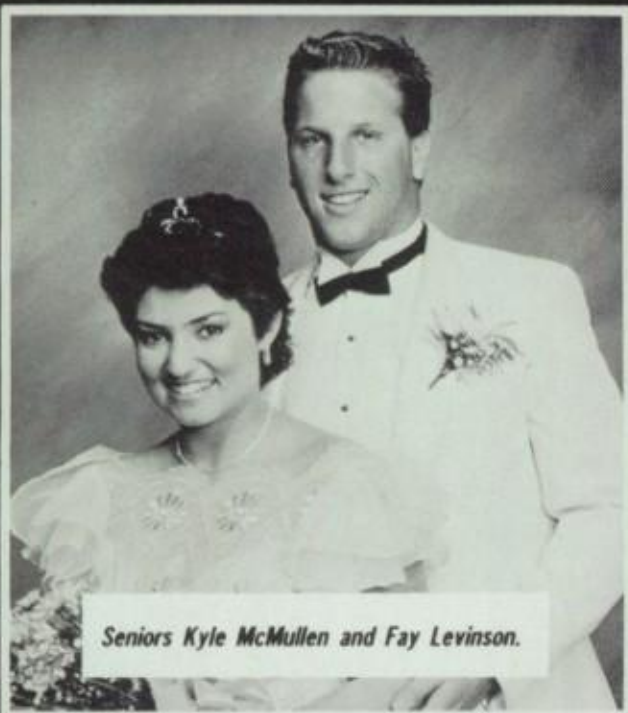

On Thursday, February 13, during halftime of the last basketball game, Hart's 1986 Hoop-de-La court was honored. The Freshmen class organized this gala event, decorating the gym beautifully with flowers, trees and a long, red walkway. The princesses and princesses from each class were announced first, including: freshmen Kim Kenzel and David Toledo, sophomores Audrey Collins and Mark Felan, and juniors Heidi Hultz and Bryan Milner. The senior court was composed of Kelli Vollom and Robbie Robinson, Shellie Caouette and Greg Jenkins, Fay Levinson and Kyle McMullen. As the court paraded down the red runway, clad extravagantly in formal dresses and tuxedos, the crowd buzzed with anticipation. Finally, King Robbie Robinson and Queen Kelli Vollom were announced. The crowd went wild — it was truly an evening to remember!

The Tea and Fashion Show...

September: Lisa Fadale, Rob Fotheringham

On Thursday, May 22, 1986, Hart students gathered to honor the boys and girls of the month. Showing off the latest fashions, the models proved themselves pretty in pink. With the help of the hard-working Student League, the fashion show turned out to be an enormous success.

Twenty outstanding seniors were chosen by students and teachers to the honored positions of boys and girls of the month.

The months represented were September, Lisa Fadale and Rob Fotheringham; October, Lisa Guagliardi and Mike Holden; November, Sandy Tapp and Trevor Waterson; December, Jackie Mittelstadt and Tod Herrington; January, Susan Lange and Colin Smyth; February, Juliet Gainsborough and Kyle Thomas; March, Dianne Novak and John Zrofsky; April, Dia Warren and Steve Hollatz; May, Mae Chao and Kyle Younkers; and June, Karen Boyd and Rick Minnich.

After the brief introduction of the couples, the fashion show began. The models wore fashion supplied by various local merchants.

At the completion of the fashion show, the MCs, Mr. Hinman, and Mrs. Huenink announced Mike Holden and Jackie Mittelstadt as boy and girl of the year. The 38th annual Tea and Fashion Show was brought to another successful close.

PROM '86

Leather jackets, high-tops, mini-skirts, and sweats transformed into tuxedos, high-heel shoes, ruffles, and formals. This was "Heaven"—Hart's 1986 Junior-Senior Prom.

Hart students arrived at the Hyatt Regency in Los Angeles in anticipation of a wonderful evening filled with food, dancing, and pictures. Friends hugging, couples sneaking a kiss on the dance floor, and lots of smiles were all part of the Prom sponsored by the Class of '87.

After introducing each prom court couple, Mr. Strauss announced the 1986 Prom King and Queen—Mike Holden and Jill Zepezauer. The D.J. played "Heaven" by Brian Adams while Jill and Mike were joined by everyone on the dance floor.

As each lady left the Hyatt they were given a long stem red rose—something they could press and save as a symbol of the memories they hold of the long-awaited night.

TBA

1986 was a year of change for TBA, the annual Jazz/Pop show, featuring the Chieftans Jazz Ensemble, and the Sound Vibrations show choir.

Instead of TBA's usual venue in the cafeteria, where a small nightclub atmosphere was achieved, this year's shows on March 19th and 20th were held in the auditorium. Although this change detracted from the warmth of TBA it allowed for large crowds, more comfortable seats, and much better acoustics.

The Sound Vibrations opened the show with special arrangements of pop tunes, Manhattan Transfer standards, and many outstanding solos. The Chieftans provided great entertainment with their best performance in many years. The Chieftans floated around George Stone's latest, "Where or When," and burned right through the "Wind Machine."

The Change closed the final show with an excellent rendition of the Police tune, "Every Breath You Take." They pulled off the ultimate multi-key, funk version of the rock classic "Louie, Louie."

TBA represented the showcase of talent found among Hart's student body.

Do you remember the world the way it was? The winter sky was the theater for a limited engagement of Halley's comet. From the deserts of Mojave to the decks of Australian cruise liners, sky gazers focused their telescopes on this literally once-in-a-lifetime event. The comet wouldn't visit our planet for another 76 years.

A rash of terrorism scorched the deserts of the Middle East, and the airports and discoteques of Europe. The United States dealt with this problem carefully, precariously taking a position neither overly confident nor meek. Then Kaddafi's outright attack of an American aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean finally prompted U.S. retaliation. At 2:00 in the morning our bombers left airfields in Great Britain and attacked several military targets in Libya.

Ronald Reagan finished his fifth year in the White House after a traumatic summer of surgery to remove a tumor. Owing to the prosperous state of our country, the former actor was once again the hero of many Americans.

Tragedy touched the lives of millions when the space shuttle Challenger exploded on a live television broadcast shortly after lift-off from Cape Kennedy in Florida. All seven crew members, including civilian school teacher, Christa McAuliffe, were instantly killed as the rocket fuel caught fire and debris crashed into the Atlantic Ocean. An intense investigation of NASA followed. A faulty O-ring was found and officials were accused of a lack of common sense.

The international scene was not without disasters. An earthquake devastated several cities in Mexico. The Presidential election in the Philippines was plagued by scandal. In the end former President Ferdinand Marcos and family were forced to leave, exposing to the world a corrupted government and incredible extravagance as with Mrs. Marcos 3,000 pairs of shoes. Anti-Apartheid demonstrations and riots prompted South Africa to declare a state of emergency and the airlines continued to experience bad luck with several more commercial jets crashing.

Even the Soviets experienced a terrible tragedy in the Chernobyl meltdown. When the nuclear reactor caught fire, dangerous amounts of radiation escaped into the atmosphere, proving to be harmful at best and fatal at worst to thousands of local residents. After a week of secrecy and cover-ups the Soviet government disclosed news of their disaster and a doctor from U.C.L.A. was among many sent to help people suffering from radiation sickness.

On the brighter side of things, it was a year of social reform taken into the people's hands. In the two Live-Aid concerts staged in Philadelphia and London, some of the world's most famous entertainers raised money for the starving people in Africa. Over a billion television viewers tuned in to see performers such as Tina Turner, Mick Jagger, Bob Dylan, Roger Daltrey, Elvis Costello and David Bowie. The spirit to help others also produced such programs as Farm Aid and Hands Across America. Millions of dollars were raised and attention was called to the needy of our world.

Americans were struck by Miami Vice and Cosby Show fever. Don Johnson led the fashion industry with his two-day stubble and designer suits while almost every man, woman, and child rushed home, ate dinner and finished homework on Thursday nights to watch Bill Cosby and his television family deal with family situations. Sports fans watched Pete Rose break Ty Cobb's record of over 4,000 hits. Super Bowl XX saw the New England Patriots and Chicago Bears strutting their stuff on M-TV in rock-videos like the "Super Bowl Shuffle." Madonna and Bruce Springsteen led the rock and roll craze with concerts across America.

Do you remember the Santa Clarita Valley the way it was? Controversy shrouded paradise, especially on the political scene. A sustained effort to approve a proposal for cityhood echoed in the Halls of Antonovich. Mayor Bradley lost any remnants of support in this Republican stronghold when he avidly pursued erecting a state prison in Saugus. And Rep. Bobbi Fiedler and State Sen. Ed Davis, once prime contenders in the U.S. Senate race, saw their hopes dashed by a supposed scandal. Slapped across the front page of our very own SIGNAL, the continuing saga of accusations against Space Ordinance Systems was recounted. An overwhelming influx of "Yuppies" tromped on our doorstep. The Bouquet intersection, Hidden Valley complex, Industrial Center, and our local schools were all reminders of our population explosion. History found a permanent archive on the sidewalks of San Fernando Road when the Walk of Fame was conceived. Thatcher Glass was shut down, the Saugus train station was relocated, and an annual Arts and Crafts festival was begun.

Do you remember Hart the way it was? Full of life, action, and a times, sorrow. From Hanigan to Strauss, from White to Schirmer, Louis to Basey, and Sweet to Scott, we have endured many changes. There were the pre-game rallies with class contests, cheers, skits, pep talks Johnson concluded the pep squad tryouts with a rendition of his own. Trying to get attention was the theme of Danny Honick's immortal speech. If graded strictly on his adherence to the topic, he should have received an A+, as he gave an upfront exposition in Mrs. Warren's class.

We persevered as different groups, clubs, and cliques made for diversity and security on campus. The outlandish Party Vikings skated and destroyed, the STSTSTs mimicked the STSTs, the Newval Yacht Club searched for a vessel, and the APers studied at Winchell's.

Yes, I remember.

Thanks Sandy and Mike for everything. I hope you are successful, you will always be my "best buds." Holly, good luck! Your personality will take you far! Kelli, Don't ever forget me. I'll never forget our friendship. Jimmy, don't be moody. Beat Canyon. See you at S.D. Mikala, thanks for a great A.S.B. time! Goodbye Hart!! Thanks, T

All the memories, all the pain, all the friends — is the meaning of high school! Ask yourself was it worth it? The fake society within the other, the world where difference is the divider! Were you with your friends because you liked them or for another reason? Be yourself and learn from your mistakes. M.G.

"They slipped the surly bonds of earth to touch the face of God"

They would have seemed out of place at a supermarket check-out counter or standing in line to see a movie. They could have come together by chance just about anywhere in the U.S. Nothing odd here, in this assemblage of sexes and ethnic strains and religions, except maybe the extraordinary American experiment in equality inching forward, for the nation and the world to see, and being taken largely for granted.

Christa McAuliffe, the schoolteacher, received most of the attention, and is easy to see why. She was articulate and photogenic, a reminder to everyone of what classroom experiences were or should have been. Her presence made this shuttle flight different from the 24 that had gone before. She would be our representative in space, carrying the proxy for those of us who cannot go because we are too old or too young or too timid, or too busy holding down jobs, raising families and worrying about the mortgage. She called herself an "ordinary person," and that is how many fellow citizens, stirred and flattered by what she was attempting on their behalf, came to think of her.

No one chosen from among more than 11,000 applicants to make history is entirely ordinary. Nobody aboard the Challenger was ordinary. But the other six crew members were our representatives too. Like the teacher, their jobs involved bigger risks and greater sacrifices than many others. But when they went home they found spouses and children, friends, phone calls to return, the ups and downs of daily living. When they wanted to relax, they played the saxophone or the piano, they painted oil pictures or jogged.

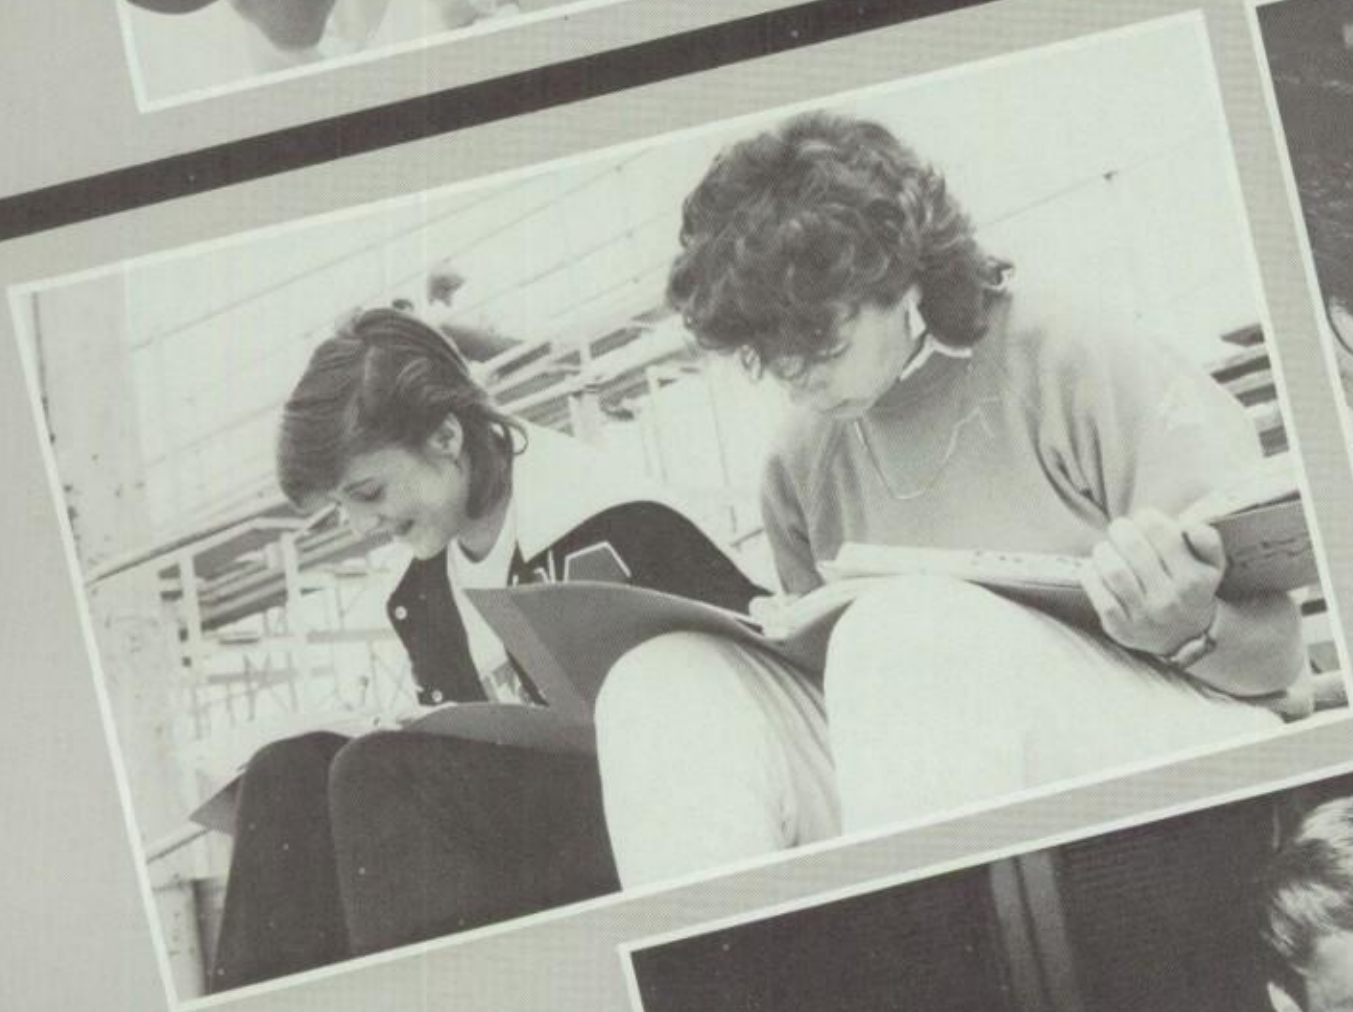

They were, all of them, human like us. Their courage and ambition took root in the familiar sustained by circumstances and routines that everyone can recognize. On that last morning they were in preflight isolation but still a part of us. They got up and dressed, had breakfast and went to work.

GIFT OF
CLASS OF FRIENDS . . .

... I will remember you.

Taking roll and taking pictures. Developing film and developing anxiety. Grease pencils and greasy Chinese food. 3-R Planners and planning a ladder diagram. Meeting deadlines and meeting on weekends. Yearbook was many things to the dedicated students in Q-3.

For most people, the yearbook simply seemed to magically appear. Few remember that a small group of students labored endless hours the year before to pull it all together. Their job was far from simple; they designed, wrote, photographed, advertised, sold, brainstormed, and vegetated. Starting with nothing, they created the Tomahawk.

In her first year at Hart, Mrs. Hunt agreed to be yearbook advisor and quickly assumed control, correlating the numerous activities required to complete a yearbook. The two senior editors, Justine Cabbage and Kyle Younkers, aided Mrs. Hunt in coordinating an efficient staff, planning a format, and delegating assignments.

Photographers rushed to unload, develop, and print the innumerable rolls of film while staff writers interviewed students assigned specific pages for lay-out, a process which involved determining the design of pictures and written words on a page. These students learned to be artists, reporters, and salesmen.

The members of any yearbook staff do not have an easy job. They are producing something which will be kept and treasured for the rest of a graduate's life. High school is a time of very special memories and it is the job of those in Yearbook to capture these memories forever.
